26 KILLED IN ZEPPELIN RAIDS

Toll Taken When German Air Craft Sail Over French City, But No Damage Was Done in Second Attempt

Paris, Jan. 31.—Though Zeppelin raiders on Saturday night reaped a toll of 26 dead and 32 injured in their drive against Paris, they failed to do any damage in a fresh raid at 10 o'clock last night as far as is known.

Authorities announced today that ten incendiary bombs had been thrown on the second raid, that six of these fell in an open field in a suburb, while others landed in the vicinity of a factory but exploded harmlessly.

Air patrols attacked the raiders, but they soared out to the northward and escaped in a heavy mist. The German airships rode so high that searchlights were unable to pick them out in the fog, only the hum of the engines and the flare of the fire bombs told of their presence.

The newspapers voiced the anger of the populace today at these new attacks after a freedom of months from such raids. Moreover, they demanded that the French make reprisals for the killing and wounding of more than 50 in the Saturday night attack by raiding large German cities. At the same time they renewed the warning that Zeppelins, accompanied by the new Fokker machines, may swoop down at any time.

Experts declared that the Saturday and Sunday raids were to "feel out" the defenses of the city, preparatory to greater raids.

Though earlier reports placed the dead in Saturday night's raid at 24, official announcement today said that 26 were killed and 32 wounded, with a property loss of $100,000.

Parisians for the most part only learned of the Sunday attack when the story thereof appeared in the papers.

The "lights out" warning was sounded by firemen at 9:50 p. m., while boulevards, theaters and restaurants were crowded. At once the street lamps were extinguished and were again lighted until nine minutes later. Several hours later the police learned of the pursuit of the Zeppelins over the suburbs.

Among the pathetic stories following the Saturday night raid was that of destruction of a group of seven at the home of a soldier who came home Saturday from the front. His wife, two children and three relatives were killed when a 600-pound bomb crashed through the five-story tenement in which they dwelt.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Last night's Zeppelin raid on Paris covered a small but populous portion of the city, Ambassador Sharpe reported to the state department today. He reported 10 killed and 20 injured. No bombs fell near the American embassy.

Berlin, via Sayville, Jan. 31.—Zeppelin raids the past two nights against Paris were in retaliation for air attacks on Freiburg, the war office claimed today.

The official statement called attention to the fact that Paris is a fortified city, whereas Freiburg is unfortified and not in the war zone. It was stated that the attacks were apparently satisfactory.

At the same time announcement was made that the Germans had repelled French counter attacks, made in an effort to recapture ground lost in Friday's great offensive. It was indicated that the Germans are not renewing the offensive.

WANTS THE UNITED STATES TO MAKE WAR MUNITIONS

Aboard President Wilson's Special Train, Racine, Wis., Jan. 31.—Rapping those who charge that the demand for national preparedness has sprung from persons interested in supplying the government with the instruments of war, President Wilson today advocated government manufacture of munitions.

Speaking to thousands in a rear platform address, he declared:

"I have all along advocated, and always shall, that the government, as far as possible, manufacture these things for itself in order that it may control prices at which they shall be sold to the government. There are adequate means of defending ourselves against those who would make money out of the necessities of the nation, and we will use them.

"But I do not believe that the impulse for preparedness has come from such sources.

"The impulse comes from men who are disinterested, from men who know the actual circumstances of the country and know that these things are immediately necessary."

Along the line from Chicago, en route to Milwaukee, the president was accorded a noisy reception everywhere. At each stop he was forced to wait several minutes before he could make himself heard.

Thousands of children were included in the throngs.

"I used to be a schoolmaster," he said, smilingly, at one stop, "but I can't make the youngsters be quiet."

At each stop Mrs. Wilson joined the executive on the rear platform and was given a tremendous reception that was only equalled by that accorded Wilson.

At Kenosha a huge bouquet was handed over the rail to her; at Racine she delayed making her appearance until the president called her, saying to the crowd at the same time: "Here is some one better worth looking at than I am."

GRAND JURY TO PROBE OTAY DAM DISASTER

(By United Press Leased Wire.) San Diego, Jan. 31.—That the grand jury will probe the Otay dam disaster was indicated here today.

"The matter will be called to the attention of the grand jurors soon," District Attorney Marsh said.

Other county officials indicated that the probe will be thorough.

Only 12 bodies of victims of storms in this vicinity had been recovered at noon.

WARNINGS OF FLOODS IN MIDDLE STATES

Washington, Jan. 31.—Warnings of further floods in the Ohio, Missouri and Mississippi valleys, with the prediction that they will be long continued, were issued today by the weather bureau.

