THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Revolution in Brazil.

A revolution in the Brazilian government appears to have been quickly accomplished on Monday. The dispatches state that on that day a general election of officers waited on General da Fonseca and waited that his acts as dictator had created profound dissatisfaction among the people of the country, and if he refused to accede to the popular request for his resignation they would not be answerable for the consequences. After a short interval General da Fonseca issued a manifesto announcing his resignation of the presidency of Brazil in favor of Vice President Floriano Peixoto, and stating that his determination to leave office was taken for the purpose of averting a civil war. Senior Peixoto at once began forming a government. Insurrection had been smoldering in Rio Janeiro for several days. A riotous crowd destroyed the offices of two government newspapers and a force of revolutionists attacked the naval arsenal. The defenders of the arsenal, after a feeble defence, capitulated, and the insurgents took possession of the arsenal and all its munitions of war. The attack on the arsenal caused great excitement at first, but as soon as it was decided in favor of the revolutionists general public rejoicing prevailed.

The Japanese Earthquake.

Details have been received from Yokohama of the terrible earthquake which devastated the Japanese island of Honshu Oct. 28. The earthquake destroyed buildings and the greatest loss of life occurred in the prefectures of Aichi and Gifu, where nearly 4,000 people were killed outright and 40,000 seriously wounded. In these two prefectures 42,000 houses were totally destroyed, rendering 300,000 people homeless. It is estimated that from the commencement of the disturbance up to Nov. 5, there were 9,000 shocks, or more than one every two minutes. A town on the Tokaido railway, with a population of 15,000, was almost entirely destroyed, 3,500 of a total of 4,000 houses in the town being overthrown or burned and 747 people killed. In the town of Kano 600 houses were overthrown, and 100 people killed. In the town of Ogaki 35 houses were overthrown, 2,000 houses burned and 700 people crushed to death. In the town of Togaichi nearly 600 houses were overthrown and a like number burned and more than 100 people killed. The total figures of the calamity represent more than 80,000 houses destroyed, at least 7,500 people killed outright, and many others injured.

Tornado at Washington, D. C.

A tremendous wind and rain storm, accompanied by electrical disturbance, struck the city of Washington, D. C., at midday on Monday, doing great damage. Buildings were unroofed, telephone and telegraph wires blown down, and the streets filled with all sorts of flying debris. The worst damage done was in blowing down the walls of a large music hall building, which was in process of erection. Four persons were buried in the ruins and 30 killed. The great mass of brick and mortar in falling struck in the rear of a half-dozen stores, causing such a concussion of the air that the fronts of the stores were blown completely out. The storm came up with great suddenness, and was over in five minutes. In 10 minutes the sky began to clear and in 20 minutes the sun was shining. At that time a general storm was prevailing over the entire middle and eastern section of the country, and north into Canada. Much property was lost, and was caused the same day by high winds in Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and other cities, especially in Pennsylvania.

The Drouth in New England.

The effects of the drouth are being severely felt in Maine, New Hampshire and in some parts of this state. The big Maine rivers have gradually lost their force, until the salt water of the ocean is carried in at a distance of 30 miles. In the lakes and streams in the woods of Maine the trout and salmon are dying by the thousands. An Indian recently found a pool near Moosehead lake where trout had congregated in such numbers that they were crowding each other out of the water. In some places the water is a foot or two deep, and many of them very large fish. Many of the manufacturing industries on the banks of the rivers will suffer great loss. West Randolph in this state is threatened with serious results and the water companies there have begun damming the Chandler brook. It is feared that the slate mills at Fair Haven and Haverhill will be forced to shut down on account of the low water.

A Maine Farmer Plays a Sharp Bunco Game.

Lewis Cowen of Palmyra, Maine, who has always been considered a weak-minded farmer, has performed a brilliant piece of bunco work and left for parts unknown with $10,000. A short time ago he went to the savings bank and deposited $10,000, and that his farm was free from incumbrance, and that he desired to mortgage it. The bank took the alleged security and advanced $10,000. Two days later Cowen borrowed $500 from his neighbor Blaisdell, claiming that he wished to raise the mortgage on his place. It now appears that when Cowen bought the farm several years ago it was mortgaged for $10,000. When Cowen's farm was visited a few days ago it was deserted, and the furniture, tools, stock, etc., had been removed. No trace of him could be found. Before disappearing Cowen sold 25 sheep belonging to another neighbor and pocketed the proceeds.

