The Protestant Methodist Church at Burton will be dedicated Saturday and Sunday, June 17 and 18.
The Ready Helpers will hold a social Friday evening, June 16th, at the residence of Mrs. Nancy Gould.
Our report of the agricultural meeting is unavoidably crowded out of this issue, but will appear next week in full.

Charles Mathews, a youth of 15 years, had one of his arms badly cut at the Estey factory on Tuesday afternoon.
A number of Owosso people took in the Lansing fair on Friday last. Which one of them enjoyed the swim in Grand river?
The Ladies Aid Society will furnish dinner and tea as usual on Saturday, at their rooms, with ice cream in the evening.

Note what our correspondent says about the dedication of the new Protestant Methodist church at the flourishing village of Burton.
On Sunday evening last, the Rev. O. Parker of Corunna preached in the M. E. church, having exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Reed.
In the 225 class at the Detroit races Jerome Eddy was placed as follows in the different heats: 5-5, 3-2-2. Best time in the race 2:22.

The shade trees along the streets of Owosso, present a beautiful appearance, and the flower gardens attest to the cultured taste of our citizens.
B. O. Williams was in attendance, and furnished a historical paper on the early school in Detroit, at the Pioneer society meeting in Lansing this present week.
The Eaton and Barry District Lodge, I. O. G. T., will hold its next meeting at Eaton Rapids on the 14th inst. All members of the order are cordially invited.

Read the card of Dr. J. Black, of Lapeer. Dr. Black has rented rooms in Stewart & Co's. bank building, and intends making his residence here. Success to him.
The Michigan Central Railroad will soon run parlor cars on their morning train south and afternoon train north on the Saginaw Division, between Bay City and Jackson.
The frosts predicted by Vernon for the 7th and 8th of June forgot to put in an appearance. We hope that may be the case with those he predicts for the 25th and 26th.

On Saturday last, Mr. H. W. Parker deposited in one of our banks some seven hundred dollars, and on the same night his store at Oakley was broken open, but fortunately only a few dollars were found and taken.
The Owosso Base Ball club had a friendly game with the Vernon club at Vernon, yesterday. The Owosso boys were victorious by a score of 9 to 6. A return game is to be played in this city on Wednesday next.

The ball boys wish to grant the privilege to someone of putting up a grand stand on ball grounds, with a seating capacity of from 5 to 6 hundred. Certainly this opportunity should be accepted and a stand built at once.
J. E. Smith of Ypsilanti, reports the following sales from his flock of registered Merino sheep, to the citizens of Byron, this county: G. N. Eddy, 80 ewes; E. Burlingame, 10 ewes; Leonard Chaffee, 10 ewes; J. B. Dun, 5 ewes.

The Shiawassee Journal says:—At the close of a sermon, an exchange says, the minister became impressive. Raising his voice, he said: "Judgment! Judgment!" and a small boy in the vestibule shouted, "Out on First!"
Mr. G. M. Graham, general agent for McCormick's goods, was thrown from a carriage Wednesday, by the breaking of the "king" bolt, and severely injured, one rib was broken, another fractured, besides being generally bruised.

It is stated that the Methodist of this country spend $10,000 every day on building and repairing their houses of worship. Well they have a good many men like Rev. S. Reed, and the public are reaping the reward of their labors.
Mrs. Dr. Arsenath Smith died at her home on Park St. on Saturday morning. She had been a resident of this city for a number of years. Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon by B. F. Matrau. Her remains were taken to Bristol, Vt.

The Summer Institute to be established at Potoseky the present season is justly attracting much attention from the teachers and students throughout the State. The faculty will consist of well known professors from the State Normal Hillsdale College, and the University.
P. M. Roth left at our office one day this week two packet-books which he found near the store of N. McBain. In one there is a note given by J. B. Curtis, to N. McAvery, a number of receipts etc. The owner can have the same by calling at this office, proving property and paying charges.

The G. H. & M. railway will issue tickets from all stations to Detroit and return for one fair, on the occasion of Grand Reunion of the Army of the Potomac. Tickets good going to Detroit on the 13, 14 and 15th days of June, and good to return on any train not later than the 16th. We hope to see Owosso largely represented.
For the farmer, stock breeder and all interested in stock raising, we commend the National Live Stock Journal. There is no other stock paper so full of articles of general interest to all as the Journal. It is printed monthly, and each month's magazine seems to be better than that of the preceding. Subscriptions received at this office.

