Movements of Western Produce.

It is obvious that real and permanent relief from the monetary pressure, now felt generally and with more or less severity in all our commercial centres, can only be expected through the prompt and general movement of western produce to the sea-board.

The wheat of the West, now ready or nearly ready for market, is the subject of much speculation.

Unhappily the distrust existing has had the effect to keep back the produce of the interior, whilst there is also a tendency on the part of farmers to hold off in the hope of better prices at a later season.

The relief which the country now wants, we repeat, is an early availability of its productive resources, and to this object should be the business of the press in setting on foot the movement, and of our merchants and bankers in affording the necessary facilities.

The Bank of Nashville.

In our article of yesterday referring to the suspension of this bank, we stated incidentally, that its undivided profits, for the six months previous to the 1st of July last amounted to a hundred thousand dollars.

We took the fact from the statement of the Cashier made in July last, the statement being headed, "Statement of the Bank of Nashville from January 1st, 1857, to July 1st, 1857."

We are also authorized to say that the officers of the Bank will furnish to the public, at the earliest practicable moment, a full exhibit of its condition, its assets and liabilities.

What can be more graphic, or more beautiful than that? The same paper in a scathing rebuke of Ignorance, makes the following just and powerful remarks:

"Time, with its passing events, develops hidden monstrosities, and ignorance is permitted to march abroad as a lamp-lighter to guide the feet of the young and the old."

Moneyed men are the worst creatures on earth; so timid that within their shell, and so cunning, big the glittering treasure all day long, but at the close of the day, they are as empty as the air.

Moneyed men never adopt the tactics of mutual support; hence, as soon as a shot is fired into the ranks of the moneyed class, they are scattered in all directions, each to his own home.

It is true, as the Desert News contends, that the followers of Brigham Young have done much to expiate the sins of their fathers, and to make themselves worthy to inherit the promised land.

From carefully conducted experiments by different persons, it has been ascertained that one bushel of corn will make a little over 104 pounds of meal.

From the Baltimore American.

This is surely a most unique world. If the globe were divided into nations, and if it were given to each nation a portion of the population of the earth with its respective resources, it would be a very different world.

We published a few days ago quite enough of the latest news from the Territory of Utah, embracing the trial of the miller harper in his most musical musical festival.
