

SOCIETY.

Mrs. Pillow and Mrs. Cowie Entertain.
One of the most elaborate social affairs that has been given this season was the lawn party given by Mrs. Robt. Pillow and Mrs. Gordon Cowie, at the home of the former Tuesday afternoon.

About seventy-five guests gathered on the beautiful front lawn at 3 o'clock and bridge whist was played at eighteen tables. Elaborate and artistic decorations of potted plants and gift bouquets attractively arranged, lent their fragrance and enchantment, which with the other surroundings, made the afternoon one of pleasure and amusement. The handsome prize, a Japanese bamboo porch table, was awarded to Miss Camille Herndon.

At the conclusion of the game a delicious two-course luncheon was served.

Pupils' Recital.

The voice pupils of Mrs. Charles A. Forgy were presented in recital Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Street. The pupils, Misses Mary Jane Caperton and Narcisse Fleming and Horace Rainey, Jr., were ably assisted by Misses Leonora Williamson and Dorothy Parke Fulton, who each rendered violin solos, and Miss Pauline Fulton rendered a piano solo. The singing of Misses Caperton and Fleming was exquisite and showed the wonderful control that each performer had over the voice. The high notes in their numbers were reached and given that clear sweet tone that is rarely heard in the young unprofessional voice. The singing of Mr. Rainey was excellent. He possesses a rich, sweet tenor voice and his notes are given the full round tone that appeals to the sensitive human ear. Each performer showed the material genius of the tutor, and give promise of achieving that much coveted ambition of being a concert singer.

Voice and Piano Recital.

The voice pupils of Mrs. Chas. Sharp and the piano pupils of Miss Leah Sharp, were presented in recital at the Methodist Sunday school room Tuesday evening before a most appreciative audience.

The program opened and closed with selections sung by the chorus choir, composed of twenty members. The many beautiful selections were exquisitely presented, displaying much talent and artistic merit.

Miss Eddie Voss beautifully sang the "Spanish Waltz Song," by Wilson and "In The Garden," by Salter. Her voice was even and her tone qualities excellent. "The Haunt of the Witches," Cossard, was presented with much musical feeling, by Albert Fisher Oakes. Mr. Oakes has a deep bass voice and is possessed with rare musical talent. Miss Grace Moore sang "Isobel," Lohe and "An Open Secret," Woodman. Miss Moore's voice was soft and sweet and her tones were rich and mellow. "In Loveland," De Koven, and the "Cradle Song," by Vannah, were exquisitely sung by Miss Christine Oakes. Miss Oakes sang with feeling and great brilliancy, reaching her high notes with the greatest of ease. Joe Parks, baritone, sang "Because." Mr. Parks has shown marked improvement in his work and deserves much credit for the manner in which he presented his number.

Miss Nina Martin beautifully sang "Three Green Bonnets," by D'Hardelot and "The Rosary," Nevin. She sang with delightful clearness and excellent coloring and her full round tones were pleasing. "Sunlight," by Harriet Ware, was exquisitely sung by Miss Mary Cooper Boyd. Miss Boyd sang with light heart and graceful appearance in keeping with the title of the song. Her high tones were beautiful and of rare melody.

Mrs. Clarence Harmon charmingly sang "The Erl-King," by Schubert. Mrs. Harmon handled this difficult number with the ease and skill of a finished artist. Her tones were full and melodious.

The several duets sung were much enjoyed by all and the rendition of the musical numbers on the piano by the little pupils of Miss Sharp showed much improvement as the result of hours of work and training. Miss Sharp deserves credit for the excellent manner in which they presented their selections. Gladys, Edith and Carl Davis Park and Charles Lipscomb were the ones who so gracefully and beautifully presented themselves.

At the conclusion of the program, a medal was awarded to Edith Park for the best work and improvement during the year.

The vocal numbers were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Chas. Sharp, Mrs. Ella Kelley and Miss Leah Sharp.

Orr-Watson Nuptials.

One of the prettiest weddings that has been celebrated in Columbia this festive wedding season was that of Hinton Orr to Miss Elizabeth Harlan Watson Saturday night at eight-thirty o'clock at St. Peter's Episcopal church in the presence of hundreds of friends of the contracting parties.

A beautiful pre-nuptial musical program was rendered as the guests were assembling. Miss Camille Herndon at the pipe organ, played the accompaniments for Miss Leonora Williamson, who rendered several choice selections on the violin. Mrs. Charles A. Forgy sang "I Love You," by Carl Sobeski, and "The Greatest Wish in the World," by Teresa del Riego. Mrs. Forgy sang in splendid voice and the playing of Miss Williamson was superb.

The church was splendid in its decorations of white tulle and white sweet peas and ferns, lighted with hundreds of white waxen tapers. The chancel where the ceremony was said, was made glorious in its decorations, and the soft light shed by the waxen tapers made the scene all the more impressive.

Promptly at eight-thirty o'clock the large pipe organ, under the deft fingers of Miss Herndon, pealed forth the entrancing strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, announcing that the bridal party had arrived.

The four ushers, Messrs. John Padgett and Clarence Joyce, James Dedman and Paul Cecil, entered down the two side aisles. Miss Rebecca Watson, sister of the bride, entered down the center aisle alone. Miss Watson was attired in white net, trimmed in pink and carried a long white stem basket filled with pink and white sweet peas.

