STREETS OF PRIME IMPORTANCE

Were we unfortunate enough to be the street committee of the Ashland city council we would consider two Ashland streets of prime importance. These are the streets running up to the automobile camp ground. The one starting at the First National bank corner and the other the park drive up Mill street.

The first impression a stranger gets of a city goes for in determining his chance of settling there. Most of Ashland's newcomers are arriving by automobile and camping in our free grounds. The streets leading to the camp grounds should be kept always in fine repair—smooth and easy as a boulevard—indicating the spirit of the city to keep up its property in good shape. Before the fall rains set in these streets should be gone over with special view to drainage so that the great rats that lack of care would bring this winter would be done permanently away with. Where culverts are needed to carry away flood waters, where gutters are needed, where the street needs crowning to keep them dry, the work should be done now. It will pay big returns on the investment.

STUDENT ROOMS OBTAINED

(Special to The Tidings.)
UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Sept. 10.—The housing situation at the university, which was a perplexing problem a few weeks ago in view of the large increase in enrollment, has been remedied by the response of the people of Eugene in offering spare rooms to the students.

Professor H. A. Clark, chairman of the faculty committee arranging a list of lodging places for the students, has been canvassing the town with splendid success.

DEATH THAT DUE TO INDIGESTION

The body of the late Chauncey Stoddard, who was found dead in his tent at the Oaker Huber camp on the Siskiyou, was brought in to Ashland last evening and is being held here until the county coroner arrives. According to reports from the camp the deceased complained of indigestion in the forenoon, and had retired to his tent after seeking the cook camp to obtain soda to relieve his trouble. That was the last any one remembered of seeing him, and it is supposed that heart failure probably resulted following an attack of acute indigestion. Arrangements for the funeral will be made later.

ALBERS APPEAL TO BE ARGUED

(By the United Press)
PORTLAND, Sept. 11.—The case of Henry Albers, who appealed from a sentence of three years and a fine of $10,000 given by the United States district court on a charge of making disloyal remarks relative to the government, will be argued in the United States circuit court of appeals at San Francisco on October 14, according to advices received in Portland yesterday. The case will be argued for the government by United States Attorney Haney and Deputy United States Attorney Goldstein.

Former Citizen Back to Ashland

John O. Rigg is back from Gooding, Idaho, where he went several weeks ago with a view to locating. The attractions of Ashland proved too strong, however, and he could not resist the longing to return to the Lithia City. While in Gooding Mr. Rigg met Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Douglas, former pastor of the Methodist church of Ashland, who are now located in that city. He stated that Mrs. Douglas has just returned from a three weeks' visit in Colorado, while Mr. Douglas was just home from Idaho conference, from where he had been returned to the pastorate of the Gooding Methodist church with an increase of salary.

APPEAL FOR HELP TO REMOVE CATTLE

Water Commissioner Earl Hooser reports that cattle are running about over the watershed up Ashland canyon at their own sweet will, despite the word sent to the forest reserve office stating that they must look after cattle there and keep them away. Mr. Hooser stated that he made a trip up the canyon last Sunday and saw a large number of cattle all over the mountains, through Wagner gap and near Mount Ashland. The wire fences have been cut, he said, in several places, allowing the cattle to roam at will wherever they wish to feed. At the last meeting of council it was decided to make one more appeal to the forestry, but meantime take the matter up with U. S. Senators Chamberlain and McNary by telegram and see if government heads cannot remedy the matter.

GREAT DOUBLE BILL AT VINING

Charlie Chaplin is seen as a "hired man," the much imposed upon slave of a hypocritical farmer in "Sunny-side," his third million dollar comedy to be released by First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

The action in "The Trap," a Universal production, takes place in the Yukon, during the gold-rush days, and reverts to New York. The wild, picturesque scenery of the Klondike, the habits of the men and women who went there to cajole the yellow harpy gold are portrayed with intense realism, it is said. The subsequent events, which transpire in New York, reflect the plot strength of the Davis story. In bas-relief to the plot and action are the photographic possibilities present when depicting homes of wealth. The aggressive methods of the men who vie with each other for a place in New York's business world, are faithfully portrayed.

The part is distinctly different from Chaplin's characteristics in "A Dog's Life," in which he played the role of a young city man, and "Shoulder Arms," in which he was a soldier, the two first $1,000,000 comedies produced by Mr. Chaplin's new company. The entire background is that of a quiet countryside where Charlie shows his unfamiliarity with rural life in a ceaseless succession of happenings.
