Such Music as Indians Make.

At the camp after the parade at Santa Fe, N. M., the Apaches put aside much of their finery and gathered in groups for games and songs. Their singing always attracts a crowd to the tents. The fashion is to sit in a circle, the leaders in a row, provided with tom-toms or other sounding instruments and the rest of the party with twigs, if procurable, or sticks or anything with which they can beat time on the palm of one hand. Two Comanches, rosegades from their own tribes and known as Comanche John and Domingo, handsome fellows with hawk eyes and perfect teeth are the best singers in the band. John has provided himself with a large dishpan. His knees are spread far apart to hold it. A half dozen others have tins of various sizes the smallest being a dipper. Buckskin has been stretched into drum covers for joints of stove pipes and for kettles. Rows tightly strung rest upright between the legs of three or four others and one genius has fashioned a rude instrument with strings resembling a banjo. Every performer has a stick about double the length and thickness of a lead pencil. John or Domingo sets the movement, and when all the little tins and tom-toms have caught the rhythm, which is a fast regular beating and the bow strings are thrumming and the palm switches falling in time with it, whoever may be in the lead starts a song. A compass of five notes is rarely exceeded except to strike an occasional octave and there is invariably a minor refrain. The entire band keep at this for hours with only occasional momentary resting spells. As the song goes on members of the circle rise, three or four at a time, and bob up and down with deacon like faces. The bobbing is said to call muscles into play that would soon exhaust persons not accustomed to it, but it looks like a tame and lazy performance. The signal for the end of it is given by an old fellow with a striped reed, on which he pipes a succession of nerve-trying notes. —Cor. Buffalo Courier.

She Took the Dry One.

"Single Ladies," said the Captain of an ocean steamer, "often cross the water under the special care of the captain of the ship. A very fascinating young lady was placed under my care, and three young gentlemen fell desperately in love with her. They were all equally agreeable, and the young lady was puzzled which to encourage. She asked my advice. 'Come on deck,' said I 'the first day when it is perfectly calm—the gentlemen will, of course, all be near you. I will have a boat quietly lowered down; then do you jump overboard and see which of the gentlemen will be the first to jump after you.' A calm day soon came, the Captain's suggestion was followed, and two of the lovers jumped after the lady the same instant. Between these two the lady could not decide. 'Take the man that didn't jump,' said the Captain, 'he's the most sensible fellow, and will make the best husband.' And she did.

EIGHT THOUSAND DOLLARS CASH.

STATEMENT OF S. L. GROAT.

I have been affected with rheumatism for the past twenty-five years; I have been so bad for the last three years that I have been obliged to use crutches all this time. I have tried every rheumatic remedy I could hear of, and have paid out in cash over eight thousand dollars, and I can solemnly say that I have never taken a medicine that has given me as much relief as Wilson's Lightning Remedy. And I consider it the best remedy for inflammatory or acute rheumatism that exists, and will give relief quicker than any other known remedy. My son was afflicted with the disease, and after taking the first dose he experienced a relief, and was perfectly cured of the disease after taking eight doses.

ANOTHER LIFE SAVED.

Mrs. Harriet Cummings, of Cincinnati, Ohio, writes:

Early last winter my daughter was attacked with a severe cold which settled on her lungs. We tried several medicines, none of which seemed to do her any good, but she continued to get worse and finally raised large amounts of blood from her lungs. We called in a family physician, but he failed to do her any good. We then called in a physician—a most skillful professor in one of our colleges—he said that she could not get well. At this time a friend who had been cured by Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, advised me to give it a trial. We then got a bottle, and before she had used it all up she began to improve, and by the use of three bottles was entirely cured.

LET US TELL YOU.

Let us tell you that a person who is bilious or constipated is not a well person, and further, that nearly every one is subject to these irregularities. Let us tell you also that Burdock Blood Bitters are one of the finest diuretics and aperients ever yet devised.

German Duels.

Here we also made the acquaintance of a Japanese prince; he had studied at the university for three years, spoke English and German perfectly, and in grace of manner could vie with any polished Frenchman. From him we learned some curious facts regarding the students' duels. One day in every week is set apart for these duels. When fighting for the honor of their "corps" they wear caps—a cuirass—over the breast, arms, and neck, leaving only the face uncovered, which they hack most unmercifully with their sharp and double-edged swords. I saw one or two of them horribly mutilated—the end of the nose cut off and the cheek laid open to the bone. It is only the "corps" or fighting students, who indulge in the innocent pastime. These duels are forbidden by law, and the authorities are always on the alert to take them in the act, but they seem to accomplish very little, owing to a very peculiar law of Germany, which forbids a gen d'arme, or policeman, from passing a nobleman or prince; so the students always have one on hand, and when they hear of an interfering party, they station the prince in front, who has only to raise his hand, when the police stand immovable and witness the whole proceeding, no doubt to their great delight. —Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

Domestic Economy.

One of the witnesses before the United States Senate Committee on Education and Labor made the sensible remark: "I believe more in domestic than in political economy." There is a whole volume of sound sense in this pregnant little sentence. The science of domestic economy is less understood among us than, perhaps, in any other country in the world. Nowhere is it better understood than in France. The United States is the paradise of butchers, and of all other classes who deal in the staple articles of necessity or of luxury. Even in the humblest homes there is a vast margin of waste and extravagance. Miss Juliet Corson has shown how a good dinner for three or four persons, and embracing several courses, can be provided for less than a dollar; but in how many houses are her excellent recipes followed? It is not an exaggeration to say that two or three hundred thousand persons could be comfortably supported on what is thrown away every day in the week in New York. The politicians will take care of political economy, so far at least as drawing their salaries and saving the Republic are concerned. It is the domestic branch of the science which needs more general cultivation.

A steam buggy being made at Augusta, Ga., will have two wheels behind and but one in front. The machinery will be located in front, also water and gasoline tanks. The boilers are heated by two gasoline burners. The front wheel is extra large, and will bear the entire weight of the machinery. As it is the traction wheel, this will serve to good purpose, by weighting it firmly to the earth. The rear of the machine will be the same as an ordinary buggy, with ample room for several persons. The engines can be worked with ease by any one in the buggy, and can be guided in any direction at the will of the operator. Its average speed is estimated at a mile in three minutes.

A BAD CASE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE CURED.

AUBURN, CUYAGA CO., N. Y., Sept. 29, 1882.

Rheumatic Syrup Co.—I should have written you before in regard to the Rheumatic Syrup which you sent me, but have been waiting to see if the result was permanent. I can confidently say that it has had a very gratifying effect on my wife, relieving her of all pain within three days after she commenced taking it. I also gave away one bottle of the Syrup to a friend, which had the same effect as on my wife. My wife has suffered great pain from rheumatism and kidney difficulty for years, and at times could hardly move. She has tried many medicines recommended to no purpose. It is the only remedy that gave her permanent relief. Yours, ROBERT S. ARMSTRONG.
