

Waste and Want.

Mrs. Haskell, in the "Household Encyclopedia," enumerates a long list of small household leaks, which we commend to the careful attention of every housekeeper.

Much waste is experienced in boiling, etc., of meats. Unless watched, the cook will throw out the water without letting it cool to take off the fat, or scrape the dripping-pan into the swill-pail. The grease is useful in many ways. It can be burned in lamps, mixed with lard, or when pork has been boiled with it, made into candles. When pork has been boiled alone, it will do to fry cakes in if cleaned.

Again, bits of meat are thrown out which would make hashed meat or hash.

The flour is sifted in a wasteful manner, or the bread-pan left with the dough sticking to it.

Pie-crust is left and laid by to sour instead of making a few tarts for tea.

Cold batter is thrown out because but little is left.

Cold puddings are considered good for nothing, when oftentimes they can be steamed for the next day, or, as in the case of rice made over in other forms.

Vegetable are thrown away that would warm for breakfast nicely.

Dishcloths are thrown where mice can destroy them.

Soap is left in water to dissolve, or more used than necessary.

If bath-brick, writing, roller-stones, etc., are used, much is wasted.

The scrub-brush is left in water, pails scoured by the fire, tubs and barrels left in the sun to dry and fall apart, chamber-pails allowed to rust, tins dried and iron ware rusted, nice knives used for cooking in the kitchen, silver spoons used to scrape kettles or forks to toast bread.

Rinsing of sweetmeats or skimmings of syrup, which makes good vinegar, are thrown out.

Cream is allowed to mould and spoil, mustard to dry in the pot, and vinegar to corrode the canister.

The roasted coffee, pepper and spices, to stand open and lose their strength.

The molasses jug loses the cork and the flies take possession.

Vinegar is drawn in a basin and allowed to stand until both vinegar and basin are spoiled.

Sugar is spilled from the barrel, coffee from the sack and tea from the chest.

Different sauces are made too sweet, and both sauce and sugar wasted.

Dried fruits have not been taken care of in season, and become wormy.

The vinegar on pickles loses its strength or leaks out, and the pickles become soft.

Potatoes in the cellar grow, and the sprouts are not removed till they become worthless.

Pork spoils for want of salt, and the beef because the brine wants scalding.

Hams become tainted or filled with vermin for want of right protection.

Dried beef becomes so hard it cannot be cut.

Cheese moulds, and it is eaten by mice and vermin.

Lard is not well tried in the fall, and becomes tainted, but spoils for want of being well made at first.

Bones are burned that would make soup.

Ashes are thrown out carelessly, endangering the premises, and being wasted.

Servants leave a light burning in the kitchen when they are all out of an evening.

Clothes are whipped do pieces in the wind, fine cambrics rubbed on the board, and laces torn in starching.

Brooms are never hung up and good ones are spoiled.

Carpets are swept with stubs hardly fit to sweep the kitchen, and good new brooms used for scrubbing.

Towels are used in place of holders, and good sheets to iron on, taking a fresh one every week, thus according nearly every one in the house.

Fluid, if used, is left unworked, endangering the house and wasting the alcohol.

Table-cloths and napkins are used as dish-wipers.

Table linen is thrown carelessly down and eaten by mice, or put away damp and is mildewed, or the fruit-stains are forgotten, and the stains washed in.

Mats are forgotten to be put under hot dishes.

Ten-pots are melted by the stove.

Water is forgotten in pitchers, and allowed to freeze in winter.

Slops for cows and pigs are never saved.

China is used to feed cats and dogs on.

Obituary.—Mr. Chas. H. Pease, died at his home in Grass Lake, on Wednesday last, of consumption. Mr. Pease was well known here, and had many warm friends in this city, where he formerly resided. As a basso, he was a great favorite—his voice being rich, pure and powerful, and of a great compass. He was formerly associated with some of the finest troupes of Vocalists in the country, and had also attained some celebrity as a composer. His most intimate friends here will cherish with pleasure the memories of the honest hearted, sparkling companion of other days, and so sorrow at his early departure. Jackson Patriot, 28.

N. P. Willis, it is said, is now passing away. He has not appeared at any of the places he is accustomed to frequent in New York for some weeks but has been confined to his residence on the Hudson, by his feeble health. With the exception, perhaps, of Mr. Simms, of South Carolina, he is the last representative of the second generation of American authors. Mr. Willis must be nearly seventy years of age.

The "Canoe Club" in London has just held its annual meeting. Since last year's meeting, the Thames, the Severn, the Trent, and the Avon, around the Kentish coast from Shoreness to Folkestone, and into the great lochs of Scotland and the fjords of Sweden and Norway. One accident occurred, in which a member was nearly drowned.

The attention of the Public and the trade is invited to our New State T OCTAVE ROSEWOOD PIANO FORTES, which for volume and purity of tone are unrivalled by any hitherto offered in this model. They contain all the modern improvements, French Grand Action, Harp Pedal, Iron Frame, Overstrung Bass, etc., and each instrument is being made under the personal supervision of Mr. J. H. Gussaczevsky who has had a practical experience of over 30 years in their manufacture, is fully warranted in every particular.

The "GROVETESTER PIANO FORTE" received the Award of Silver over all others at the Centennial Exposition.

Where were exhibited instruments from the best makers of London, Paris, Germany, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston and New York; and also at the American Institute for six successive years, the gold and silver medals from both of which can be seen at our ware room.

By the introduction of improvements we make a still more perfect Piano Forte, and by manufacturing largely, with a strictly cash system,
are enabled to offer these instruments at a price
which will preclude all competition.

Terms—Net Cash in Current Funds.