Half a Million to Public Institutions.

The late Thomas O. H. P. Burnham, the veteran book seller of Boston, bequeathed fully half a million of dollars to public institutions for educational and charitable purposes. The town of Essex receives $30,000; the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, $20,000; Tufts College, $10,000; and 15 other institutions sums varying from $2,000 to $5,000. The Massachusetts General Hospital is the residuary legatee and receives the bulk of the property, which is valued at more than a million. The relatives receive $150,000.

Wm. J. Florence, the well-known actor, died in Philadelphia last week of pneumonia.

Newark, N. J., has a small pox scare. Four cases were discovered in a house in which 24 Italians were living.

Frank McCarey, while under the influence of liquor, jumped from the Brooklyn bridge last Sunday and was killed.

A mad dog ran through the streets of Newark, N. J., last Saturday and in a few minutes had bitten seven persons.

Russia has now prohibited the exportation of wheat as well as rye, on indication that the famine is becoming more pressing.

A dime museum faster in New York, who attempted to go 45 days without food, has died miserably in a hospital after an abstinence of 41 days.

From 30,000 to 40,000 coal miners in the department of Pas de Calais, France, are out on strike, and the situation is growing serious.

The area affected by the Russian famine is nearly half the size of the United States, and a low estimate places the population at 4,000,000.

VERMONT NEWS.

MIDDLEBURY SWEEP BY FIRE.

Fourteen Buildings Destroyed—The Total Loss $125,000, with Good Insurance.

The destruction of 14 buildings in a total property of over $125,000 is the brief story of the visit of the fire fiend at Middlebury last Sunday night. The fire broke out at 7 o'clock in the old pine building on Main street known as the Rookery. It was all ablaze in a moment, and almost before the alarm could be given the fire had spread to the opposite side of the street was on fire. These buildings were situated at the end of the bridge on Main street crossing Otter creek.

The new system of water works, upon which work has been in progress all summer, was not completed. The pipes were all laid, the hydrants in place and the pump house built, but the pump and apparatus were at Burlington at the factory of the Lang & Goodhue company, the contractors. The contract called for completion of the system August 15, and it is generally believed that if streams could have been thrown from the hydrants the fire would have been checked in a few minutes. As it was the village was dependent upon the work of the fire department, with one steamer, a hand engine and a pump at the Sun grist mill. The steamer was not in condition and it was half an hour before any water was thrown upon the flames.

The fire swept east on Main street and was not stopped until it reached the large brick building owned by Beckwith & Co. This was practically fire proof but was on fire several times under the tin roof, and was saved only by constant work. The Kidder shop and the Baptist church were also saved after a hard struggle. The Beckwith building had not withstood the flames the loss would have been much more severe. The men of the village and the college boys worked with desperation and many acts of heroism are related. Aid was summoned from Burlington and Rutland and the fire departments from those places responded, but did not arrive until the fire was under control. The Burlington companies, however, rendered good service in watching and caring for the ruins. It was 11:30 when the fire was controlled and 1:30 before the flames were extinguished.

How the fire started is not known, but there is some suspicion that it was of incendiary origin. Among some of the most serious losses sustained are the following: E. L. Parkhurst, grocer, $2,000; Farnsworth & Co., hardware, $14,000; Mrs. Buttrick, mill building, $9,000; E. P. Chisham, dry goods, $2,000; J. B. Burdett, $1,000; Rich & Buttrick, building, $4,000; W. H. Sheldon, drugs, groceries, books and shoes, $12,000; A. S. Sheldon, estate, on store and Sun grist mill, $11,000; Sheldon, house, $2,000; Mrs. J. H. Sheldon, house, $2,000; G. W. Fowle, cotton mill, $4,000. The bridge over the creek was badly damaged, but will be made passable in a few days. It will probably be replaced later by an iron structure. Nearly all of the firms were insured. In all 30 individuals or firms suffered losses and five families had their homes destroyed.

There is much talk in Middlebury that the Lang & Goodhue company will be responsible for the losses, not having completed the water works according to contract. The burned section comprises a triangular section in the business portion of the town, bounded on the south and west by the Otter creek and on the north by the railroad. The business men are securing quarters as best they can for the present. Little rebuilding will be done this fall but it is expected next year the burned section will be covered with substantial modern buildings, and that the result in the end will be to greatly improve the appearance of the village.

