

The Murder of Corlies.—It will be seen by our report that the examination before the Coroner has been closed, the Jury, after a brief absence last evening, returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by a wound from some person unknown. Mr. and Mrs. Colton were thereupon discharged. Nothing in the voluminous testimony that has been taken in this protracted case tends to fix suspicion of guilt upon any person, and the affair remains enveloped in its original mystery. The fact that a man may be shot in the open street at only a few steps from the most crowded thoroughfare in the city, at an hour when the streets are so generally thronged, and the murderer escape even a suspicion of having done the deed, is certainly somewhat alarming. What disastrous time may evolve remains to be seen; at present, however, the whole affair is in the darkest mystery, and we see no reason why it should not remain so as long as the circumstances attending the death of Mary Rogers have been concealed from the public eye. —N. Y. Tribune, March 29.

THE ERYSEPELAS.
Dr. Davis, of Norwich, in a public communication, thus alludes to the prevailing epidemic:—
"From a careful observation of the disease, post mortem examination, and the remedies, I am fully convinced that the present epidemic has its seat in the biliary and digestive organs, and in the commencement of the disease would direct the practitioner's attention to the gastric and hepatic regions, under a full consideration of the liver, in a majority of cases, is the organ primarily affected. And I am happy to state that since I have become convinced of this fact, and administered accordingly, I have had no case terminate fatally. Were I to apply a definite name to the present epidemic, I should be inclined to call it the Spotted Fever."

Snow in the Interior.—A correspondent of the American, writing from Watertown, Canada Co., N. Y., represents the snow in that region as very deep. He says: "In truth, the entire land from Albany to Buffalo, and from Utica to Watertown, is an ocean of snow, lying from four to twelve feet deep. On the road from this village to Utica, where, in fair weather, in summer and winter, from 500 to 1000 teams pass daily, the inhabitants have been compelled to turn out and cut paths, that look like day ways; long lanes, at one end of which, if a sleigh is in sight, you must stop and wait patiently until it has passed through, or otherwise you would be as effectually swamped as in your Jersey marshes. The object inherent has not been the like for 37 years, when a similar memorable circumstance occurred."

The late Congress.—The National Intelligencer commenced an able article, in defence of the late Congress, as follows:—
"Broken up into rival factions as the ultra-Democrats (called Leagues) are in the struggle for its Presidential candidates for ascendancy, its different organs, too happy apparently to find a single political topic upon which they can agree, are unanimous and clamorous in their denunciation of the Whig Congress, whose term has just expired. By persons whose judgments are, in some cases, utterly blinded by their prejudices, and by others who want the power of mind to discriminate between the bad and the good Congress has done, the Whigs are berated and abused without rhyme or reason, and without any attempt to show in what particulars they have erred. Such vague and wholesale condemnation shows only ill will and worse temper, and is not entitled to reply."

Fire.—The Bowling-green (Mo.) Radical, of the 11th inst. says:—
"By a letter, which we received from Palmyra on yesterday, we learn that the main building of the insurance institution, known as the 'Palmyra Mutual Insurance Co.,' was destroyed by fire on the night of the 28th inst. The same letter adds that a company of armed men from Hannibal and Palmyra started for Quincy on the same night, with the avowed intention of destroying the building above alluded to, but finding that Providence had forestalled them, they returned peacefully to their homes."

Good News for the Young Ladies.—A company of Lincoln young gentlemen have originated and are carrying out an anti-Mulatto plan, which cannot fail to meet the approbation and commendation of the fair sex. It is simply this: each party pays a shilling a week, and at the end of every week the amount is deposited in the Savings Bank; the first of the party who marries to receive the whole amount of deposits and interest. —English paper.

The Tribune of Saturday says the banks in that city have resolved to receive and pay out Spanish change at the following rates: Quarters 23c; Eighths, or 12c, at 10c; Sixteenths, or 6 1/4c, at 5c. It will gradually drive this currency out of the country, our own will be substituted and our small change be brought to a Federal basis. The Boston Banks have adopted a similar arrangement.

A Respectable Snow Drift.—A late number of the Auburn (N. Y.) Journal, in speaking of the late snow storm, says that between Auburn and Syracuse, the snow was twenty-five feet deep for a long distance on the track—and that east of Utica, there was a long piece where it was near forty feet deep.

