MORE ARRESTS.

Cashier Childress and Assistant Cashier Easley, Arrested.

Charged With False Pretenses and Fraudulent Breach of Trust.—Both Give Bond.

Since the Second National Bank failure the inquiry has been, "Will they be indicted?" The fact that no indictments followed the other failures, have made those who were seeking indictments now, uneasy.

On that day Mr. Easley was arrested. He and Mr. Childress were indicted jointly in three different indictments; two of the indictments charging "false pretenses," and one charging "fraudulent breach of trust."

A. Maxwell, the tailor, is prosecutor in one of these cases. The charge is that only two or three days before the bank closed its doors, Maxwell, the prosecutor, went there and paid the money for New York exchange, (about $200) that defendant's checks had been protested and refused in New York before that, and that they well knew they would not be honored.

In another case Mr. Ben Lazarus, of the firm of Lazarus & Sons, is the prosecutor. This trouble also grows out of a New York exchange transaction. Only a few days before the bank failed the firm of Lazarus & Sons bought $425 worth of exchange, which, being sent to New York was refused, and it is claimed that this bank's paper had been refused and protested before that, and long enough before for them to have knowledge of the fact.

The history of the other cases the HERALD could not learn. In addition to these three cases, there are two other indictments against Childress. One for fraudulent breach of trust, the other for false pretenses. Geo. W. Stockard is prosecutor in one case, and J. A. Loftin in the other.

The latter part of last week, acting under the advice of his counsel, Mr. Childress went to Wayland, Springs, in Lawrence County, to fish and hunt and recuperate. He was not gone long before a sensational report was started that he was gone not to return again, and Sheriff Kagsdale was impetioned to go after him. The Sheriff, accompanied by Mr. J. O. T. Amis, left here on the evening train Tuesday and reached their destination that night. They found no trouble in locating Mr. Childress; he was at the house of a nephew and asleep. When aroused and told he was wanted, he very promptly explained why he had left Columbia and readily and willingly consented to return. The party, returning, reached here Wednesday morning. The bond, by agreement between the attorneys for both sides, was fixed for the five cases at a total of $6,000. The defendant in a very few hours furnished the required securities and was released. The HERALD, though it has made every effort, has been unable to learn the names of Mr. Childress' bondsmen.

Killebrew-Frierson.

Mr. George W. Killebrew and Miss Donna Frierson were united in marriage on last Wednesday evening at Mt. Pleasant. The ceremony took place in the church and was a unusually pretty one. The church was packed full with the great number of friends of both parties. Mr. Fred Gamble acted as best man for the groom and Miss Mattie Jackson was the first bride's maid. The other attendants were Mr. John Frierson and Miss Janie Fowles, Franklin; Mr. H. H. Alexander and Miss Nettie Grauberry; Mr. S. B. McTyer, Sheriff and Miss Emma Hughes; Mr. J. R. Coleman and Miss Mary Long; Mr. Chas. Jackson and Miss Camilla Frierson, Murreesboro; Mr. John F. Walker and Miss Mary Gant. The ushers were Messrs. J. B. Granberry, John Long, Dr. Will Kittrell, Will Cecil, J. Lee Epperson and Frank Dale.

The arrangement of the bridal party was as follows: the ushers advanced down the middle aisle and on reaching the platform passed up the middle steps and dividing stationed themselves on each side of the platform. Then the groomsmen and the bridesmaids, in pairs alternately advanced down the middle aisle and separating passed to the right and left of the platform, each lady joining her gentleman there. Then finally the groom with his best man, and the bride with her first maid advanced and took positions on the platform. The whole forming a very pretty pageant. The ceremony was then performed by Rev. J. S. Frierson, the father of the bride, assisted by Rev. J. S. Foster. A reception was then given at the residence of the bride from 9:30 to 11 o'clock.

After a visit to Clarksville, Tenn., the former home of Mr. Killebrew, the bridal pair will make their home in Searcy, Ark. They will carry with them the good wishes of hosts of friends in Maury County.

THE ANDREWS SCHOOL.

An Interesting Programme Rendered at the Closing Exercises of the Columbia Public School.

If Columbia has any one public institution of which it is prouder than any other it is its public schools. Begun several years ago in the midst of opposition and distrust, the system has rapidly grown in favor and now we wonder how we ever got along without them. To-day not a dissenting voice is heard in the general expression of commendation of the system and its attainments. The closing year has been one of the most successful in its history and the record is a source of much gratification to all the friends of this popular and thorough style of education. The sight of nearly four hundred boys and girls from six years of age to young manhood and womanhood, from all stages and circumstances of life, having their minds uniformly graded and trained in a thoroughly practical and business-like course of study, is grand and essentially democratic. The closing exercises began with the annual contest for the medals in oratory and elocution. This was held at the Opera House on Thursday morning, June 8th, at 10 o'clock, at which time the following programme was rendered:

- PART I. "A Moral Discourse," Alpheus Brazier. "The Sober Hat," William Hines. "How the North Pole was Lost," William White. "Scene at the Natural Bridge," Ernest S. Walker. "How Ruby Played," George Hodge. "The South and her Problems," Almas B. Walker. "The Cobra," Walter Y. Adkisson. "Speech on the American War," Harry Frierson. Song, "Hail No. 4."

- PART II. "The Minuet," Viola Jones. "The Sober Hat," Pauline O'Neil. "The Hat," Annie Laurie Brazier. "Rum's Mania," Carrie Peters. "The Gypsy Flower Girl," Nellie Yoest. "Do's Christmas," Carrie Porter. "The Old Actor's Story," Angie B. Bennett. "Gone with the Wind," Annie Belle Bradshaw. Award of Citius Prizes, By J. C. Voorhies.

