

To the Subscribers of the Intelligencer.

The subscribers of the Greenville Intelligencer this week receive THE UNION in its stead. We have run the Intelligencer for six months, that time expiring July 1st. In the six months the receipts have hardly exceeded one hundred dollars cash, while the expenditures have been hundreds. It's a plain case of too small a whistle for so many pennies, and, perforce we pull down our journalistic vest and turn our attention to something where the dollars, we hope, are more numerous than promises, or in which at least, the proportion of dollars and promises will be in a somewhat fairer proportion.

In conclusion, we have to say, that if you reader, are indebted to the Intelligencer, the amount is just one dollar due us, and we hope no one will force us to the painful necessity of pushing him. Make your payments either to H. V. Sevier or J. C. Park, the collector of the Intelligencer, or address, "The Intelligencer, Greenville, Tenn.," with the amount enclosed and it will reach us. We must have immediate settlement of all claims. The office is in debt and must be paid out.

INTELLIGENCER CO. TO OUR PATRONS.

By the consolidation of the Union & American and Intelligencer, THE UNION is founded. THE UNION is the result of seven Democratic newspapers, which have been published in Greenville, since November 28, 1866, the date of the first issue of the National Union. It has been our misfortune to have been connected with some one of the papers during that eventful period. We must say that we have been successful, not to the full measure of our hopes, but then quite successful. When we commenced we had no capital to operate upon of our own. We have had more to contend against than it seemed to us we could possibly overcome. While others have lost hundreds, even thousands of dollars, in running a newspaper in Greenville, we have moved on the even tenor of our ways, and made some money. Not as much as we would like, but we owe very little and have hundreds of dollars due us, which should be paid immediately. There is enough due us, which if paid shortly, will enable us to enlarge THE UNION to an eight page, forty column paper, with new press and type.

We are very thankful to the five hundred old subscribers of THE UNION, who have sustained us through evil report as well as good report. We hope to be the better able to give you a good and reliable paper in the future. We hope all the subscribers of the Intelligencer, will see the necessity of sustaining their home paper and will give us even a more generous support than they ever gave that paper.

The newspaper is our trade, our life business. Others may be successful at what they know nothing about, but that is not the general experience. Such has not been the case with those who have had more money than wisdom in regard to the newspaper business in Greenville. We have made what we have invested in our paper, while others have lost thousands of dollars. We have done the most of our own work, and lived on a "sixpence a week."—Sometimes "nary" sixpence. Let that go for what it is worth and look to the future, come to our support with your dollars and dimes, your bacon and beans, your meal and flour, your wheat and corn, in fact anything that will bread and clothe a man and family, and we will all be happy in that great day, when life's trials on earth are done, and all are prepared for a never ending eternity.

"THE UNPLEGDED THEOLOGIAN."

In the walks of nature how many striking illustrations we see of every day life, and comparisons however odious are useful and more fully explain our meaning than words alone can express. The full grown gosling just as it assumes the carriage and walk of the full fledged goose very aptly illustrates the zealous theologian who writes and talks very wisely (so far as his own ideas of wisdom extends) about that which he knows very little about. He assumes like the gosling to be a full fledged, but others see him in his true and unpledged state. The articles that have been appearing frequently of late on the subject of Spiritualism gives the impression that a tadpole gives which is that he is only a pseudo of what he is yet to be. One would suppose by reading the written articles on the subject of Spiritualism that the author had just emerged from the woods and on reaching the settlements he had just heard of something awful that had just broken loose. We volunteer this much advice to the dear brother, keep cool, and search the scriptures, and you will find, and when found, make a note. Spiritualism is as old as Moses and has its legitimate offspring down to John. If you wish to be enlightened and can't find the places in the Bible, perhaps one of the children of that high and majestic being of which you seem to be so much better informed about will aid you by giving you the references. You no doubt in turn will reciprocate by telling what you know of his Satanic Majesty, for if Spiritualism is of him and you are to establish that fact, you must be able to tell us all about him. See the article below and explain from whence and from whom Mr. Owen received his message, and let us know.

PETER. ROBERT DALE OWEN'S LAST SEANCE.

It was the writer's good fortune, while on a visit to a prominent Spiritualist in Brooklyn, N. Y., three weeks ago, to meet for the first time Robert Dale Owen, and to dwell under the same roof with him for several days. Once or twice a day circles would be held. Mr. Owen took much interest and his many friends crowded around him, anxious to send him greeting. So marked were the demonstrations that other members of the circle could not help becoming sensible that the gathering was one that awaited his coming into the other life. Among others who came was one who announced himself as "Commodore S," who knew Mr. Owen in Naples, and had many a good time with him. Mr. Owen asked for the full name, and it was given—"Commodore Stringham." "That is very good," said Mr. Owen, "and I know to what he refers. Has he anything to say to me?" The reply came, "Yes, you can't row your boat much longer; it is time for you to go into the cabin." Mr. Owen seemed disposed to take the communication literally, and alluded to a boat at his home on Lake George; but the control interrupted, saying: "No, that is not what is meant; you have sailed a good ship; you have kept a straight course; the voyage is nearly ended, and you will soon come to an anchor. Then I shall meet you on the shore in company with your other friends and relatives who wait your coming. Do you understand?"

Mr. Owen replied that he did, and for a time a feeling of sadness fell on the little company, for they knew that Mr. Owen was soon to exchange the corruptible for the incorruptible, and the mortal would put on immortality. At a later seance, when Mr. Owen was taking an afternoon rest on one of the warm summer days of early June, the intelligence was communicated that his mission was nearly ended, and before the autumn leaves fell he would be among those in the spirit whom he longed to meet. This was Mr. Owen's last seance, and a pleasant one it was.—[Boston Herald.]