Next came Misses Annie May Orr and Elizabeth Whitthorne, maids of honor, in the center aisle, with Jack Granberry and Jim Ridley down the side aisles. Misses Orr and Whitthorne were attired in white net, trimmed in green and carried long stem baskets, with pink and white sweet peas. Misses Charlotte Hughes and Minnie Fry, in white net, carrying stem baskets filled with pink and white sweet peas, came down the center aisle, and immediately opposite in the side aisles, came the groomsmen, Wilmoth Bowen and Davis Gray. Next came the matron of honor, Mrs. James Dedman, handsomely gowned in pink taffeta, carrying a bouquet of pink sweet peas and pink rosebuds. On the side aisles Dr. Robert Pillow, Jr. and Francis Warfield, groomsmen, entered, the maid of honor, Miss Charlotte Watson, sister of the bride, came down the center aisle, handsomely gowned in a costume of white net, trimmed in white taffeta, carrying a bouquet of pink rosebuds and maiden hair ferns.

The bride came next upon the arm of her cousin, Leonard Hughes. Her bridal gown was hand-embroidered net, with corsage ornamented with pearl passementerie, with court train of white satin. The bridal veil was caught with a handsome pearl pin. Her wedding flowers were a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The groom and his brother, Dr. Eugene Orr, of Nashville, who acted as best man, entered from the vestry and joined the bride at the chancel, where the betrothal service was said by Dr. R. M. W. Black. The bride and groom then proceeded to the altar rail, where the impressive Episcopal ceremony was said by Dr. W. B. Capers. During the ceremony, Miss Herndon rendered the love song by Brull. This was followed by the inspiring strains of the bridal march from Les Huguenots, to which the bridal party left the church and repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. P. Watson, where the bridal party and the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were tendered a reception.

Mrs. Watson was handsomely gowned in white embroidered net, with trimmings of white taffeta. She was assisted in the entertaining of the guests by the ladies of the bridal party, and the cutting of the large wedding cake, in the shape of a large basket, with decorations of pink and white roses. Miss Elizabeth Whitthorne was the lucky winner of the ring. Davis Gray cut the wish bone, Miss Rebecca Watson fell heir to the thimble, Wilmoth Bowen the dime and Clarence Joyce the button. The Watson home was beautifully decorated in cut flowers and ferns, sweet peas predominating. After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Orr left for Nashville in an automobile, where they took the train for an extensive wedding trip through the East. They will return to Columbia after their wedding trip, but will later make their home in Kentucky.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mrs. W. P. Watson, of this city, and one of the most popular and charming young ladies of the town. She is possessed of a spirit that wins for her love and esteem of everyone with whom she comes in contact. She is pretty and her sweet amiable disposition makes her more beautiful, and upon the occasion of her wedding she looked the part of a queen. The groom is the youngest son of Col. and Mrs. J. K. Orr, of this county, and is a promising young agriculturist and no doubt will take the lead in the community in which he lives. The young couple received many handsome wedding gifts, among them being several checks, gifts from the groom's father.

Wilkes-Amis.

Uniting two of the oldest and most prominent families of Maury county the wedding of Miss Ruth Amis and Burke Wilkes at historic Zion church at 6:30 o'clock on Monday afternoon was the occasion of wide and affectionate interest throughout the county. The church was most beautifully and appropriately decorated for the occasion, white flowers and potted plants being used in the greatest profusion and with artistic effect. The altar before which the words that plighted the troth of the young couple were said, was a perfect bower of beauty. Mrs. Enoch Stephenson presided at the organ and a beautiful musical program was rendered before the ceremony. Mrs. Charles H. Forgy sang beautifully "Today" and "Because." The wedding party entered to the inspiring strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march and Lohengrin's march was played as the party left the church.

The ushers were Frank D. Fulton, Henry O. Fulton, John W. Frierson and Harry Alford and they entered from opposite aisles. Next came the two groomsmen, John White Stephenson and J. Mack Peebles. The two bridesmaids, Miss Ella Wilkes and Miss Dorothy Parke Fulton entered from the opposite aisles. They wore white lingerie and carried bouquets of pink and white sweet peas. The maid of honor, Miss Agnes Amis, sister of the bride, came next. She wore pale Georgette crepe and carried Killarney roses. The bride, her sweet girlish beauty enhanced by her bridal costume of white Georgette crepe and carrying a bouquet of brides' roses and lilies of the valley, entered upon the arm of her brother, Lewis Randolph Amis. From the opposite aisle came the groom with his best man, Hatcher Wilkes, of Memphis, his brother. They joined at the altar, where the words which united the couple were solemnly said by Rev. T. C. Ragsdale, pastor of McKendree Methodist church assisted by Dr. Johnson, the pastor at Zion.

After the ceremony the happy young couple went to Culleoka, where they will reside. Numerous and costly presents attested their wide popularity.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Lewis Randolph Amis. Her late father was one of the leading ministers of the Tennessee conference of the Methodist church. For many years before and at the time of his death he was the secretary of the Tennessee conference and was one of the most widely beloved pastors of the state. On both sides she traces back to the earliest settlers of Maury county and is a young lady of the most exquisite charm of manner, amiable disposition and lovely character. She numbers her friends by her acquaintances.

Mr. Wilkes is the youngest son of Former Representative and Mrs. Richard A. Wilkes, of Culleoka, and is a young man of industry, character and exceedingly fine promise. He is active in church and civic affairs and is most highly esteemed in his neighborhood. They enter upon their new relation with the sincere good wishes of an exceptionally large circle of friends.

Rook Party.

Miss Evelyn Fishburn was the charming hostess Wednesday afternoon at her home in West End, at a bridge party to compliment a number of her girl friends. Rook was played at four tables and at the conclusion of a most interesting game a one-course salad lunch was served by little Miss Margaret Fishburn. The score cards were in the shape of four-leaf clovers and were hand-painted.
