Co. H Off for Camp.

Under command of Capt. J. O. Parker, seventy-four members of Company H, Third regiment, Michigan National Guards, left at 7:35 o'clock Monday morning, on a Grand Trunk special train, for the annual state encampment at Ludington. The number of men taken by the Owosso organization will probably exceed the average number of any company in the state, and also compares favorably with the number taken in past years.

Arrayed in heavy marching order, the boys left the armory early Monday morning and marching to the Grand Trunk depot, proceeded to load, in a special baggage car, left here for the accommodation of the soldiers, the many large chests containing all camp equipment.

On the train with the Owosso boys, was the Pontiac company, and the two companies will be joined later by the Lansing company, and a detachment of the signal corps, from Ionia. The special is due to arrive in Ludington, over the Pere Marquette at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, giving the boys ample time to pitch tents and prepare for night, before darkness comes on. They will be absent from Owosso ten days.

Following is a list of the members of the company who left Monday morning:
 Captain J. O. Parker; Lieuts. Frank E. Evans and Charles F. Lahman; First Sergt. D. K. Parker; Quartermaster Sergt. August Schneider; Sergts. Orth, Lahman, Dutcher and VanWagoner; Corps. Schaar, Sintz, Marvin, Schutte, Whitehearse and Sunfleben; Musicians F. Schier and H. Schultz; Cooks, C. J. McNally and Ray Reynolds.

Privates L. Austin, Charles Austin, H. Banks, Banghart, Beecher, Bartell, Boyer, Cook, Davis, Doyle, Doane, Everden, Ellsworth, Evans, Freeman, Filkins, Fay, Frickie, Fish, Giffe, Goeckel, Hass, Howell, Hoover, Hudlow, Hanseman, Isham, Johnson, A. Knoblauch, R. Knoblauch, LaClear, Laveck, Monroe, McCall, Moss, Monks, Nevins, Preston, Powers, Rathbun, Rainey, Raymond, Schultz, Shier, Secor, Skinner, Sayn, Wetzel, Whitehearse, Chas. Wilson, Geo. Wilson, Wilkinson, Case, Hewitt, Rogers and Secord.

Oscar J. Reynolds, formerly First Sergt., but reduced to the ranks at his own request, was unable to go with the company, on account of his position as substitute clerk at the postoffice. Private Frank Mier, a member of the state rifle team, is already at Ludington. G. C. Leucke-mann will take care of the regimental colors at camp.

Civilians James E. Dingwall and Charles J. McNalley, Jr., also went with the company.

The Horseman

Likes a fine animal. You get the horse and Harvell's Condition Powders will do the rest. It is the best condition powder on the market. Absolutely no waste and every ingredient is medicinal. Used by all the leading eastern racing stables. You should try them and see for yourself. Price 25c per package.—J. A. Carr and son, Lansing, Mich., writes:—"We have used Harvell's Condition Powders on our livery horses for about three years and have always found them superior to all others. We have found that livery horses are subject to great abuse and Harvell's Condition Powders always bring back the appetite and puts them on their pins." Sold by Johnson & Son and Sprague & Co.

Riverside Farmers' Club.

The Riverside Farmers' club met, Thursday, Aug. 5, at the county farm with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Case. It was an ideal summer's day, and every one seemed to fully enjoy it after the intense heat of the preceding day, and then there were many for whom this was their first visit to the farm, and of course this added to the enjoyment of the occasion. As the guests arrived they were given a hearty welcome by Mr. and Mrs. Case. Any one, who has ever called at the county farm during their stay, knows what this welcome means. Mr. and Mrs. Case are certainly royal entertainers, and they proved no exception on this occasion.

After a social hour in the spacious sitting room, the guests were invited out on the lawn where an excellent program was given, under the shade of the beautiful trees.

President Gerow being absent, Vice President George Detwiler took the chair and called the meeting to order. All joined in singing "My Old Kentucky Home." Rev. G. W. Jennings took charge of devotional exercises. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Roll call found all but two families present. Under head of new business was an assessment of 50 cents per family, to be paid annually on or before the November meeting each year. It was also suggested that whenever a member knows or hears of sickness in the club, the same be reported to the chairman of the flower committee, who at the present time is Mrs. F. M. Crowe.

Owing to sickness, Mrs. Black sent in her resignation as secretary, and Mrs. F. M. Crowe was elected to fill the vacancy. The club discussed at some length the possibility of purchasing dishes. Some were very much opposed to the same, while others were much in favor of the plan.

