The name, marconigram is being used to designate a message sent by Marconi's new wireless telegraphy. That is all right for a starter but after marconigrams get a little more common just watch the newspapers cut down the name, first to "conigram" and then to simply "cony." In these busy days what is the use of using four syllables when two will do.

Died, December 14, 1902, at the family home at Sparta, after a lingering illness, Mrs. Lydia Young, aged 70 years. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church at 1 p. m. on Tuesday. Rev. L. H. Loar, the pastor officiating. Deceased came from her native home at Bennington, Vermont, to Sparta with her husband in 1854 and has resided here ever since. She was for many years an active member of the M. E. church and lived and died a consistent christian. Besides her aged husband she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Gray, surviving, and they have the sympathy of all Spartans in their bereavement.—Sparta, N. Y. Recorder.

Not a Compliment. "Old war horse" has long been a complimentary and affectionate sobriquet bestowed on veteran political workers by their party confederates and admirers. A Washington correspondent once endeavored to compliment Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and other women suffragists by referring to them as "old war mares." He protested that he had heard them say there could be no opposition in sex, but the old ladies kicked like young fillies, and the correspondent lost his job.

A Tale of a Typewriter. A quaint tale of a typewriter is told by an Anglo-Indian. An English judge in India, an expert on the typewriter, used it for the taking of judicial notes. The machine was taken into court, when a certain novelty was imparted to the proceedings by the click of the keys and tinkle of the bell. The prisoner was found guilty and sentenced.

Promptly he appealed on the ground that instead of listening to the evidence the judge had whittled away his time by playing on a musical instrument.

Mean Advantage. On attempting to question a loquacious patient one day the late Dr. Sands was irritated beyond all endurance. After vainly endeavoring to stem the torrent of gabble, he said sternly: "Madam, let me see your tongue. That's good. Now keep it there while you hear what I have to say to you."

The Word "Cafe." It is really difficult to understand how the word "cafe," a French term, has come into such general use in this country and how it happens that it is so grossly misapplied. The term means coffee, or a place where coffee is sold, and what relation there is between a coffee shop and a place where liquors are sold we are at a loss to know. It is not improbable that the idea comes from combinations of bars-rooms and restaurants, in the latter of which of course coffee is sold, but to our mind nothing seems more absurd or more emphatically marks the modern disposition to follow blind custom than sticking up on the window where only beer, liquor and wines are sold the word "coffee," and that in a foreign language. Were it not that an age of misnomer gives recognition to this anomaly we would just as soon the word "meat" or "bread" signified places where liquors are sold. Either would have as much sense and logical application as "cafe."—Exchange.

A Delicate Position. Wedding presents are frequently distinguished for their uselessness, and giftmaking at any time is attended with some danger. A faithful Irish employee announced his desire to take a month's holiday to visit his brother. He had worked so well and steadily that his employer not only granted the request, but made him a present of a new traveling bag.

The night before Tim was to leave he received the gift, accompanied by a few appreciative words.

Tim stared at the bag for a moment and then asked, "What am I to do with that?"

"Why, put your clothes in it when you go away, of course," answered the employer.

"Put me clothes in it, is it?" said Tim. "An' phwat will Oi wear if Oi put me clothes in that?"