DECISION OF JUDGES. The judges of the contest, through Mr. L. P. Padgett, announced that they had decided in favor of Mr. Walter Y. Adkisson and Miss Angie B. Bennett. The winners of the class prizes have already been announced through these columns by our school reporter.

On Thursday night the regular annual entertainment was given at the Opera House. These entertainments have for several years been so uniformly excellent that they call out the biggest crowds of the season, and this year was no exception. Half an hour before the doors were open the sidewalk in front of the Opera House was packed for quite a distance on each side, and when the doors were finally thrown open, a rush for seats was made which filled every available seat before half the crowd had passed the outer door. The order was not of the best, but probably as good as could be expected from so large and hot a crowd. The teachers and pupils work very hard to get up these entertainments, which are really very fine, and it has been suggested that this school might follow the example of some other schools and charge a small admittance fee for the benefit of its library. A fee of twenty-five cents would be very reasonable for the program usually offered, and the proceeds would go far toward buying valuable books for the school library, while it would have the effect of keeping out the most disorderly part of the crowd which usually attend free concerts.

The following programme was exceedingly well rendered:

- "The Stately Minuet," First and Second Grades. Recitation, Laurens Walker. Sword Drill, Hall No. 4. Old Black Joe, Walter Adkisson. Recitation, "Into the Sunset," Janie McClellan. Duett, Nellie Yoest. Carnival of Nations, Halls Nos. 2 and 3. Solo, Bessie Walker. Recitation, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," Recitation, "The Curtain," School. "Home Sweet Home," School.

The Public Schools are noted especially for the fine orills of the pupils on these occasions. The curtain rose on a lovely sight. About thirty children from the youngest grades dressed in the quaint garb of our forefathers executed faultlessly the "Stately Minuet" in the most courtly fashion. In this, as in all the other drills, the costuming was appropriate and well gotten up. The sword drill by the girls of Hall No. 4, was new and taking. About sixteen young ladies under command of Miss Annie Laurie Brazier executed the sword manual, after which they were drawn up in double rank while Miss Brazier recited the Charge of the Light Brigade. As she repeated the thrilling lines the girls followed her in appropriate gestures and movements. In the "Carnival of Nations" a number of excellent drills were introduced, among which were the Hoop, Zouave, Tambourine and Sprites, each of which was splendidly costumed and executed. The other numbers were well rendered but cannot receive individual mention in this article.

On Friday morning at 10 o'clock the graduating exercises were held. The following is the program as rendered: Prayer, Rev. John W. Hanner, Jr. Salutory, "Nothing Without Labor," Ernest S. Walker. Oration, "Life," Luie E. Quarterman. Oration, "Our Republic," Almas B. Walker.

AWARD OF MEDALS. Speakers' Medals, L. P. Padgett. Harahan Medal, J. A. Smiler. C. Henderson Medals, J. A. Smiler. Carusick Medal, Scholarship, J. C. Dexter.

AWARD OF DIPLOMAS. By President Board of Education, J. T. Williamson. Valedictory, "Our Present, Past and Future," Angie B. Bennett. Farewell, Quartette.

The Salutory address of Mr. Ernest S. Walker was unusually good and the young student brought out all there is in the old proverb which formed his subject, which, with his good delivery, made the address interesting and entertaining. Mr. L. P. Padgett in his usual graceful manner delivered the medals for Oratory and Elocution to Mr. Walter Y. Adkisson and Miss Angie B. Bennett respectively. Probably the most elegant medal of the day was the Harahan medal for mathematics, which was a veritable gem. Miss Mary Anne Taylor was the fortunate winner of this medal, which was presented to her by Mr. Jas. A. Smiler in his most eloquent and poetic style. The Charlotte Henderson medals for mathematics were presented by the same gentleman to Misses Scott and Gant. The Carnick medal for the highest scholarship in the entire school during the year, had remained a secret up to this time, but after a short and appropriate speech, Mr. J. C. Dexter could not keep the secret any longer, and announced the name of the successful person as Miss Angie B. Bennett of the Ninth Grade. Mr. Dexter also presented the Mary Democrat Surplus Medal for Scholarship, to Miss Clyde Gant, it appearing to the editors of that paper from the High School notes during the year, that she had led her grade each month during the whole year. Mr. Padgett then presented a gift book to Miss Susie Wright for excellence in deportment; this was also a surprise. Mr. J. T. Williamson then, in behalf of the Board of Education, presented the diplomas, after a few well chosen remarks, in which he spoke in high terms of the administration of the school for the past year, saying among other things that the discipline had been better than the Board had ever known before. Superintendent Charles addressed a few remarks to the graduating class and the patrons, in which he stated that this class in his connection with the Columbia schools as he had accepted a call to other fields. The HERALD learns that he goes to Montana and that the change is very decidedly to his pecuniary advantage, although he regrets leaving again his native state. Mr. Charles has done hard and conscientious work for the advancement of our schools and with marked success.

Miss Bennett then read her Valedictory address in a most pleasing manner, after which the song, "Farewell," was sung by the class and the curtain fell on the tenth graduating class of the Columbia Public Schools. The following composed the class: Walter Y. Adkisson, Angie B. Bennett, Annie Belle Bradshaw, Ninian T. Evans, Louella B. Cook, Luie E. Quarterman, Sallie H. Neeley, J. Bruce Tucker, Ernest T. Schuber, Annie Laurie Brazier, Almas B. Walker, Ernest S. Walker.