Orrin Smith was badly burned about the back while fighting the flames at the Beckwith building. He has been taken to a hospital at Burlington.

Firebugs and Burglars at Castleton.

Fire was discovered in F. L. Pond's store in Union block at Castleton Sunday night, but it was extinguished. The loss from water was quite severe. Two lights of glass had been removed from the store, and the lock taken off, and it is therefore thought that the fire was started by burglars. On last Thursday evening a fire was discovered in an ice house connected with Armstrong's drug store in the same block. Within three months the store was a ruin. The fire was caused by a burglar, who entered the store in the vicinity have been entered. Later—Castleton had another fire, of incendiary origin, on Tuesday night, when the barn of A. E. Alvord was destroyed with contents, including two cows, hay, grain, tools, etc.

Shooting Accident at Barton.

Lena, ten-year-old daughter of Walter McFarlane of Barton, was shot by her brother Edwin, aged about 12, last Friday. The lad in company with companions of about the same age, was shooting at a mark with a rifle, when the little girl, who was playing with other children near by, ran between the boys and the mark just as her brother discharged the rifle. The ball struck her in the head and the doctors have been unable to find it. She is not expected to recover.

A Brandon Boy Killed.

Charles Rayno, a 15-year-old Brandon boy, stole a ride with two other boys on a freight train going to Middlebury Sunday night, as they wished to see the ruins of the big fire. About a mile from Middlebury the boys jumped from the train, but Rayno fell under the cars and one leg was run over. The leg was amputated but the boy died in the afternoon, soon after he reached home.

Luther Lemmell's barn at Castleton was burned Monday evening. The fire was incendiary.

Officers seized 26 half barrels and 10 kegs of beer belonging to Fred Fenn at Rutland one night last week.

During the heavy winter storm of last week Tuesday the house of L. N. Connolly at Isle LaMotte was destroyed by fire.

Rev. J. S. Tupper, for two years past editor of the Brandon Union, has been assigned to the Methodist charge at Swanton.

About 20 tons of poultry were sold in a single day at Vergennes last week, for which the people in that vicinity received $7,000.

Burglars entered H. B. Thompson's store at North Pownal Monday night and broke open the money drawer and safe, but secured only a small sum of money.

The catching of horn pouts is at the present time an active business near Fort Cassin. Four thousand were caught in one day last week.

The new Methodist church at Evansville was dedicated on Wednesday evening of last week, the dedicatory sermon being preached by Rev. A. J. Hough of Montpelier.

William Varney, a young Burlington blacksmith, formerly of Williston, has pleaded guilty to the charge of taking $50 from the pockets of Louis Benoit while the latter was intoxicated, and has been sent to the house of correction for 18 months.

Serious Assault Case at Burlington.

A crowd of young roughs demanded admittance to the house of Charles Besett in South Burlington last Friday evening, and Mrs. Besett, who was alone, refused to let them in. They stoned the house, broke down the windows, gained entrance and assaulted the woman, leaving her in an unconscious condition. She was found by her husband, who returned at a later hour. She was suffering from severe bruises, caused by kicks and blows, and on her right side was a deep gash about four inches long, evidently cut with a knife. Four brothers named Newell, and two young men named Foote and Harper, were arrested charged with the assault. Foote furnished bail, but the others have been placed in the jail at Burlington, in default of $200 bail. They were all under the influence of liquor when the assault was committed.

Indebtedness of Vermont Counties.

According to the 11th census, the net liabilities of the counties of Vermont aggregated $7,085 in 1880. Of the 14 counties in Vermont, Bennington carries the heaviest net indebtedness, not only in the aggregate but also in proportion to population, its net liabilities being $2,000, while the average indebtedness per family of five persons is $0.10.

Henry J. Harris, a prosperous Stowe farmer, died last week Thursday from the effects of an overdose of morphine.

Bennington has been having an epidemic of measles and it is estimated that 300 children have been ill. Several deaths have resulted from pulmonary complications.

Ira Spencer was arrested at Plainfield, last week on charge of setting fire to Mrs. Elsie Wheeler's two barns which were burned recently with 10 cows and 30 tons of hay.

Truman Eddy fell from a barn upon which he was at work at South Shattisbury one day last week and sustained injuries to his spine which have rendered him entirely helpless.

Seventy-five Rutland sports paid $2 each to see a prize fight between a Western pugilist and a local slugger one night last week. Four-ounce gloves were used and the Rutland man was badly manled.