Mrs. Lowell of the North Owosso club being present was called upon to tell their experience. She said their club purchased dishes some seven or eight months ago, and as yet there had not been a dish broken and they were heartily pleased with owning their own dishes. The matter was dropped for the present.

The program was next taken up. First was a song by Mrs. Leffingwell.

"Late Corn, What Can we do to Promote its Growth and Aid it to Maturity?" Mr. Wright being absent Mr. Kentfield was called upon. He said the only thing he knew was to give it plenty of work. Others agreed with him.

"Lightning rods, are they a Benefit to the Farmer?" Mr. Leffingwell said he had tried hard to have Mr. Grill present thinking he could explain much better than he, but he was unable to get him, but he certainly thought they were a great protection. Mr. Cudney thought the same money invested in insurance was a better investment than the rods as after a short time the rods were allowed to become loose and tip over and a great many times they spoiled the look of what otherwise would be a pretty place.

C. H. Barrett, said he thought that the rods properly put up were a benefit but the trouble came from improper rodding.

Miss Fanny Schroder then furnished music, which was greatly enjoyed. We then listened to a well prepared paper by Mrs. Case which was in part as follows:

"My opinion is almost everything is or should be a source of comfort to the farmer's family. Who can describe the comforts and pleasures of a country life. Only those who have lived there and enjoyed its privileges and blessings. Many think that farming is one continual round of drudgery. No rest. No relaxation. No enjoyment of any kind and so though there are many privations hardships and drawbacks in a farmer's life yet there is no occupation so healthy, free and independent as farming.

The farmer who owns his farm be it ever so plain and unpretentious when he looks over his fields of growing grain is encouraged. He knows that nature with his assistance is making provisions for the comforts and needs of his family.

"When he sees the wild flowers scattered so profusely over field and road he is encouraged to behold Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Tiny specimens of Divine art he knows that the soil is fertile and will yield fair returns for all labor bestowed upon it. The amusements which the country people provide for their children is a healthy, innocent nature the snares and temptations of a city life, the gambling holes and dens of vice are no part of a farmer's possessions. His children grow up with honest, sober industrious habits, educated and trained in the ways of thrift and economy, making them reliable men and women to fill the various vocations of life.

"When we have passed forever on the stage of action the hearts of the parents are comforted when they know their children are prepared for a life of usefulness, when they are resting from their labors of love. Yet the greatest consolation, the most comfort of all is the assurance that though Paul may plant and Apollo may water, God giveth the increase."

Donald Richardson then favored us with a song responding to an encore, which was fine.

The Outlook for the Turkish Empire Today was assigned to Geo. Detwiler, who gave a very interesting talk on the same.

A. L. Chandler gave a most excellent talk on the outlook of the farmer for the present year. Mr. Chandler's remarks were certainly worthy of going into print. Our only regret was that we had no one to take it in shorthand. He took us back to twenty years ago and showed the improvement down to the present time. He said, to him things never looked more promising than at present. He was heartily applauded.

Music, organ and violin, Mr. Norton and daughter, Mrs. Dynes, was fine and if we had had a nice smooth floor instead of the ground no telling what might have happened.

Rev. Jennings made a few remarks for the good of the club in which he said he appreciated being a member of the club and attending the meeting and that he never yet had been to a meeting but what he felt he received more good from the club than he could possibly give, although the club could not agree with him. This concluding the program the meeting was adjourned to meet Friday, September 3 with Mr. and Mrs. Schiffer. They received the consent of the club to entertain on Friday instead of Thursday. We were then invited to the house to supper, where Mrs. Case had covered laid for nearly one hundred. We partook of a most excellent supper, after which the members were allowed to inspect the grounds and visit with the inmates which was certainly enjoyed. Many were the words of praise spoken for the work Mr. and Mrs. Case were doing. The inmates seemed a happy, care-free contented lot. Finally the hour for departure came. Goodbyes were said and as we homeward came we felt it had been good to be there.

What is More Necessary to Happiness?

Anchored Him.

"I was at a reception with a certain young lady the other night" said a man who always tells the truth, "and her father was there too. He doesn't think much of me, and he followed us about from room to room—wouldn't let us get out of his sight for a minute. Well, I knew the old man was an awful tight wad, so I thought up a scheme. I carelessly dropped a half dollar on the floor while he was looking. He moved over and put his foot on it and never stirred until the party broke up. Meanwhile daughter and I beat it and enjoyed ourselves."—Cleveland Leader.

