DOES COLLEGE TRAINING BREED SNOBBERY?

Critics of Higher Education Refuted in Film Play—A Powerful Photo-Drama—E. Forrest Taylor, Star in "True Nobility" at Star Theatre Sunday.

Critics of University training base one of their principal arguments upon the theory that young men of poor parentage who go to college look down upon their less fortunate parents and become snobs and social climbers. If their parents should be clean living hard working people of simple taste whose chief delight is in their toil the son is generally supposed to look down upon labor as degrading and to feel ashamed of their parents who are working people.

However, this argument is refuted in the Mutual Masterpiece De Luxe Edition "True Nobility," a five-act drama produced by the American Film Company which will appear at the Star Theatre on Sunday with E. Forrest Taylor and Helene Rosson in the leading role. The story is a powerful one of a young man, Phillip Burton, who returns to his home in the West after a four years course at Harvard.

He goes into the mountains prospecting and nurses a sick miner who upon his death bed assigns a rich claim to him. Phil refuses the bequest and insists that the dying man bequeath his claim to some relative. The miner gives him a picture of his sister and Phil sets out to find the girl.

The claim proves valuable and Phil while seeking capital to develop it meets Count Niasso, a wealthy adventurer and Lord Devlin an unscrupulous profligate. Among Devlin's acquaintances is Effie Marsh, a western girl. Devlin learns she is the heiress to the mine and the girl Phil is seeking. Devlin persuades her to sign over her rights to him.

The Countess who is engaged to Devlin is interested in settlement work and meets Effie in a settlement house. Effie whose quest for fame in the metropolis has been futile becomes despondent and plans suicide. Phil hears her story and saves the girl from a rash end. She tells him about Lord Devlin and he recognizes her as the sister of the old miner. He gets possession of the deeds to the property and foils Lord Devlin just as he is about to rob Effie of her fortune. The Countess sees the type of man she was about to marry and breaks off her engagement and plans to marry Phil.

E. Forrest Taylor as Phil is seen in a new Western characterization a type far different from the usual Western hero. His acting at all times is repressed and artistic. Helen Rosson makes a charming Effie and the other members of the cast are equal merit.

Little Sketches From Real Life.
"This check of yours," said the large-hearted cashier to Brushy, the Impressionist painter, "is drawn exceedingly well, and in composition seems to be pretty nearly perfect; but it lacks background. Mr. Brushy, but for that it would be a work of art. Your foreground is charming, but just a trifle too—well shall we say too fanciful?"

"I don't know what you are driving at," growled Brushy. "I suppose you know what you are driving at, however. What kind of a background would you suggest?"

"Cash!" said the cashier. "A work of art like this, calling for the payment of $50 is not wholly convincing with a sketchy little overdraft of $2.89 on deposit to provide the necessary contrasts in light and shade and to give the thing what we might call balance."

Whereupon Brushy, like the self-respecting man he was, snapped his fingers under the imprudent fellow's nose and transferred his overdraft to the trust company across the street.—Judge.

Ike Howard and Gus Wilcox are getting up their second crop of alfalfa. The hay is of very excellent quality.

W. S. Smith and F. H. Robinson spent Sunday at Hermitston where they enjoyed fishing in the big government reservoir.

Aaron A. Agee enjoyed a visit from his father recently. The elder Agee departed for his home at Balsou, Oregon on Saturday.

Art Crawford and Geo. T. Pearce, bustling editors of the Heppner papers, were visitors in Ione for a short time Monday evening.

C. W. Reynolds, pastor of the local Christian church returned from his summer vacation on Saturday and has again taken up the work of his pastorate.

Miss Jessie Smith departed for Seattle Saturday to be absent for a short time visiting relatives there and also looking after interests she has in that city.

W. T. McNabb is arranging to turn over the farm business to his nephews the Warfield boys, owners of the land, and he and his family expect before long to move to Ione to reside.

Dan P. Smythe and Pat Lonergan, bustling business men of Pendleton, were in Ione yesterday in the interests of the Smythe-Lonergan Co., general commission merchants of the Umatilla metropolises.

Volunteer wheat is turning out well in this locality this season. J. A. Williams just finished threshing a quarter that yielded 12 bushels to the acre. His spring grain is going between 20 and 25 bushels.

J. H. Blake is suffering from a severe carbuncle on the back of his neck. He is at the home of L. P. Davidson in Ione where he is receiving treatment. Johnny is afraid he is in for a long siege of trouble.

The family of W. C. Cason is preparing to move to Heppner to take up their residence. They will leave the coming week. Their daughters Miss Muriel and Miss Marie will remain in Ione where they have employment.

Miss Carrine Whitmore of Portland is visiting at the home of Mrs. Augusta Mason on Rhea creek. Miss Whitmore was a fellow student at O. A. C. with Harold Mason and is spending a short vacation in the Eastern Oregon country.

Miss Margurite Flower, of Portland, is visiting for a short time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Shutt. Miss Flower is a talented young singer, and was a fellow pupil with Laurence Shutt at the Oregon Blind School.

Miss Della Davidson returned home from a visit of several weeks with relatives at Portland and Oswego. She was accompanied by Kenneth Davidson and Charles Hill, young men of Oswego who will visit a short time at the Davidson home.

Chas. Devin is getting his grain to the warehouse at Morgan. Fay McNabb is hauling for him and making delivery of his Turkey red which is turning out well. The yield is better than 25 bushels and the grain is No. 1, going 148 pounds to the sack.

Harold Mason returned from Corvallis on Monday where he has been attending school during the past year. Harold is a graduate from O. A. C., qualifying himself as a teacher of manual training. He has secured a place to teach with the La Grande schools the coming season.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE OF CALL OF REGISTERED WARRANTS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT all General Fund Warrants of Morrow County, Oregon, registered to and including June 7, 1916, will be paid upon presentation to me at my office at the Heppner Loan & Savings Bank, in Heppner, Oregon. Interest ceases from this date.
Dated August 24, 1916.
W. O. HILL,
County Treasurer, Morrow County, Oregon.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

All owners and occupants of property adjacent to the streets of the city of Heppner are hereby notified to remove the weeds and grasses from in front of their property. The dry weeds and grasses are a source of danger from fire, and since the county fair will be held within a short time, everyone should try to help in making the town look well at that time. The removal of wood piles from the streets would also improve the appearance of the streets at fair time. Let us have the streets clean Sept. 1.
F. N. FRYE, Marshal.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that I will not be responsible for any debts hereafter contracted by my wife, Arminda Sayles Bode, who has left my home. Dated this 17th day of August, 1916.
HENRY BODE.