C. N. Folsom, general secretary of the St. Johnsbury M. C. A., has resigned that position to take charge of the association at Waterbury, Conn. Mr. Folsom was formerly secretary of the Middlebury association.

Patrick Mangano of Rutland fell 45 feet from the top of a derrick on which he was working at Rutland, and was killed. No bones were broken, but he is unable to walk and it is thought that his spine was injured.

Mrs. Isaac Marquette of Brandon cut a thumb on a copper boiler some time ago. The arm has become shriveled and it is feared that she will never be able to use it. The physicians pronounce it a case of gangrene.

The wife of Rev. S. C. Chandler, formerly of East Middlebury, recently fell down stairs at Lebanon, N. Y., fracturing both legs and sustaining injuries to the spine and head. Her condition is critical.

By the death of Mrs. Medford Brown, widow of the late J. A. Brown, which took place last week Thursday, the town of Rutland lost nearly the whole of the property willed by Mr. Brown, to be used for a town library and a clock.

The first steel derrick ever made in the United States was raised at the granite quarry of C. E. Taylor & Co. at Barre last week. The boom has a radius of 71 feet and the mast is 99 feet high, it being the highest unsupported metal column in the world.

A stock company has been formed in Barre for the publication of a weekly paper, to be known as the Granite City Leader, which will make its appearance about Jan. 1. P. C. Dodge of the Burlington Independent is at the head of the venture.

C. E. Gorham of Washington, the supervisor of the United States fish commission, has made an examination of the proposed site for the national hatchery at Cluckering Falls, near St. Johnsbury, at Pittsford, and other places within the past few days.

Twenty hogs on the farm of Joseph Lord, Leota, recently at the age of 77 years, was a native East Orange and was formerly engaged in business at West Topsham. He has been a judge of probate in Humboldt county and president and cashier of a bank in Humboldt. He was a brother of Col. Dickey.

The case of Dr. J. R. Nelson of St. Johnsbury vs. the Boston and Maine railroad company was heard (on exceptions) by the Massachusetts supreme court last Friday. The suit was brought for $30,000 damages, and resulted in a verdict of $13,500 in favor of the railroad.

The officers have not captured Mascott, the Italian burglar, who escaped from the jail at Middlebury last week Tuesday, by sawing off the bars and leaving a dummy in his bed, which deceived the jailer for several hours. Mascott's offense was robbing summer cottages at Ferrisburg in September, and he was arrested in a boat on Lake Champlain while making for Canada. He was committed to jail in default of $1500 bail. This is the first time a prisoner has escaped from the Addison county jail for 18 years.

John H. Crowley, aged 75, was thrown from a load of wood at Burlington last week Thursday. He struck on his head under the horse's feet, but held on to the reins until he had been dragged quite a distance. He was unconscious when picked up. One leg and his nose were broken, teeth knocked out, cut, and he was injured internally. His recovery is doubtful.

Seven cars loaded with gravel broke away from the Bristol railroad near New Haven on Thursday last week and went down the grade at a high rate of speed, and ran into a locomotive. The cars were thrown from the track and partly demolished and the locomotive tender was smashed. An Italian laborer on the cars had a leg broken, and Engineer Deming, who jumped from the cab, injured one knee.

$25,000 Damages.

The Unexpected Wedding Gift of a Too-Axious Bride.

What appears to be a case of outrageous and indecent treatment of a faithful wife came to light at White River Junction last week. The offending husband is Dr. O. W. Daley of that place, a man 20 years old, whose parents are respected residents of Montpelier. His wife, to whom he is married in 1880, was Miss Ray of Hinesburg, an estimable young woman, against whom no word of reproach has even been said. Before his marriage to Miss Ray, Daley had been acquainted with Mae Gates, a daughter of the late Geo. W. Gates of White River Junction, the wealthy man in that place. According to the published reports Miss Gates was very much "interested" in Dr. Daley, who had a drug store at White River Junction, and there was some surprise at the time because he did not marry her. Since 1887 Miss Gates's father, mother and brother have died, leaving her the sole heir to a large estate. In 1880, after these events took place, Daley said he was going to move to Medford, Mass., and his wife went to Montpelier to live with his parents in the meantime. He did not move to Medford, however, but proceeded to devote himself to Miss Gates and she to him. In the spring of 1890 Dr. Daley paid his wife a visit at Montpelier, when he gave her the surprising information that he should no longer support her. In the mean time, Miss Gates was putting up a handsome building at White River Junction, in which was the handsome drug store in the state, and in which Daley removed in due time. Last spring he went to Yankton, S. D., to stand there to secure the necessary 60 days of legal residence, opened proceedings for divorce, got the coveted document on the 24th of last October, hastened back to White River Junction, to which place he removed, and since then he has been residing in Dakota, and after visiting several clergymen who refused their services, found a Bellows Falls minister who married him to Miss Gates on Thursday last week.