 Paul's Third Missionary Journey—Ephesus. Lesson Acts xviii:23 to xix:22.

Golden Text—The name of the Lord Jesus was magnified. Acts ix:17.
 Verse 23—Is a systematic "follow up system," as essential in Christian work as it is to successful business?

Are any so strong that we cannot derive "strengthening" from the prayers and the experience of others, and are any so weak that we may not "strengthen" others?

Verses 24-26—What is the minimum of knowledge necessary in order that one may be a true child of God? What are the minimum qualities essential to become a preacher of the gospel?

What good qualities for a preacher did this man Apollos possess? What did "the baptism of John" include, and what did it lack of full orb'd Christianity?

What percentage of present day preachers will exceed Apollos (1) in their zeal and ability, (2) in their Christian knowledge, i. e., personal experience, of Christ's gospel?

If Apollos had been conceded or anything less than a man of God, would he have submitted to teaching from a layman and his wife?

Verse 27—Should laymen use the pen more frequently to help preachers, whom they know who are going to other towns?

Verse 28—Why is it that God has conditioned, all human progress and betterment, including a knowledge of the gospel, upon the zeal, ability and goodness of those who already enjoy its benefits?

Chap. xix:1-7—Were these twelve persons whom Paul found at Ephesus, actually the reconciled children of God at this time?

What proportion, of present day Christians, have practically the same experience as these twelve disciples had, when Paul met them?

Is the Holy Spirit, as spoken of in this lesson, generally received at or subsequent to conversion?

If it is now the privilege of every Christian to receive the Holy Spirit, and to walk in Him thereafter, how may He be received?

Was the gift of tongues and prophesying then, or is it now, a necessary accompaniment of the baptism of the Holy Spirit? (See I Cor. 12:4-11; 29, 30.)

Is there anything necessarily implied in receiving the Holy Spirit, other than the constant realization that God dwells in us, to keep us holy, to guide us in all things, and to give us necessary power and wisdom to carry out God's purposes concerning us?

Verse 8—Why ought, or ought not, the pulpit now, as Paul did then, to "dispute," or argue, and bring convincing proofs, compelling men's reasons, by powerful evidence, of the truths of Christianity, and not be content with simple declamation as is now so common? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 9-12—Apart from the miraculous power that Paul had, what was the secret of his success?

Verses 13-17—Why do some to-day blaspheme the name of God, and dare the power of God; are they possessed with the devil?

Verses 18-22—Does conversion always imply restitution, and the forsaking of every evil way?

for August 22, 1909—Paul's Third Missionary Journey—The Riot in Ephesus. Acts xix:23-xx:1.

The New Boarder.

"What did you say your name was?" inquires the landlady in a boarse whisper.

"Camp."
 "Ladies and gentlemen, this is Mr. Grant."

She waves you to a vacant chair. The young lady on your right drops a half bow. The young gentleman to your left drops a pork chop. Thus, amid covert sneers, supercilious glances and general awkwardness, you take your place among an alien people.

"A hash house introduction always reminds me of a minstrel show," declares the humorous boarder. "Be seated, gentlemen; know each other and be acquainted."

Whereat you must smile.
 "Chase the cow this way," continues the humorous boarder in time honored reference to the milk picher, whereat you must guffaw.

"You are always master of ceremonies," says a young lady boarder to the humorous one. "As for me, I'm too timid."

"Why are you timid?"
 "Oh, I'm so little!"

"Sweet goods come in small packages."

"So does poison."

Fine old repartee! After dinner you ascend to your hall bedroom and wonder if you will ever be at home in this company. But you know you will. Within a month you will be lending money to the humorous boarder and perhaps have a love affair started.—Puck.

Not a Success.

The manager of the subscription book department was telling of some of his experiences. "The funniest case I remember," he said, "was that of an applicant for a job at book canvassing from whom I expected great things. He made a careful study of the literature we supplied him with and was very enthusiastic. Judge of my surprise when the first morning he went out back he came and handed in his resignation."

"But you should not be so easily discouraged," I told him. "Few make a success at the start, and you acknowledge that you went into only two places."

"Only two," he said lugubriously.

"One was a real estate agent, who persuaded me to sign a contract for two lots in Fizzlehurst, and the other was a tailor, who sold me a suit of clothes I didn't want." And, shaking his head mournfully, he mumbled "Good day" and went out.—Lippincott's.

