At Presbyterian Mission

M. Hester, a prosperous young farmer of the Randlett neighborhood, was married at 2:30 p. m. yesterday to Miss LeTiole Allison, at the Presbyterian Mission, Rev. S. V. Fait, officiating. Miss Allison's home has been at Kansas city, but she has a brother, J. W. Allison, living near Randlett whose family she has been visiting.

Mr. Hester is one of Caddo county's live farmers. We all remember the picture of the man standing on horseback in the cornfield, with the tops of the corn coming even with his head. This picture has been reproduced in many eastern periodicals to show what Caddo county can do in the farming line, and was taken on Mr. Hester's farm. Mr. Hester is a progressive young man, who will have something to do with the making of his county. The bride was reared to womanhood in Kansas City, but has made many visits to Caddo county, finally deciding to remain here as her permanent home. The Democrat extends congratulations and best wishes for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

Edward B. Teis

While it is not the province of the Democrat to mix up in the affairs of any church other than in carrying their notices gratis and doing all we can, as a newspaper, to promote their work, we cannot refrain from congratulating the town that Edward B. Teis has consented to remain in his work here another year. We would not have commented on this matter editorially had Mr. Teis's activities been limited only to his church work. But when such a man, active in every good work in the city, a booster for Anadarko as one of the wheel horses of the commercial club, and who makes himself felt and counted in all the duties and privileges of good citizenship, contemplates severing himself from Anadarko, we cannot but feel a lively concern.

It is a matter of congratulation to the city, therefore, that Mr. Teis will continue to work for and in it.

The town experienced a loss when Colonel James F. Randlett, worn out by the petty cares and annoyances that he was forced to contend with daily, finally gave up the struggle and devoted his remaining years to rest and citrus growing in his California home. That another citizen much resembling him in the stand he took upon the public interests should also leave us would make such a difference to those who have the welfare of the city at heart as would be felt for many a day.

Very Useful Ammunition.

An army officer now in South Africa tells an odd tale of the Sikh war in India. Lalla Morraj was besieged by the British in Sultan and put up a stubborn defense. One day some of his men came across a stock of canned provisions, left by the former British occupants, and which were then quite a novelty. Lalla supposed that the cans contained explosives of some kind and ordered them to be fired at the besiegers. So for one whole day the British army was bombarded with showers of kippered herring, Yarmouth blasters, corned beef, and condensed milk.

Saturday's Ball Game

We are informed by one of our friends at the Riverside school that our mention of the ball game Saturday was altogether an error; that the game was not finished, ending in a wrangle; that the Indian boys were ahead when the difference in opinion came that brought the game to an end; and that the city high school hadn't beaten the Riverside team at all and couldn't beat them in a fair game. We did not go into the technicalities of this question of course, that the Riverside team and the school team is certain that the other side was in the wrong.

Our interest in the matter is to state the facts and matters of opinion are entirely outside our province except editorially. Occasionally we get wrong in our news items, but there is no intent to misrepresent.

A Messenger Boy

The attraction last night at the Opera house under this name was well attended and was appreciated by all who were present. The parts were acted so well that it seemed on looking on the play that it was real and the players were in true life and every word was meant. The parts did not seem to be memorized but came as the play progressed and every pose seemed natural. The trio riding took down the house, the two men doing seemingly impossible tricks and every turn was applauded.

Stolen Chickens.

G. W. Gardner informs us that last night all of his chickens but two mysteriously disappeared. He says that he did not mind losing the chickens so much but he would like to have bid them goodbye.
