

MORRICE.

The work on the township roads in this locality is progressing nicely. A traveling man who makes this part of the state by auto remarked on the good roads in this township. He said, "I travel all over Central Michigan in my work and am always glad to strike Perry township, for I can truly say that this township has more good roads to the mile than any other that I travel over." J. P. Olcott had a narrow escape from being bitten by a rattlesnake while picking up brush on his farm recently. He reached down to pick up a stick and heard a warning rattle, withdrew his hand just as a big rattler made a strike for it. Mr. Olcott killed the snake which proved a large one—L. E. Sutherland landed a four and a quarter pound pickerel at Agnew lakes Sunday while there with a party from this place. Those in the crowd were Lewis Wines, Henry Worden and Sam Atkins. They were accompanied by Pat Hayes of Owosso, and all brought home nice catches of fish—Mrs. Dustin Morrice has returned from the Swayze hospital in Owosso, where she underwent a minor operation three weeks ago—Mrs. Thomas Jones is having a new kitchen built on her house in the southwest part of town—N. C. Davis is having a drain dug from his cellar to the sewer on Main street—T. B. Martin lost a valuable driving horse Monday. It was one he bought three days ago and paid a good price for it. There was no insurance on the animal as it is a total loss—Mrs. B. E. Locke, who teaches the primary room will see her second class of pupils graduate this year in June. This is Mrs. Locke's eleventh year in the primary room and she has accepted the same position for another year—Elmer Blossom cut a deep gash in his hand while using the meat cleaver in the market Sunday morning.

ANOTHER STUDENT EXPIRES

High School Loses Second Athletic Star in Two Weeks.

Lapeer, Mich., May 20.—For the second time within two weeks the grim shadow of death has passed over Lapeer's high school, blotting out the life of one of its popular students and athletic stars. Ralph McCafferty, eighteen years old, died following an operation for an abscess on the appendix, which, it is believed, may have been the result of a football injury.

Roth Des Jalvins, seventeen years old, who played football beside McCafferty, died two weeks ago of a mysterious malady. His illness was called typhoid fever at first, but death was due to a cause not determined. McCafferty's trouble was also a mystery for a time.

DENIES HE KILLED WOMAN

Deaf Boy on Stand in Own Behalf in Strycock Murder Case.

Jackson, Mich., May 20.—Harold Winney, twenty-year-old deaf cripple, who is charged with the murder of Mrs. Caroline Strycock took the witness stand in circuit court to testify in his own behalf.

Winney admitted that he robbed the Winch & Bower hardware store on the night previous to the murder, and secured two revolvers and a supply of cartridges. He denied that he committed the murder and said that he was in Jackson on the night of the crime.

Interested in New Island.

Officials at the naval hydrographic office in Washington have manifested a keen interest in the announcement that a new island has risen out of the sea off the Nova Scotia coast. While government scientists are without information as to the occurrence, they regard it as especially interesting taken in connection with the recent violent earthquakes in Panama and other disturbances which have caused marked changes in the ocean bottom and shore conformation of the Pacific Central American coasts.

King's New Style Hat.

King George V. has introduced a new style in "bowler" hats—or derby hats, as they are called in America. The height of the crown is at least six and a quarter inches. That is an inch more than the average crown. The top is almost square and not rounded like the ordinary "bowler" hat, and the brim is quite extraordinary.

April and May

When violets of sunny blue And their fragrant buds unfurl My birthday blessing comes to you, A rainbow April girl. For radiant hours in life's fair glade Give me the years nineteen. I'd rather laugh a bright-eyed maid Than rue a sad-eyed queen. To have again the moment glad When I heard love's first plea, Yet answered "No" to the gay lad Who said, "Will you have me?" He went his way, and I went mine. The youthful romance died. I sent him just a little line When I became a bride. And now that laddie's gallant son Comes to my house each day, My daughter's happy heart he's won, And they will wed in May. —Chicago Record-Herald.

EMOTIONS OF ANGER.

Give Them a Little Play Rather Than Bottle Them Up Tightly.

There are a few universal habits in the human race which have strange primitive origins, and there are some which are universal because they have a physiological stimulus, and one of these latter is in the habit that a little child often has of stamping its feet when angry. Exactly the same thing occurs when a man, while he is angry, brings down his fist on the table. In both cases it is due to lack of nervous control.

The nervous system is a unit, and most of the emotions of anger come from a sudden thwarting of a calculated nervous plan. Thus if we are about to sit down on a chair and a mischievousurchin yanks the chair away just as we have let the muscles of the thighs relax the anger excited is out of all proportion to the actual bruises that have resulted. If a child wants a pot of jam and is denied he is immediately angry unless he has been taught to control himself. The desire for the jam, for example, has set in motion a nerve plan, and when this is suddenly stopped there is a flow of nervous energy which has to spend itself in some way. In the case of the child, he usually works this off by stamping his feet and crying. In the case of the man, he usually goes through exactly the same processes by thumping the table and swearing. In the case of a hysterical woman, she beats upon the floor with her heels and screams. It is all the same thing.

