"Fido" and "Shep" Barred—

Some of the women who patronize the fine bathing resort at Riverside park complain that certain parties coax their pet dogs into the water and let them swim around among the people. Such practice is prohibited and should be stopped. Kiss your own dog and go bathing with him if you wish, but don't ask your neighbor to do likewise.

Road Open Today—

The Crater Lake season officially opens tomorrow and in the morning the Crater Lake stages will begin the regular schedule. The road has been opened to the rim of the lake and the hotel can easily be reached by tomorrow. Two tourists are already booked to take passage on the stage tomorrow and others are expected to arrive on the trains today or Tuesday morning.—Medford Tribune.

Beggars Are Here—

Sifting away from the big cities, many beggars, some of them of the I. W. W. stripe, have begun to make their appearance in the smaller cities and towns. They tell stories of various kinds of misfortune, almost always demanding at the end of their little speech enough money to speed them on their way to some sick relative or, if they profess to be crippled in any manner, want to reach a place where kind friends will care for them. However, most of them are husky looking young fellows and there is plenty of work at hand.

Theodore Robests

in

"Pudd'nhead Wilson"

By MARK TWAIN

A Mark Twain story! That alone means the world to you. Add the inimitable Theodore Robests in the lovable character of "Pudd'nhead"—the first man in the world to recognize the value of "finger-prints"—and you have SOME picture. No wonder the crowds surged around the doors of theatres and were turned away in droves two years ago. Here again! Your last chance.

Photos of your favorite actor or actress given away tonight with every ticket—Doug Fairbanks, Bill Hart, Mesquerte Clark and everybody.

Storing Explosives—

A carload of T. N. T. is being unloaded today from a Southern Pacific car. This powerful and much dreaded stuff is being stored in a specially constructed place some three miles out from Grants Pass and will be used in road construction.

Mrs. E. G. Ballard went to Roseburg this morning.
