MORRISVILLE AND HYDE PARK, MAY 15th, 1886.

The Democrats of the South are furnishing plenty of campaign material for the Republicans of the North in the next campaign, by the big flags they are making over the arch traitor, Jeff Davis.

The streets of Chicago and Milwaukee have run red with blood the past week. The anarchists, socialists and communists of those cities have endeavored to carry out their peculiar ideas of how to run this country, and as a result, a number of police officers and many of the peace disturbers have been killed.

The rate of interest has changed within the past few years, and is steadily tending downward. On safe security borrowers can obtain money in large sums at almost their own rate of interest. Recently the city of Worcester, Mass., borrowed $100,000 at 4 per cent, and got a premium of $109,209 from a Boston firm, which effect reduces the interest to 3.5-8.

The House Committee on Invalid Pensions, on the 2nd inst., instructed Representative Morrill to report favorably a bill to Pension Prisoners of War. The bill provides that all persons in the service of the United States during the war of the rebellion who were prisoners of war for six months or more, and who are now suffering from any disability, shall be reasonably presumed to be the result of exposure and hardships endured while in confinement as prisoners of war, and not the result of their own misconduct or vicious habits, shall be entitled to pension at the rates now provided by law for similar disabilities.

The manufacturer who hopes to hold his own in the fierce competition which characterizes modern manufactures, must of necessity keep a sharp lookout for valuable improvements in machinery, and must introduce them promptly when presented. The movement of the inventor is always forward. Thousands of ingenious minds are continually studying out methods for making processes easier and more economical. From time to time some device for bettering the way of doing a thing, or for saving a little labor, is patented. The manufacturer who simply ignores these things, and runs along heedlessly in the old way, with the old devices, will be left behind and beaten as surely as the earth rolls around the sun.

SHORT, SHARP AND DECISIVE.—Liberty of speech is the right of every man in this country, but liberty to murder is the right of none. The miscreants who come here with bombs and dynamite, and with the avowed purpose of killing their neighbors do not please them; but deal with in the sternest and most relentless manner. There is no room for them in this country, and the places they occupy cannot be vacated too soon.

In such a contest as that which has been provoked in Chicago, where the crazy fools who are making the streets alike of peaceful citizens and officers of the law, have attempted to execute their ferocious purpose, there is but one thing to be done. They must be put down made to feel that their hands are not strong enough to remain alive must be tried and must have justice, but not mercy.

There is no excuse whatever for their crime, and the courts and authorities of Illinois will be relied upon to deal with them as their deserts and the public safety require.—Y. Y. Sun.

THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE reports favorably to Congress the bill to place limitation butler under the supervision of the internal revenue department, with the view of compelling the sale of the stuff, if sold at all, as an imitation, and not as now protected, as the genuine article. Manufacturers, it is said, are making great efforts to defeat the bill, and only the prompt and earnest work of the dairymen and others interested can secure the passage of the bill. It is hoped that the sale of bogus butter will be at least checked, and the dairy interests, particularly of New England, demand it.

GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE OWES HIS great and rapidly increasing wealth to his inventive genius. Twenty years ago he was a poor man, but he struck it rich in his invention of railroads and money has since flowed into his coffers in a golden stream. He is one of the most prolific inventors of the age, and has enough good mechanical ideas to establish in every manufacturing establishment in the world successful specialties. He is not only highly skilled in theoretical and practical mechanics, but is also a thorough electrician. He spends an ordinary fortune every year in experiments necessary to the perfection of his inventions. By warrant of the King of Belgium he is entitled to the title of Sir George Westinghouse, having been knighted by that monarch in recognition of his services to the world as an inventor. He is a native of New York State, and is about 40 years old.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 8, 1886.

When Jefferson Davis started on his trip through Georgia, little thought was given to his words or to the shouts of welcome that greeted him, but when the people of Georgia turned out en masse, men, women and children bowed down, old confederates flung flowers to the breeze, confederate war songs sung, and the bands must needs play no other music, when the oration is proclaimed, weeks, and as Mr. Davis grows plainer in his expressions, his auditors grow louder and more demonstrative, and when finally when he drops all formalities and addresses his hearers and worshippers as confederates, and the whole south raises up almost as one man and makes the heavens resound with their shouts of applause, it is time for the people to pause and think.