Soldiers, attention! Milo B. Stevens & Co., the well known war claim attorneys, will be represented at Corunna, Monday and Tuesday, June 26th and 27th, by their special agent, Frank I. Darling. Soldiers and others interested in claims for pension, increase of pension, or other claims, it is hoped, will give him a call. Mr. Darling will be at the office of the County Clerk.
The Ovid Register says:—The Ovid and Owosso Congregational pulpits exchanged pastors last Sunday. The Owosso minister is so full of humor that it bubbled out in nearly every sentence. At the commencement of his eloquent morning discourse he said the predigal son was none of your dry, juiceless boys. The young reverend gentleman is a member of the Owosso base ball club which will take a licking at the hands of the Detroit club in the near future.

A large audience greeted the performance of "A Celebrated Case" in this city by the Lee & Rix Combination, and accorded the play a warmth of approbation which sufficiently demonstrated the peculiar dramatic strength and popular interest it possesses. It is scarcely needful to recall the elements which have gained and always will gain for it a hearty welcome. It is essentially a popular drama, inasmuch as it combines in skillful proportions the picturesque and the emotional. The first of these was developed by the Lee & Rix Combination with a fullness and care that left little to be desired. The scenery, costumes and other material accessories were all new, bright, and, as a whole, appropriate. The play was, indeed, very prettily mounted, and the grouping of the figures was sufficiently artistic to make the successive scenes pleasing and attractive pictures. The company is quite uniform in attainments and work together with commendable harmony. Mr. Lee, as Jean Renaud, exhibited through earnestness, and the sincerity of his effort, and a voice which, when properly modulated, is pleasing, gave individuality to his work. Mr. Rix made quite a hit as Dennis O'Rourke. He ornamented the speech of the eccentric Irish sergeant with a rich brogue, and his manner with an unobtrusive drollery that helped to develop all the comedy which is in the part.—Detroit Post and Tribune, March 31.

The Dangers of the Stock Markets.
A man may be incredulous enough to risk his money in the fickle mysteries of a mercurial stock market but when he gets the Itching Piles, he goes straight for Dr. Swayne's Ointment. Unlike the Bulls and Bears of the Stock Exchange, who clean you out of hard earned cash, it returns your money with interest, in the way of allaying the intense itching and insuring sweet repose.
Rev. B. F. Matrau, who has been so seriously sick with brain difficulties for several days, is as we go to press, very low indeed.

We have tried it; tried what? Why the great blood remedy Johnston's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla! Having derived benefit from it, we use the scriptural injunction: "Go thou and do likewise."

In answer to the item printed below, taken from the Byron correspondence of the Shiawassee American, we give place to the following communication:
By the way, don't it look as if the statements of Mr. Platt, at Owosso, in relation to things in the Holy land, were tinged at times with a Gulliver turn of mind. Just think of a horse in the ascent of Mount Carmel, taking hold of a bush with his teeth, and at the same time, baboon like, encircling another bush with his tail, to aid in his onward and upward course. Of course the horse might have been trained for such emergencies, but the Rev. traveler did not say so. In fact he only "thought" the horse did as stated, and perhaps would not be tenacious of a correct opinion in the case.

Happening to meet Mr. Platt on the street the other day, I showed him this extract and told him frankly that I had been troubled with doubts about that same statement myself and wished he would explain it to me.
He said, "Oh, yes, certainly. You see they take the horses when they are very young and train them, just as we do a dog. They pick up a stick and spit on it and then give it a throw and say, sic-em! The colt runs after it, takes it up in his teeth and comes back with it. When they try to get it away from him he holds on to it and allows himself to be lifted up from the ground with the stick held fast in his teeth. This, you see, serves to strengthen the perineal power of his jaws."
Yes, I see, said I, now how curious that is, ain't it?
"Then as to his tail. It is no uncommon thing in that country to see a man earnestly engaged in revolving his horse's tail like the crank of a hand-organ."
Is that so? What's that for?
"That's to lumber it up and get it ready for service. Then in order to familiarize him with the feeling of a bush behind, they simply wind his tail all up like a lady's back hair and stick a bush in it like a hair pin, and the horse wears it around until it becomes so natural to him that he can never pass by a bush after that without backing up to it and encircling it with his tail. Then his education is complete and he is ready to climb the mountain."

"Well now," said I, "how simple that is when it is once explained."
"Yes," said he, "and there are one or two other things in my lectures on Palestine which some people seem to be quite incredulous about, that I could explain just as simply if I only had the time. Good morning." P.