PAY DOUBLE FARE TO LEAVE SAN DIEGO

Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—People anxious to get to Los Angeles from San Diego are paying double and triple rates for passage on ships, according to A. M. Winslow, here today. Those who hold tickets sell them at a big profit.

In San Diego bay there are many carcasses of animals and occasionally a human body is seen, Winslow declares. While he was embarking it was reported a terrible hurricane was coming down the coast. This scared one passenger so he decided not to sail, but the others were willing to brave the tempest and take the chance.

REFUND THE EXCESS ON O.-C. LAND

Attorney General of the U. S. Tells Committee That Railroad Must Pay Back Amounts Over $2.50 an Acre

Washington, Jan. 31.—In an opinion to the senate lands committee today, Attorney General Gregory declared the railroad should receive $2.50 per acre for lands involved in the Oregon-California grant. From that, he said, should be deducted amounts in excess of $2.50 collected on lands already sold. This would reduce the amount to be paid by the railroads by $3,500,000.

The attorney general said that congress can take back the land or otherwise dispose of it. At the same time, he disapproved the McCumber bill recognizing the right of those intervening to whom the railroads refused to sell. It would permit purchase of land worth $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 for a small price, Gregory said.

PORTLAND EXPORTS TAKE BIG JANUARY SLUMP

Portland, Jan. 31.—Export trade from Portland took a decided slump in January, according to figures compiled today. The value of the January exports is placed at $455,144, against $3,138,877 last year.

Scarcity of ships, the closing of the Panama canal, and ice in the Columbia river are the causes assigned.

REJECT AMENDMENT TO PHILIPPINE BILL

Washington, Jan. 31.—The senate by a viva voce vote this afternoon rejected the McCumber amendment to the Philippine bill, directing the president to grant independence to the islands after obtaining an agreement from the powers or to molest the Filipinos for a period of five years.

J. N. Johnston made a trip to Ashland this morning.

SAN DIEGO RECOVERING FROM THE WORST STORM IN ITS HISTORY

San Diego, Jan. 31.—San Diego county was recovering today from the worst storm in its history.

As the result of the breaking of the Lower Otay dam and of the floods elsewhere in the county, about 25 are estimated killed, a majority of these being Italians, Japanese, Chinese and Mexicans.

Eleven bodies have been recovered. Because of looting in the Otay and Tia Juana valleys, United States marines are on guard there. Bands of Mexicans Sunday looted houses and stores there, resulting in a call for soldiers.

The Morena, Sweetwater, Cuyamaca and Upper Otay dams are safe, advices from all four points early today showed. Water, pouring from the huge watersheds into these dams, is being carried off by the spillways and city officials were confident today that the dams, of more modern construction than the Lower Otay, which went out, will withstand the floods.

San Diego has raised a relief fund of $25,000 to date. Hundreds of dollars' worth of clothing and bedding was sent to the devastated districts by boat.

Repair work on bridges and roads throughout the country is to be started

SUBMARINE K-5 STILL MISSING

Feared That Another of the U. S. Fleet of Undersea Craft Has Shared Fate of the F-4 Lost at Honolulu

Washington, Jan. 31.—That the K-5 has shared the fate of the F-4—sunk off Honolulu, with loss of her entire crew—was feared at the navy department this afternoon.

At one o'clock no word of the missing vessel had come further than a message saying she had "exchanged positions" by wireless Sunday morning with the remainder of the submarine flotilla while 50 miles from Charlestown.

Afterward when the flotilla crept up to Charleston harbor, the K-5 was missing.

How many men were aboard the diver is unknown, but officials inclined to believe that all of her 28 crew were not there, but that perhaps some had gone with other vessels of the flotilla.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Every available ship from the Charleston and Norfolk navy yards groped through the seas between Cape Hatteras and Charleston today in search of the submarine K-5, reported lost. A flotilla of destroyers, submarine tenders and scout ships were included.

They found no trace of her, as far as early reports showed. Hence there was grave fear for her safety, though officials expressed the hope that she had merely lost her way or had been disabled. Officials were mystified at the occurrence, as no heavy seas have been reported. Their only word after an all-night vigil was that the submarine was missing when the rest of the submarine flotilla reached Charleston. It was suggested that the vessel had been lost in a fog or had run aground or gone short of fuel.

The K-5 carried a crew of two officers and 26 men. Her wireless was capable of sending 75 miles.

T. R. TAKES FLING AT WILSON POLICY OF WORDY WAR

New York, Jan. 31.—That Colonel Roosevelt does not intend to remain silent while President Wilson is voicing his preparedness views and his willingness to fight in a good cause was evidenced today from the colonel's remarks before a Brooklyn meeting last night.