In the Hands of the Law.

An impecunious young lawyer recently received the following letter from a tailor to whom he was indebted:

Dear Sir—Kindly advise me by return mail when I may expect a remittance from you in settlement of my account. Yours truly, J. SNIPPEM.

The follower of Blackstone immediately replied:

Dear Sir—I have your request for advice of a recent date and beg leave to say that, not having received any retaining from you, I cannot act in the premises. Upon receipt of your check for $50 I shall be very glad to look the matter up for you and to acquaint you with the results of my investigations. I am, sir, with great respect, your most obedient servant. BARCLAY B. COKE.

—Success Magazine.

Redundant Particulars.

Cleveland people consider the name of their town sufficient as an address without the addition of Ohio, and one protesting against the use of the name of the state tells a story to illustrate the folly of redundant particulars. "It reminds me," he said, "of the fussy Englishman who went up to St. Peter and said, 'I'm from London.' And then, for fear the saint might mix him up with somebody else, he added, 'London, England, you know.' That riled the good old gatekeeper. 'From London, England, eh?' he said. 'Well, Mr. Man from London, England, you're knocking at the wrong door. Your new address is Sheel, Brimstone county, Dominion of Lucifer.'"—Exchange.

The Gnu in the Zoo.

They've got a gnu in the zoo. It's a new gnu. That is to say, no one ever knew it there before. When it arrived it had very little coat. Consequently it was in a state of nudity; hence, this new ditty we are composing on the subject. But now it is no longer nude. That new gnu knew something and grew a new coat for the cold weather. If some people knew what that new Nubian gnu knew, they would keep their hair on.—London Scraps.

Importance of Vowels.

Do you fully realize the importance of the vowel "e" in English? The inscription, "Prsryprctmrvkrtkspststn," over the Decalogue in an English country church puzzled people for 200 years. Pepper it properly with "e's" and you may read, "Preserve, ye perfect men; ever keep these precepts ten." Easy, isn't it?—Boston Globe.

Modest Modern Man.

Whatever may be said of the modern man, he cannot be said to be lacking in modesty. While the ancients did their utmost to prove that they issued from the gods, we do our best to demonstrate that we have descended from monkeys.—Paris Journal.

Merely Local.

Young Thomas, afflicted with a green apple pain in his midst, thus explained his condition to his mother: "Mother, I've got an awful bad pain right in the middle of my stomach, but the rest of me feels fine!"—Lippincott's.

In this world one must be a little too kind to be kind enough.—Marivaux.

The Hub of the German Empire.

Unter den Linden is the center spot of Berlin and the hub of the German empire. This magnificent boulevard is 198 feet in width, and under the shade of its lime trees the Berliners have a meeting place which is equal in architectural beauty to any in Europe. It is lined on either side with magnificent hotels, restaurants and palaces. At the east end of Unter den Linden, where it enters upon the Opera House platz, stands the magnificent monument of Frederick the Great, which is worthy of the real founder of United Germany. To the right of this monument is the palace of the Emperor William I., now occupied by Prince Heinrich. The north side of the Opera platz is occupied by the buildings of the University of Berlin, and next to it stands the Royal Library, which rivals that at the British museum both in its size and the number of volumes it contains. The opera house itself is on the south of the platz and is a building of a nation of music lovers like the Germans.—Argonaut.

Spoiled His Taste.

"A friend of mine," said a Montana man, "is defending a damage suit for being a party to making a man take the liquor cure without his consent. This man had been on a protracted spree of several weeks, and his business was going to the dogs. My friend thought it would be a kindly thing to send him to a sanitarium for treatment. He did so, and the man was given the cure for the whisky habit. When he was discharged from the sanitarium the first thing he did was to go to a saloon. He called for whisky. He tasted it, but did not fancy the flavor of it. He set his distaste of it down to the cure he had been given by my friend's orders and immediately began suit for $50,000 damages. He says in his complaint that he had a highly cultivated and discriminating taste for whisky, which had taken years to develop, and that was spoiled by the cure. I do not know how my friend will come out, but he is not helping any more 'down and out' without first obtaining their consent."—New York Journal.

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vienna, W. Va.—"I feel that I owe the last ten years of my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Eleven years ago I was a walking shadow. I had been under the doctor's care but to no relief. My husband persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like a charm. It relieved all my pains and I advise all suffering women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Mrs. EMMA WHEATON, Vienna, W. Va.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owe it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.