Strange as it may seem, moreover, the outflow of emotion is far better for an angry person than it is to bottle it up. Emotion is going to express itself in action somewhere, and if the muscles are kept still the brain cells will be exhausted instead. Emotional force has got to go somewhere. It can't just stop and disappear. Too great a suppression of the emotions leads to a gradual atrophy of them, and when the emotions begin to die out of the person himself or herself is of comparatively little use to the world. It is for this reason that nothing should ever be done to "break" a child's temper, but only to guide it into right channels. You can teach a child not to lose control of his temper, but never, as you value the child's development, try to train him not to be angry.—New York American.

British Expedition to Tibet Reports Curious Atmospheric Effect.

The perils of a mission into a hostile country are described in a communication to the National Geographic society at Washington by Sir Francis Younghusband, who headed the British mission to Lassa, Tibet. Sir Francis is now paying his first visit to America after having spent more than twenty years on the frontier and in India. It was suspected that secret negotiations were being carried on between the Tibetans and Russia which would be detrimental to England, with her vast interests in India. Therefore it was decided to send a party to the sacred city of Lassa itself. The escort, of Sir Francis at the start—200—was swelled to 4,200 native Indian and 800 British troops.

The hardships of the winter trip over the Himalayas, fruitless negotiations with the Tibetan military leaders and priests and two months' siege endured by Sir Francis and 500 of his men while surrounded by 20,000 Tibetans in a small inclosure on a high plateau are described, together with the final signing of the treaty in the palace of the dala lama in the Forbidden City and the peaceful journey back to India.

Sir Francis tells of newspaper comments as to the "dignity and bravery" of the Tibetan troops, who, when forced to retreat, moved at the rate of but two miles an hour. "It was not bravery or dignity so much as altitude," he says. "Later we had occasions to retreat for short distances ourselves and, although extremely desirous of making good time, found it impossible to run or walk faster than two miles an hour. In addition, owing to the rarity of the mountain atmosphere, shells from the guns of our mountain battery traveled about twice the distance on the same charge of powder as they would have done at sea level. Bullets from the rifles behaved the same way, and we were compelled to revise completely our system of sighting our firearms."

The people of Tibet believe the soul of the dala lama never dies. Upon his death it passes to the body of a babe born as near as possible to the time of the dissolution. The new lama comes into his full rights on his eighteenth birthday.

THE LIFE OF THE FLY.

THERE are several species of flies which are commonly found in houses. But one of these is the housefly proper as we know it. This is a medium sized grayish fly, with its mouth parts spread at the top for sucking up liquid substances. Because of the conformation of its mouth the housefly cannot bite. In the minds of most persons, however, no impression is stronger than that the housefly does occasionally bite. This impression is due to the rather frequent presence in houses of another fly, the so called "stable fly," closely resembling the housefly. Its mouth parts are formed for piercing skin. Virtually all flies breed in horse manure, cow manure and warm, decaying vegetable matter, including old straw and grass. The fly begins life as an egg. It passes through the larval stage, where it is known as a maggot. It passes through the pupal stage, emerging as the winged insect we all know. The periods of development are about as follows: Eggs from deposition to hatching, one-third of a day; hatching of larvae to first molt, one day; first molt to second molt, one day; second molt to pupation, three days; pupation to issuing of adult, five days; total life—approximately ten days. The eggs are always laid on some organic matter, on which the larvae or maggots may feed after hatching. Horse manure is the favorite breeding place for the fly.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Owosso People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time. Owosso people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? Below is testimony such as the sufferer from kidney ills is looking for. Mrs. Ransom Lewis, 728 Park Street, Owosso, Mich., says: "Members of our family have used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint and in every instance prompt relief has followed."

A LATER ENDORSEMENT. When Mrs. Lewis was interviewed at a later date she said: "The benefit Doan's Kidney Pills has brought different ones of my family, has been permanent. It is a pleasure for me to confirm my former endorsement of this remedy."

Sick Women Made Well

Reliable evidence is abundant that women are constantly being restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The many testimonial letters that we are continually publishing in the newspapers—hundreds of them—are all genuine, true and unsolicited expressions of heartfelt gratitude for the freedom from suffering that has come to these women solely through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Money could not buy nor any kind of influence obtain such recommendations; you may depend upon it that any testimonial we publish is honest and true—if you have any doubt of this write to the women whose true names and addresses are always given, and learn for yourself.

Read this one from Mrs. Waters:

CAMDEN, N.J.—"I was sick for two years with nervous spells, and my kidneys were affected. I had a doctor all the time and used a galvanic battery, but nothing did me any good. I was not able to go to bed, but spent my time on a couch or in a sleeping-chair, and soon became almost a skeleton. Finally my doctor went away for his health, and my husband heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me some. In two months I got relief and now I am like a new woman and am at my usual weight. I recommend your medicine to every one and so does my husband."—Mrs. TILLIE WATERS, 1135 Knight St., Camden, N.J.

And this one from Mrs. Haddock:

UTICA, OKLA.—"I was weak and nervous, not able to do my work and scarcely able to be on my feet. I had backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, trouble with my bowels, and inflammation. Since taking the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am better than I have been for twenty years. I think it is a wonderful medicine and I have recommended it to others."—Mrs. MARY ANN HADDOCK, Utica, Oklahoma.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman continue to suffer without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health. Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