In this he took a fling at the administration for writing notes to Germany instead of acting; this he likened by inference to the tendencies of Dickens' "Mr. Micawber." At the same time he excoriated the government for not protesting against violation of Belgium, rapped the Mexican situation and insinuated that much of the administration course savored of politics, with the foreign vote involved.

Germany, he contended, had acceded to submarine demands only because England had made it unprofitable to continue undersea warfare.

GERMAN NEW ARTOIS OFFENSIVE CHECKED

Paris, Jan. 31.—Checking of the new German Artois offensive by counter-attacks was indicated in today's war office statement. This said the German onslaughts were diminishing, and that the Teutons had been driven from the conquered wrecked trenches.

Willows, Cal., Jan. 31.—Floods that drove a lot of odoriferous skunks from their hiding places gave A. J. Smith, of San Jacinto, the opportunity to make a hunting record. He killed 25 last week without "accident" to himself.

ITALY SENDS MORE TROOPS TO AVLONA

Berlin, via Sayville, Jan. 31.—The Italians have landed another division of infantry and several batteries of heavy artillery at Avlona, Albania, according to Vienna dispatches today.

United Press Staff Correspondent Wood at Rome last week reported the allies removing all their forces from Albania except at Avlona, where, he predicted, a great battle will soon occur.

LANSING WANTS MORE MONEY FOR CONFIDENTIAL WORK

Washington, Jan. 31.—Discussing informally and secretly international relations before the house foreign and appropriations committees today, Secretary of State Lansing asked a $100,000 increase in the state department fund for confidential work abroad, in which no account is rendered.

BROTHERS PERISH FROM EXPOSURE IN IDAHO

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 31.—Hiram Cressy, six years old, is dead, and his brother, John, is dying today from exposure. Saturday morning the two lads set out for their grandfather's ranch, 15 miles from their residence. They did not return at night and a sheriff's posse started in search. Late at night Hiram's frozen body was found beside his sled, and John, unconscious, with hands and feet frozen, was lying nearby.

The Fallbrook, Bonsall and Pata districts had not been received at noon. No damage to the historic San Diego and San Luis Rey missions was sustained.

The dam at Escondido is safe. The exact monetary loss to the county improvements and residents will not be known for some time, and the exact number of deaths can not be determined until the coroner sits.

THE HYPHEN GONE SAYS MR. WILSON

President Tells Citizens of Milwaukee That Danger From a Divided Patriotism Does Not Menace America

Milwaukee, Jan. 31.—The din of applause from 9,000 throats and 9,000 pairs of hands, followed by the strains of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," constituted Milwaukee's reply this afternoon to President Wilson's preparedness demands.

Eight thousand other dwellers in this, the "hyphen country,"—home of vast numbers of German-Americans,—struggled to get into the auditorium, but were forced to remain outside in the bitter cold for want of room.

"This is Milwaukee's answer," came a cry from the thousands when the president entered the hall at 2:30. The cordiality of the greeting plainly moved the president's emotions as he started his address.

"At the outset," he said, "I want to remove any apprehension. Nothing new has happened, and there is no crisis. I have come out on this errand because everywhere the atmosphere of the world is thrilling with the passion of a disturbance such as the world never has seen before. Hence we should set our house in order."

The danger from hyphenated Americanism the president declared to be a thing of the past, adding that "when the time comes, every man's heart will be first for America."

"Wherever they come from, it was the principle of affection, ambition and hope that drew men to these shores," he declared, "and they are not going to forget the errand on which they came. The America they have made their refuge will not suffer by any forgetfulness on their part."

"At the outset of the war it did look as if there were division in the nation that might lead us to errors. But I believe that danger has passed.

"The trouble makers have shot their bolt. Some have been vociferous; all have been irresponsible. Talk was cheap and they did not have to do anything. It is not the men who are doing the talking who represent the sentiments of the nation. We can control irresponsible talkers among us."

"But there are other dangers which are not passed—dangers we can not control. There is no part of the

REBELS TAKE FOUR CHINESE CITIES

San Francisco, Jan. 31.—Four of the principal cities of China have fallen into the hands of revolutionists after short, fierce struggles, said cable advices from the Shanghai correspondent of the Chinese Republic Journal today. He named these cities as Chow Fu, Lu Chow, Tze Liu Tsing and Cheng Tu, the latter the principal city of the Sze Chuen province.

An entire division of Emperor Yuan Shi Kai's troops were reported routed at Chung King, capital of Sze Chuen province, after the republicans had inflicted serious losses on them. The republican army was said to have occupied Tai Tung in Kan Su province, while Yuan's forces went over to the invaders. Another republican army attacked Shen Si province while a third is engaged against Kaigan, 250 miles from Peking.
