Farm and Household.

The Creed for a Farmer.

We believe in small farms and thorough cultivation.

We believe the earth loves to eat as well as the owner, and ought, therefore, to be well manured.

We believe in going to the bottom of things, and therefore, deep plowing, and enough of it. All the better if it be a subsoil plow.

We believe in large crops which leave land better than they found it, making both the farm and the farmer rich at once.

We believe that every farmer should own a good farm.

We believe that the fertilizer of any soil is a spirit of industry, enterprise, and intelligence; with these, lime, gypsum, guano will be of little use.

We believe in good fences, good farm-houses, good orchards, and good children enough to gather the fruit.

We believe in a clean kitchen, a neat wife in it, a clean cupboard, a dairy and a clean conscience.

We believe to ask a man's advice is not stooping, but of much benefit.

We believe that to keep a place for everything, and everything in its place, saves many a step, and is pretty sure to lead to good tools and keeping them in order.

We believe that kindness to stock, like good shelter, is a saving of fodder.

We believe that it is a good thing to keep an eye on experiments, and note all, good and bad.

We believe that it is a good rule to sell grain when it is ready.

Southern Women as Housekeepers.

From Charlottesville (Va.) Chronicle.

The misfortunes of war, culminating in the loss of servants, has devolved on the daughters in Southern families much of the hard work formerly done by the slaves, and they have become more practical women than they could ever have been if reared with a servant at their command. In all that pertains to the art of housekeeping, from the kitchen to the garret, the girls of to-day are better educated than their mothers were. They have learned to work for themselves, and for the families of which they are members. Cultivated in mind and muscle and morals, beautiful in form and feature, modest in speech and in apparel, the Southern girls are the peers of any the world can produce.

Closets that are damp are dangerous enemies to health. If your closets are damp and engender a mold which encases not only boots and shoes, but also other articles of wearing apparel, obtain a half peck of unslacked lime and put in a shallow dish in the closet, and it will absorb the dampness. When it becomes quite dry it should be renewed.

If those interested in blacking stoves will try greasing them with fresh grease before blacking, they will find that it prevents them from rusting. Add a pinch of brown sugar to blacking just before applying. This causes it to stick, and it polishes much easier and with half the usual rubbing.

Have a sharp spade or thin chisel and cut under ground every plant of burdock, poke weed or other biennial or perennial plant found growing in the fence corners or other places likely to be infested, and you will soon find your yearly crop of weeds diminished.

Moore's Rural Life says: "Put the hen-coops under your fruit-trees, and the old hen and her chicks there, and every morning knock on the trees with a quick, hard rap, and the little Turk will drop and chick will take him."

FELONS.—Beef marrow, bound on and renewed twice a day, is said to be the most effectual agent for the cure of those painful visitants, felons.

To GLAZE LINEN.—Linen may be glazed by adding a teaspoonful of salt and one of finely scraped castile soap to a pint of starch.

GALLS on the shoulders of draught horses may be cured by dissolving six drachms of iodine in half a pint of alcohol, and applying it twice a day.

Work not a rod of land more than you can work well. It is easier and more profitable to reap sixty bushels from one acre than fifty from two.

Pure Drugs and Medicines, Paints, Oils, Dye-stuffs, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, Patent Medicines of all kinds, Horse and Cattle Powders, Pure Wines and Brandies for Medicinal Purposes, Flavoring Extracts, window Glass and Putty, Lamps and Chimneys, Lamp Oil of the best quality, Envelopes, Paper, Pens, Combs, Brushes, and, in fact, everything kept in a first-class Drug Store. Prescriptions accurately compounded at all hours.
