What Brings You Back?

It takes more than courteous treatment and fair prices to make a customer a "repeater" at any store.

The goods themselves must live up to your expectations in looks and service.

When we buy goods, the first thing we look for is quality. Then we consider whether the price is what our customers want to pay. Then we make sure that the makers will guarantee their merchandise. After these points are all fixed, we choose style, patterns and sizes.

A fair example of our buying methods is the Hart Schaffner & Marx. All our other stock measures up to that standard.

So you see you are taking no chances in buying here.