Escape of the Texas Prisoners confirmed.—By the arrival at New Orleans of the schooner Brizola, from Tampico, the report of the escape of the Texas prisoners captured at Mexico is fully confirmed. They took upon their march, succeeded in taking their arms, killed a great proportion of them, and made a hasty retreat towards Texas.

It is stated that four or five thousand Mexicans had been deported to the Texas, and at the last accounts they had not overtaken them. The Mexicans were ordered, in case they should recapture the prisoners, to put every man to death.

The death and burial of the young Indian Squaw in New York, is thus described by the correspondent of the National Intelligencer:

The immediate cause of her death was a violent cold, taken in coming home a night or two before from a ball at the Tivoli. The omnibus in which they were returning broke down in Hudson street, and they were obliged to walk a mile through a light snow falling at the time. Their thin, meagre, and with no protection, and four or five of the Indians were ill the next morning. She died in dreadful agony of congestion of the blood on the third day, spite of the best medical attendance and every care on the part of the medical of the neighborhood. The Indians were all standing around her, and, on being told that she was dead, they tore the rings from their ears, and stood for some minutes in silence, with the blood streaming upon their cheeks. Their grief afterwards became quite uncontrollable. They washed off all the paint with which they have been so gaily bedecked while here, and painted the dead bride very gaudily for burial. She was interred in the Greenwood cemetery. The most passionate affection existed between her and her husband. He is a magnificent fellow, the handsomest Indian we have ever had in the city, and a happy marriage was never celebrated. He followed close at his heels whenever he went, and had scarce been separated five minutes at a time since her marriage. The poor fellow is an object of great commiseration now, for he seems completely inconsolable. His wife was the idol of the party. They are very impatient to be away since this melancholy event, and will start westward as soon as the sick recover.

At the March Term of the Court of Common Pleas, which was held at Northampton last week, we notice that in the case of Aaron B. Merrifield, charged with embezzlement of a quantity of Books, the Jury found him not guilty.

If this paragraph should be read by a noisy Locofoco, residing in the west part of Putney, who is in the habit of calling at the place where the papers for our subscribers in that part of the town are usually left, and taking (without leave) a certain man's paper, to carry home to read, notwithstanding his great abhorrence to the paper, we advise him either to send down and subscribe for the Phoenix, or let the gentleman to whom the paper is sent, have the first reading of it.

This notice will apply to other persons within the range of our circulation, whether Whig or Tory, who are in the habit of calling on some one of our neighbors to borrow or read the Phoenix, and very often stealing it from the stores and taverns, where our papers are left for subscribers.

RAIL ROAD MEETING.—The Citizens of Brattleboro are invited to attend a Meeting at Dickenson's Hall, this (Thursday) evening, at 7 o'clock, when ALVIN CHICKEN, Esq. will make a statement of the progress and prospects of the Fitchburg and Boston Rail Road, and solicit their co-operation.

MASSACHUSETTS CONGRESSIONAL ELECTIONS.—There is again no choice in the second, third and sixth districts, although there is a considerable Whig gain in each. In the fifth district it seems probable that the Hon. Charles Hudson, (Whig) is re-elected by a small majority. From the other districts the returns are too meagre to furnish grounds for any anticipation of the result.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION.—We have some returns of votes from Connecticut, but not enough to be decisive of the result. Quite a large vote was thrown on each side.

By this mysterious dispensation, a father and five children are involved in great tribulation, and the children of Christ are bereaved of one of its brightest ornaments. In the life and character of Mrs. H., religion and its excellencies were vividly exemplified. As a wife she was amiable, affectionate and industrious. As a mother, intelligent, faithful and indulgent, and as a Church member, consistent, devoted, exemplary. She died, as she had lived, in the enjoyment of the Divine complacency, and has left a world of sin and sorrow to receive through grace the rewards of a life spent, not in scenes of self-indulgence, but in acts of beneficence.

In Halifax, 21st ult., Mary, daughter of Martin and Adaline Stout, aged 1 year, 5 months, and 16 days.

"She tasted of life's bitter cup;
And turned her little head aside;
Refused to drink its contents up,
And calmly bowed her head and died.

Then cease fond Parents, cease to weep,
Your little Mary is at rest;
Why should you wish one day to keep,
Her from the mansions of the blest?"
