Itching piles provoke profanity, but profanity won't cure them. Doan's Ointment cures itching, bleeding or protruding piles after years of suffering.

Dies from Paralysis. Suffering a stroke of paralysis, after enjoying usual good health all day, William Scott, aged 70 years, and a respected citizen of Owosso died about midnight Friday at his home, 332 North Dewey street.

Few people think much about this. A fly, a grasshopper or a bug is merely a single insect—small, feeble and incapable of doing much harm, but if we multiply this single insect by the millions that would be found on a few acres, we can see that the injury caused by the ceaseless work of these millions may very well amount to much.

It has been said that the grasshopper eats his own weight each day in vegetation, and while the weight of a single grasshopper is not much, the weight of a million or of ten million would be a great deal, and anyone who has ever seen the western country while it was being visited by a flight of what used to be called the Rocky Mountain locusts knows that but a very short time is required for a horde of those individually small things to sweep every vestige of green from a great field of growing corn.

His More Important Duty. The error into which King Alfred fell in that famous instance when he let the cakes left in his care burn is not going to be repeated by the telegraph operator of whom Arthur W. North tells in "Camp and Camino in Lower California."

I learned at this point that for the first 500 miles before me I would require more change than I had on hand and would pass through no place where checks could be cashed. Moreover, my drafts were used up. In this dilemma I wired for money. After four days of exasperating delays I received this satisfying message from the obliging operator of the wireless office:

Operator on other coast say he have two messages for some one, but his bread in oven—wife she away—and might burn if he leave it long. After lunch he transmit message.

Value of Birds as Farm Police Officers.

A recent bulletin from one of the agricultural college experiment stations was devoted to the subject of bird life, urging the necessity of protecting the birds. Some extracts follow.

The value to the farmer of insectivorous and song birds has been so thoroughly demonstrated and the increase of insect pests which prey upon agriculture has at different times been so great owing to the destruction of small birds that by this time we should all have learned to do everything in our power to preserve these benefactors of the country. In these insectivorous birds we have millions of police officers working without pay in our behalf from one year's end to the other. It is true the same officers do not always work in the same place the year round.

The beautiful insect-eating birds that come to us in spring pass along to more northern climes and do their summer's work there, but they are followed by another migratory wave of residents who stay with us all the summer, doing yeoman's work to protect gardens, corn and hay fields. When autumn comes a horde of helpers descends on us from the north, gleaning insects, insects' eggs and above all the seeds of noxious weeds, and when at length these pass on and the hard frost comes, then appear the winter birds which stay with us all through the season of cold.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Here is her own statement. Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?
