There never was a knave who did not think the people outside of "his set" were fools. But if it were not for the fools the knaves could not exist.—E. O.

Gal. W. H. Glider proposes to make another expedition to Artic regions. The object is to reach the magnetic pole, and make a magnet survey. The entire expense of the expedition will be about $25,000.

The Salem postoffice has been made a depository for money order funds. Heretofore the Portland office has been the only depository of these funds, and Salem is the second city in the state to be thus honored.

More than 10,000 women are candidates for employment at the World's Fair. They send stacks of letters to Mrs. Palmer's office every day, and have begun to besiege concessionaires who are likely to need sales-women or cashiers.

Astorian: Allow us to move to amend the game laws so as to make it lawful to shoot calamity howlers during the entire year, on the grounds that they are nuisances and make humanity fired. Will somebody second the motion?

The contest over the gambling license ordinance at Astorian is ended by its defeat, and we shall expect to see peace and good will prevail among the brethren of the press in that city. There is now pending an ordinance to prohibit all classes of gambling in that city and is likely to pass.

What we do need is a law in every state in the Union to prohibit the erection of large buildings unless they are built fireproof or well provided with fire escapes. Every few days we read of the burning of some fire trap, accompanied by horrible deaths.—Eugene Register.

Ex-Premier Mercer, of Quebec, has opened his campaign favoring Canadian independence. "If we continue in our colonial condition," he said "we recede, if we break colonial ties, we will advance. Demolished the political wall which separates us from the United States; destroy the conditions that keep American capital out of our country and you would have in-pouring riches that would satisfy most expectation."

The world's fair will be in the menagerie business on a most extensive scale. It is said that "the collection of animals from Singapore which arrived on Tuesday at New York and will be exhibited at the world's fair is one of the largest ever brought to the United States. If Mr. Barnum were alive he would turn green with envy at the sight of a rival show containing 17 lions and 16 cages of monkeys and would not rest satisfied until he made his collection as large. But perhaps the overshadowing greatness of the world's fair would have had a subduing power and he might not have deemed it necessary to attempt to rival all its attractions under his three tents."

State Printer Baker has commenced the publication of the general and special laws, which make a volume of about 1,000 pages, 300 of which will be general laws, as against 190 pages two years ago. The law requires the state printer to get this work out within ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature, which falls on May 17th this time. Mr. Baker has always complied with that law, and expects this year to have them in the hands of the bindery by May 1st. The force in the office is getting up on an average of thirty-four pages per day, and commenced work on Monday last. The state printer, would, of course, have been unable to have the laws published so soon had it not been for the dispatch with which Secretary of State McBride furnished him with copy.—Ex.

A Chinese bank note five hundred years old may be seen in a museum in China.

The thanks of the country are due to South Carolina for trying the experiment of running state saloons. If the scheme works well, Oregon and other states will probably go into the saloon business.

A bill has been introduced in the Connecticut legislature providing for the punishment of persons who send "fake" news to newspapers. The evil complained of has grown to great proportions lately. Three or four centers of humbug Connecticut news send such tales to New York papers and to any Connecticut papers that will pay for such service.—West.