WASHINGTON LETTER. Washington, D. C., July 15, 1877.

Hon. Wayne McVeigh is a model letter writer, or else he has a model writer in his employment. The pen that shows Ben. Butler is skilfully used indeed and deserves the praise of all without distinction of race, sex, or color. Butler cannot be driven from politics nor be kept silent but the fit and bitter language of McVeigh will ring in his ears forever, and will be a consolation to all who hereafter suffer from Butler slanders. Let us now see if Butler cannot do some service to his country by using his well known ability in exposing McVeigh and the corrupt ring which disgraces while it controls the Republican party of Pennsylvania. He knows a good deal of its members and he certainly has provocation, if ever any man had, to do all the injury possible. One of the difficulties of a who takes high office—the Presidency for instance—is that countless bunners and swindlers force themselves on him and "bulldoze" him into giving them office. A man like Hayes, knowing little of national politics and politicians and having a Cabinet composed of visionary the orists or men whose interest in public affairs died out years ago, is especial liable to this kind of opposition. This Administration has made several amusing blunders of the kind, but has corrected them or will do so. Your readers remember the story of the quiet gentleman who attended a large public meeting in the West and while the speaking was going on was ceaselessly imperturbed by a man to call for Smith—to get Smith to speak. Out of good nature the man called for Smith and the audience took up the call and when Smith appeared upon the platform our friend that just called for Smith saw that Smith saw the importunate gentlemen who first instigated the call. "That," said our friend "that's the d—d little 'skeezicks' that told me to call for Smith." But the policy of delay in filling the offices has saved Mr. Hayes from many serious mistakes and it may justly be said that he has appointed fewer of the positively objectionable class that was expected by those appreciating the difficulties of his position. The season of excursions down the Potomac is fully opened. There are excursions of classes. The churches, the beneficial societies, the bank clerks, grocery clerks—every set of men but newspaper men—organize excursion parties. The Potomac passes our doors and along its banks are some memorable places in history and here and there well kept pleasure resorts. At sometime during the next summer everybody here takes a trip down the river. Although Secretary Evarts warmly supports General Ord's method of dealing with the Rio Grande marauders, and proposes to hold Spain to a strict fulfillment of her international obligations towards us, there is no great apprehension of war with either; nor does it appear likely from his action in the case of the reported filibustering expedition fitting out at New Orleans for Cuba that he will look upon such demonstrations with favor. Interest in political matters are chiefly centered on Ohio at present. Thompson, late Sergeant-at-arms of the House, claims that the Democrats are certain of the victory in October, which is vigorously denied by Ohio republicans at present in this city.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption. The reputation it has attained, in consequence of the marvellous cures it has produced during the last half century, is a sufficient assurance to the public that it will continue to realize the happiest results that can be desired. In almost every section of country there are persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. All who have tried it acknowledge its superiority; and where its virtues are known, no one hesitates as to what medicine to employ to relieve the distress and suffering peculiar to pulmonary affections. CHERRY PECTORAL always affords instant relief, and performs rapid cures of the milder varieties of bronchial disorder, as well as the more formidable diseases of the lungs. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, it is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued and restored to health. This medicine gains friends at every trial, as the cures it is constantly producing are too remarkable to be forgotten. No family should be without it, and those who have once used it never will. Eminent Physicians throughout the country prescribe it, and Clergymen often recommend it from their knowledge of its effects. PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., Practical and Analytical Chemists. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

THE SUN. 1877. NEW YORK. 1877.

The different editions THE SUN during the next year will be the same as during the year that has just passed. The daily edition will on week days be a sheet of four pages, and on Sundays a sheet of eight pages of the same dimensions and character that are already familiar to our friends. THE SUN will continue to be the strenuous advocate of reform and re-entrenchment, and of the substitution of statesmanship, wisdom, and integrity for hollow pretence, imbecility, and fraud in the administration of public affairs. It will contend for the government of the people by the people and for the people, as opposed to government by frauds in the ballot-box and in the counting of votes; enforced by military violence. It will endeavor to supply its readers—a body not new for from a million of souls—with the most careful, complete, and trustworthy accounts of current events, and will employ for this purpose a numerous and carefully selected staff of reporters and correspondents. Its reports from Washington, especially, will be full, accurate and fearless; and it will doubtless continue to deserve and enjoy the hatred of those who thrive by plundering the Treasury or by usurping what the law does not give them, while it will endeavor to merit the confidence of the public by defending the rights of the people against the encroachments of unjustified power. The price of the daily SUN will be 55 cents a month or $6.50 a year, postpaid or with the Sunday edition $7.70 a year. The Sunday edition alone, eight pages $1.20 a year, post paid. The Weekly SUN, eight pages of 56 broad columns, will be furnished during 1877 at the rate of $1 a year, post paid. The benefit of this large reduction from the previous rate for the Weekly SUN can be enjoyed by individual subscribers without the necessity of making up clubs. At the same time, if any of our friends choose to aid in extending our circulation, we shall be grateful to them, and every such person who sends eleven or more subscribers from one place will be entitled to one copy of the paper for himself without charge. At one dollar a year, and printing and expenses of paper and printing are na- rily repaid; and, considering the size of the sheet and the quality of its contents, we are confident the people will consider THE SUN the cheapest newspaper published in the world, and we trust also one of the very best. Address, THE SUN, New York City.
