E. J. Ward, pastor of the Cong'l church at this place seven years, from 1884 to 1891, died at Meredith, N. H., Oct. 13. He leaves three sons, E. Jay Ward of Meredith, Bert C. Ward of Madison, Wis., and Rev. Frank G. Ward of Chicago. He was buried at Grafton, where he had been a pastor 17 years before coming to Hyde Park.

Lecture Course

By contract with the White Entertainment Bureau, the Hyde Park Entertainment Committee has secured five splendid attractions for the coming winter, as follows:—Nov. 18—The Brewsters, Musical Entertainers; Dec. 9—Marcelline, Yogi Wonder-Worker; Feb. 23—Dr. G. Whitefield Ray, F. R. G. S., Explorer, Author, Lecturer; March 6—Warwick Male Quartette; April 10—Miss Grace Sage, Impersonator. Season Tickets, admitting to all five entertainments for $1.50, may be obtained of N. G. Wood by those who have not yet pledged. As a result of the canvass last spring, made by the ladies of the Home Culture Club, 98 pledges were secured. Allotment of reserved seats will be made in the County Clerk's office at 7.45 p. m., Thursday, Nov. 4, and in the same manner as last year. Those who have already pledged, are requested to bring or send payment for their tickets, which will be given out at this time.

A Fine Entertainment

One of the finest entertainments Hyde Park has had in a long time was that given last Friday evening by Miss Phyllis Brown of Boston, who rendered in a very delightful manner Anthony Hope's "The Adventures of Lady Ursula." Miss Brown is an accomplished young lady, decidedly at ease and very graceful on the stage. She has a good voice and her articulation was clear and distinct, while her gestures were faultless. The stage settings were very appropriate and the several piano selections by Miss Frances Nobles before and between the acts, added greatly to the success of the affair. Miss Brown is a friend of Miss Derby of the L. C. A. and it was through her that this artist was secured for this occasion. It is the general wish that the young lady appear here again.

Lessons Taught by Enemies.

Men or sense often learn from their enemies. Prudence is the best safeguard. This principle cannot be learned from a friend, but an enemy extorts it immediately. It is from their foes, not their friends, that cities learn the lesson of building high walls and ships of war. And this lesson saves their children, their homes and their properties.—Aristophanes.

Hunter Fatally Shot. Frank Austin, a Lowell farmer, aged 30 years, was fatally injured last Thursday evening when a gun exploded as he was taking it from a wagon. The charge entered his heart and stomach. Mr. Austin was driving through Eden Notch with Sanford Stevenson when he thought he saw a rabbit and he went to the back of the wagon and pulled out the gun. As he did so it accidentally exploded. After the accident Stevenson tried to get Austin into the wagon but could not do so. He then went for help. When he returned the man was dead. Authorities were summoned and the body was removed to the young man's home, about a mile and a half out of the village, where his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Curtis, keeps house for him. Mr. Austin was a member of the local baseball team, playing second base, and he was popular with his companions. Rank Not Considered. In the Japanese navy an admiral gets the same allowance for food as his enlisted sailors.

A SAVINGS BANK WITH A WORLD-WIDE REPUTATION.

It has been said that the foundation of every successful business is confidence. Let the public once reach the conclusion that a merchant is honest, reliable and square and his trade grows—often times the growth is phenomenal. While this is true with reference to merchants, it is especially true with reference to Savings Banks. It is said that there is nothing so cowardly as money; let the slightest breath of suspicion be raised in regard to the safety of money and it goes into hiding about as quick as you can say "Jack Robinson." On the other hand, let the methods and characteristics of the managers of a carefully conducted Savings Bank become the subject of favorable discussion and money flows into its treasury from every quarter. People first begin to talk about it on the street corners of the bank's home town, then the adjoining counties take up the discussion and, before you know it, the good opinions concerning the bank are spread from county to county, from state to state and from country to country, until it encircles the globe. An excellent example of this is the Hyde Park Savings Bank, whose growth for the first few years of its existence was very modest. The bank commenced business in January, 1889; ten years thereafter, on the first day of January, 1899, its deposits were only $479,704.56, a less sum than it has gained in a single year since that time. Ask almost any man of general information touching Vermont affairs today and he will tell you that the cause of the abnormal growth of the Hyde Park Bank has been the faith of the people in the painstaking care of that Bank in making its investments, as well as in a firm belief in the excellent business ability and the cautious conservatism of its managers. This reputation has spread until it has covered the country. There isn't a state in the Union that doesn't deposit money in the Hyde Park Savings Bank—indeed, it receives deposits from Alaska, the Philippine Islands, the Republics of Panama and Cuba, from the Canadian Provinces from Quebec on the east to Saskatchewan on the west and from China, India and Turkey. All these have contributed to make the Hyde Park Savings Bank the largest Bank in the world in a country village. The fact that not a dollar sent to the Hyde Park Bank by mail since it was organized in 1889 has ever been lost has undoubtedly contributed greatly to these far-away deposits of that Bank, and they have come to the Bank by check, postal or express money order and by registered letter. The Hyde Park Bank pays 4 per cent compounded semi-annually and pays all taxes. So far as the most careful scrutiny can determine, the Bank does not own a dollar of doubtful paper among its entire assets. "Safety first, safety last and safety all the time" has always been the motto of the Hyde Park Bank, and its books are always open to the most critical examination by any depositor. If any information is desired upon any point connected with the Bank, either call upon or write to the Bank's President, Carroll S. Page or the Treasurer, F. M. Culver, Hyde Park, Vermont, and a reply will be promptly forthcoming.