Facts vs. Wind.
After reading the article in the Owosso Press headed "Buckeye vs. McCormick" it is no longer a question in our mind where the "Fool Killer" would commence his work, in case he should come among machine men. No wonder the article has no signature of writer or firm attached. We should judge the Buckeye simpleton never had an opportunity to give a public exhibition of his "brilliant ideas" before. He says "Bring us some one who has got some brains." It is very evident he does not possess any. In a two column article he vainly attempts to say something smart and amusing, but evidently like everything they undertake it was an experiment and failure. The article however is in keeping with their style of doing business, deceiving, underhanded manner is the only way they seem to want to do business. They try to convey the idea to you that their binder is not an experiment by saying the "Buckeye has been built for 25 years, when the truth is, there is not a man this side of Texas ever saw them cut and bind a bundle of grain. If they had confidence in their binder, why do they ask you for your note before you or any one has a chance to see it work. They are afraid some of you will want to try something else, and if they have your note you cannot. Again they try to deceive you by telling the McCormick Co. have no agent, while they know it is false.

We have an agent, James A. Chapin, of whom we are proud. We are proud to say to the farmers of Shiawassee Co. "Jim" Chapin is our agent. He guarantees the McCormick machines, you can get your repairs of him, farmers have confidence in him, his word is good, his guarantee is good, he does not claim he "can sell you anything," he thinks something of his reputation, and will not ask his neighbors and friends to give him their notes for something an expert in Texas says is good, because he can buy it cheap. In buying the McCormick you buy it of Mr. Chapin. "No Windy Agent." No man who will write one thing in an order, and talk another and deceive you by getting you to sign something different than you suppose you are signing. Buckeye agents do that and I have the papers to prove it. Mr. Chapin won't do that. Buck-horn—Hart—Eye—Ammonia does. Do you think it will be necessary for a "great corporation with its millions" to "jump on to a little concern in Shiawassee Co." to ruin them. Don't you think such a manner of doing business will ruin any firm? It certainly will.

In the non-sensical two column article, they only speak of McCormick's "Windy Agent" 17 times, and once intimate that they realize they have no Brains this side of Lansing, by stating they "would probably send up to Lansing and get some one to write up something." For a man to so loudly proclaim the merits of something "He—get his—uncles, his—cousins or his—niece" never saw work stands in good position to talk about "wind" to an agent of a machine that every schoolboy knows has the best record of any binder earth, not only in Texas and Europe, but in Michigan and in Shiawassee Co.
They say one of their men, one who quit splitting rails, tried for two months to sell McCormick goods, but could not. I will give the reason in your man's own words, to: "he would go out and shake the bushes, and then Harshorn and Byrne would go and gather the fruits, not giving him a chance or letting him learn how to take orders for fear he would take orders for McCormick machines." Of course you would not allow that.
We trust some one will heed their frantic appeals. To bring some one who has got some brains. They need Brains from some source. Why don't you give the farmers just one reason why they should buy the Buckeye. You talk about "Kid gloved" "Under strappers—Wind Belows" etc., why do you not give the farmers the record of your self binders. Oh no! let by-gones be by-gones, give us a chance, let us "swindle the farmers." Why don't you be honest and show them the photograph you have in your pocket of the binder you propose to experiment with next year.

We can just as positively and knowingly stand up and swear that a baby in the cradle will be President of the United States and will make a better president than any of his predecessors, as the Buckeye Co. love how to claim they have a better binder than the McCormick and all others. In the babe you can see what may some day be a president, and a good one too, but don't bet on him, for out of the fifty million babes, only twenty-one (21) have become presidents. Notwithstanding many a fond parent has while rocking their "experimental" offspring flattered themselves they would live to see their child become president. But with twenty-one exceptions they have all been disappointed and off to the same parents have lived to see their offspring try by the aid of friends and money rise to fame, but alas; he is "found wanting," although to all appearances he is a "Garfield," his head may be the same size, wear as good or better clothes, but he is lacking in all the essential points and is soon forgotten, save by the heart-broken and bankrupt parents and a few friends of his parents who through respect to them had taken the youth to "experiment" with and had lost $20,000 by the operation.
Moral—The ambitious parents of the so called Buckeye binder imagined they could see in it a better binder than the McCormick and others, but they lived to see their experiment of last year proven a complete failure however not until friends of the "parents" had experimented at their own expense at great loss of time, money and grain. This year they have another "Infant" born "of the same parents who again imagine they can see that it is the most perfect of its kind, and ask you to experiment with the "Youth" at a time when you want a full "grown man" one that has been tried and tested.—That's the McCormick notwithstanding "Wind" from General (Whew) agent flavored with Amonia—(Hartshorn).
Look well to your interests and try a McCormick guaranteed by the McCormick Harvesting Machine Co., and James A. Chapin, of Owosso, which makes you perfectly safe in trying the Old Reliable McCormick.