They are settling in grants are from towns and villages in New Mexico and Arizona, and that they do not disguise the fact that they are coming to Mexico to find employment under recent laws, which they are satisfied will shortly be enforced in other Territories than Utah.

Siamese women may not find their matrimonial lives altogether pleasant, but they are not so badly off as they are represented to be. They are satisfied with their lot, and are not likely to find among their rights. The native gentlemen, it appears, are allowed by law to sell themselves in payment of their debts, and a man who has thus disposed of himself can compel his wife, if she be able to redeem him, but when she has done so, he at once becomes her sole property, and she can in her turn be sold as part of her goods and chattels, to be sold or retained as it may seem convenient to her.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week two ball men were playing on the western promenade in Portland, Me. The player who was aged 12 to 14 years of age, and the boy who acted as umpire, Charlie Furlong, was still younger. His decisions were regarded by one of the nine as being very bad, and he was accordingly referred to the players, a boy of 13, named Willie Costello, who gave the Furlong boy a bad beating. While the row was going on, the umpire, Charlie Furlong, was struck on the head with a bat, and he fell to the ground, and was taken to the hospital, where he died.

The wounded man was taken to the office of Dr. W. D. Reed, where, after considerable difficulty, his wound was dressed. He was then taken home, and on Sunday morning he died.

Allen St. John, of Hubbardton, recently killed three four-year-old steers, the average weight of each of which was about 1,000 lbs. The steers were killed by a cow, which was usually kept by farmers, not registered blood stock. I have received better returns and made more from keeping sheep than from any other kind of stock, and I should like to be made no by the common farmer in keeping sheep than in keeping any other kind of stock, notwithstanding the low price paid for wool. I have a few more of the different breeds of sheep, and I should like to see a Saxony, shearing about two pounds of washed wool; then the Merino, shearing with ordinary keeping, six and seven pounds; and the Coeswold, lighter shearer, considering the size of the Southdown is less oily than the Merino, of medium length and classed as a medium wool. I have seen some of the best of the Coeswold, and they are very fine. Frederick Billings' flock that I have kept have been grade Southdowns. With wool at fifty cents a pound the price of the most profitable sheep for the farmer is with the best prices of mutton and wool the Southdown is more profitable. The Southdown is a healthier sheep than the Coeswold and nearly as hardy as the Merino. They raise the best wool of any other sheep. They are very fond of their young and give plenty of milk. While a man was working on the Shepherds farm near Montpelier Junction, last Monday afternoon, three rough fellows attacked him. The farm hand laid them all out, and having a fork in his hand used it quite vigorously upon them, and one, Tom Moriarty, was quite severely hurt about the neck and back. The other two, Alanson Mills, of Albany, aged 16, years, met with quite a serious accident while sporting with a loaded pistol the other day. By some means the pistol was discharged prematurely, the ball striking his left leg five inches above the knee, and the other ball, which was in the pocket, struck him on the side of the head, making a hole eight or ten inches long. The ball was found in his boot.

POULTRY YARD. It is a good plan to discontinue the feeding of corn to the breeding and brooding fowls, and to substitute oats, whole wheat and barley are good for summer feed.

As the warm weather approaches, shade must be supplied for the fowls at the brooding and nesting places. Poultry suffer greatly from cold in winter, but not so much as they do from heat in the summer, if compelled to be under the sun's rays all day.

No amateur can expect to be successful with the best incubators of the first year, and never with a cheap one. All the fifty cent pieces or two dollar incubators will be found to be worthless. To make a center fire incubator, and might just as well cast into the flames.

The dust bath to the fowl is what the wash-bowl is to the individual. When a hen is incubating she comes off as regularly to dust herself as she does to feed, instinct teaching her that it is the best of methods for ridding her feathers of parasites.

It has been our experience that the summer hatched chickens have, on the whole, proved better winter layers than the early hatched. We have accounted for the difference in this way. Early hatched chickens will begin to lay at five and six months old, and keep it up till cold weather comes, when they drop off and rest up until about March. The later hatched poultry will be ready to lay at six months, and will keep it up till cold weather comes, when they drop off and rest up until about March.
