J., where they will pass several weeks with their son, Charles Baker. Dr. and Mrs. Roy Ward and infant child stopped in town several days last week. They were taking a carriage drive from their home in New Hampshire to different points in Vermont. The costume reading last Saturday evening was a very interesting meeting. The costumes were unique and effective. Some of them were killing, especially "Sir Chas.," "Tony" and "Mrs. Hardcastle." The rendering of the different parts was also very well done and much enjoyed by the rest of the club. A Very Pretty Wedding. A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Hon. and Mrs. S. A. Andrews Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 22, when their niece, Maud Story was united in marriage to Clyde W. Hulbert of Cornwall. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. G. French, pastor of the Cong'l church, who used the Episcopal ring service. At 4:30, preceded by two nieces of Miss Story as ribbon girls, the bridal party entered the prettily trimmed parlor, where a large number of their friends had gathered. The bride wore a gown of cream silk and carried white chrysanthemums. She was given away by her father, E. O. Story. Miss Marion Boynton was bridesmaid. She wore cream silk and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Sumner Story and Karl Smith acted as ushers. The best man was Carl Heflin of Barre. There were many wedding presents, showing the esteem in which these young people are held. After the wedding light re-

DURNO THE MYSTERIOUS & Co., will appear at Auditorium, Stowe, October 31st. The manager of the Opera House has been fortunate enough to secure Durno, The Mysterious & Co., who will appear here October 31st. Durno is endorsed by both press and public to be America's greatest magician in mystery and fun. He keeps his audience in an uproar of laughter and works with lightning like rapidity. He makes the impossible seem possible, the unnatural, natural. He causes you to think you see what you do not see, and not to see what you think you see. He gives an entertainment that is immensely entertaining to old and young. The Meta morphose, the Illusion gues, the Mutants Homo and the Organ Pipes are four great illusions originating with Durno. The company has crossed the continent six times during the past four years. Durno carries a special scenery, also six live animals—a jolly company of fun-makers, a whirlwind of wonders and a hundred laughs during his program of astonishment, mystification, imitation, y. atrioquism, dialect stories, comic songs and music from various different instruments. When one sees and hears the Durno Company, all sorrows and troubles are forgotten. Durno's motto—"Laugh and grow fat."
