English Village's Health Record. Not a single death occurred in the parish of Holwell during the last year. So far as can be ascertained from a search of the registers, dating back to 1853, this is a record without precedent. The nearest approach to it in the last century was in the years 1811 and 1863 in each of which two deaths occurred. The population at the time was 388. —London Standard

One Way or Doing Business.

Billy Emerson, the minstrel, took a company of black-face artists to Australia in the old days, and had more luck. On the way back he landed at Shanghai and gave a show.

Emerson saw there was a good house. "Doing pretty well," he said to the box-office man.

"Fine," that official replied; "we've got in $400 in money and $1,400 in chits."

"In what?" gasped Emerson.

"In chits."

"What are chits?"

"Why, promises to pay. Everybody uses chits here. Give a chit and settle at the end of the month."

"Do you mean to tell me that you have let $1,400 worth of seats go for them chits, as you call them?"

"Sure; why not?"

"And those people just signed their names and didn't pay cash?"

"Certainly."

"What a business I could do in the states!" groaned Emerson.—Saturday Evening Post.

Kat Plant Stimulus.

Some years ago, after a long and fatiguing climb by Americans in the Alysianian mountains, they were served with libations of "toddy," an extremely refreshing beverage in which catha edulis, or the kat plant, was used.

Certain tribes chew the leaves of the plant commonly when compelled to exert special or long continued effort, the immediate effect being sleeplessness and stimulation.

The freshly cut leaves have a rather pleasant taste and produce a kind of intoxication of long duration, with none of the disagreeable features of inebriety.

Messengers and soldiers, by chewing the leaves, are enabled to go without food for several days.

The better class of merchants chew these leaves three or four times a day, the habit being fairly comparable to the use of tea in the United States.

Wealth in Chemicals.

Ultramarine is cited as an example of the industrial value of chemical investigation. When this was made by powdering lapis lazuli, a very rare mineral, the cost exceeded its weight in gold, but since the chemist's discovery that the same material can be made from such cheap substances as sodium sulphate and carbonate, sulphur, charcoal and rosin, the price has fallen to a few cents a pound.

Acres of Grain from a Single Seed.

Great interest has been manifested by the farmers of Russia over recent experiments in their country regarding the production of grain. It has been shown that a single seed can reduce over an acre of grain. The method is to plant each grain in a conical pit 11 to 17 inches deep and 2 inches wide. After every three weeks the sprouting grain is covered with a layer of earth. This process is repeated ten times. The result is that each grain planted in the inverted apex of the conical pit gives a stalk with blades. Under these blades is a thickening of the stock, which is called the "bushy knots." The result of the first covering will be three stalks, and at the tenth covering there will be over fifty thousand. By a system of transplanting the grain is then raised in great quantities from the one seed.

An Anatomical Location.

McMurf met Pleader, the lawyer, not long ago. "Ah," said he, "you're just the man I've been looking for for a week. I went over to your office, but found you'd moved."

"Yes, I'm a block around the corner now," said Pleader. "A dentist has my old place."

"So?" ventured McMurf; "then after this when we want our teeth pulled we'll have to go where we used to get our legs pulled."

Peasant Girl's Treasure

Members of the well known Roman family of Ghika, who are resident in Vienna, received some interesting information from Jassy to-day, says the London Telegraph. A number of cases filled with objects of gold and silver, with jewelry and diamonds, estimated to be worth several million kronen, were found in the course of a search made by the police in the house of a peasant woman named Safta Bradinarin, living in the environs of Jassy.

This woman, who was at once arrested, stated that the cases had been concealed in her house for 26 years. Her deceased daughter was in the service of Prince Nikolai Ghika, who died suddenly after an operation in Paris. The peasant's daughter Maria took several sealed cases which no one appeared to want, and conveyed them to her home. She was afraid to attempt to dispose of the valuable objects, which have until now remained hidden in her mother's house.

A nice ring will please the new graduate. See the large collection at Mitchell's. 88-7td

Bran Bath Worth Trying.

One of the latest things for the nervous woman who is trying to reduce her fractious nerves is the bran bath just before retiring at night. This not only has a soothing effect, but incidentally softens and whitens the skin. To make the bath buy ordinary bran at a feed store and keep it in a tin box away from mice. Make a bag of cheesecloth, from 12 to 18 inches square and stuff it with bran until about as full as a pine pillow. This bag is put in a bathtub half filled with warm water and squeezed until the water is brown and bubbly. It is not well to remain in the water longer than five or six minutes and, if possible, the bather should rest ten minutes and then be massaged. If there is no one to do the massaging one can rub the body thoroughly with a rough towel and knead it with the hands.

American Women Wonderful.

The women of America are wonderful! Their versatility, acuteness, splendid mental energy, high ideals, firm grasp of subjects, added to their charming manners, tasteful dress, graceful deportment, are refined and feminine to a degree. We all know the brainy, masculine woman the world over. But the American, while she may be masculine in brain and alertness, is also feminine—emotional, if you like—in her makeup. She is a truly charming type. The American woman is also very practical, very inventive. She develops an idea and she works out her idea to its utmost possibilities. It may be only a new sort of neckband supporter, but she does not belittle her hobby. She brings her imagination into her work. She may be utilitarian, but the successful business woman is artistic to her finger tips.—New York Correspondence London Express.

Niagara Glen Worth Seeing.

Niagara glen is a great place for botanists. Many fine specimens grow here, and since the park commissioners have cleared it of objectionable features so that it is hardly to be called a wild place, it certainly might be termed weird. A place that should be sought out by nature lovers but hardly the tourists—it means work and time to see it well, and it is no place to go alone, but a guide is most always there to take one through. Probably not more than two or three out of each thousand visitors to Niagara Falls ever hear of this place and perhaps fewer see it.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Cold and Aloof.

"Lord Curzon, during the visit that ended in his marriage to Miss Leiter proved very interesting in his cold, proud way."

The speaker, a Chicagoan, smiled and resumed:

Rye Drop Cakes.

Two-thirds cup rye flour, two-thirds cup flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoon molasses, one-half cup milk, one egg well beaten. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat, drain and serve.

Mrs. Housewife:—There's a Happy Medium in Everything

Anything that is overdone or underdone is not good. In the case of baking powder, if you use the cheap and Big Can kinds you are getting quantity at the sacrifice of quality. It cannot be as good — or as economical as Calumet — the medium price kind. If you use the High Price Kind, you are paying tribute to the Trust — the quality is no better.

In this can you get more substance but not more baking powder. It is great in quantity only — not in economy — not in satisfaction.

Great in price, little in quantity and the quality is no better — if as good.

Calumet, in the Standard 1 lb. can, sells at a moderate cost—but is great in all round satisfaction. You use less of it—it makes the baking lighter, purer — more delicious. One baking will prove its superiority—try it. Ask your grocer and insist on Calumet. Free—large handsome recipe book. Send in and slip found in pound can. Calumet Baking Powder Co., Chicago