"While the bride was putting the finishing touches to her orange blossoms," says the Montpelier Watchman's bright young man states it, papers were served on her by the respected wife's lawyers for $25,000 damages for alienating her husband's affections. Daley has tried to get his parents to disavow his deserted wife, but they declare that so long as they have a home she shall have one with them. Let us not talk too much about New England virtue while events like this must be recorded.

Does Protection Protect?
Certainly, in one instance, it does. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest protection against the dangers of impure blood, and it will cure or prevent all diseases of this class. It has been won as the name of the best blood purifier by its many remarkable cures.

The highest praise has been won by H. O. Pills for their easy and efficient action. Sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents per box.

Down's Elastic will cure any cough or cold, no matter how long standing.

For Over Fifty Years.
Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind. Price Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Will be found an excellent remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

A single trial of Dr. Henry Barker's Mandrake Bitters will convince any one troubled with catarrhes, torpid liver or any kindred diseases of the liver and bowels. They only cost 25 cents per bottle.

Do not suppose that because it is recommended for animals, Eucalypti Oil Liniment is an offensive preparation. It will not stain clothing or the fairest skin.

A Fragrant Breath and Pearly Teeth are easily obtained by cleaning your teeth daily with that justly popular denton, Rosebud. Composed of rare antiseptic herbs, it imparts a whiteness to the teeth, a delicious aroma of the breath, and preserves intact, from youth to old age, the teeth. Acidity of the stomach will destroy the strongest teeth, and Rosebud's effect is counteracted with Soda-water, and this pure tooth-wash protects the dental surfaces by removing every impurity that adheres to them. Ask your druggist for Rosebud.

The Paris Figaro has just published an interesting article on "What young girls should read." It is all well enough, but it is more important still to know that they should always take Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for their colds.

DEEDS, PIERCE, Administrator.
O. R. GARFIELD, Auctioneer.
South Windham, Vt., Nov. 16, 1891.

N. I. HAWLEY.

Nov. 19.

While in New York Market last week, I bought, and have now on sale several lots of Ladies' and Children's Outside Coats, being the clearing out of certain lines of importers' and manufacturers' stock, at less than value.

Lot No. 1.—Children's coats 4, 6, 8 and 10 year sizes, choice from this lot, $6.

Lot No. 2.—Twenty-five Single garments in 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years, being a manufacturer's line of Sample Garments—all from $1 to $3 under value.

Lot No. 3.—Twelve black chevrot Reefer Jackets with handsome Mink collar and same fur extending down both the front edges, $15 each.

Lot No. 5.—Lot of Tan Bedford cord Three-fourths coats, Mink Trimmed, and lot of Black diagonals of same style, length and trimming, $19.50 each.

Lot No. 6.—Few very choice Imported Novelties in Three-fourths coats, being the foreign designer's samples, $25 each.

Lot No. 7.—Manufacturers' line of sample Circulars, $13.50, $18, $20, $22.50, $25, $40, $62.50.

Lot No. 8.—Twenty-six very Elegant Long Garments:

Made up in the handsomest manner of French Cloth—trimmed with handsome furs—elegant quilted linings—colors, Black, Navy, Stone French Mohair, Myrtle and Wine—they were imported at a cost of from $30 to $45 each, and carried over from last season by the importer, who found very little demand in New York for handsome Long Garments this season. In this climate there is always some demand for Circulars and other warm, long garments, and I consider these as staple—much handsomer and more convenient to the wearer than Circulars.

I made a low offer for the entire lot and shall sell them at $25 each.

All of the above mentioned lot are special bargains. Beside these, I am daily receiving additions to our regular line of Jackets, Three-fourths Coats, Capes, Long Coats and Sacks.

Some numbers have proved very popular with our trade. The $8.85 Black Reefer, with the wide shawl collar and facings of black fur, leads in the number sold. Have already received 77 of them, and have but 22 in all sizes left in the store today. Hardly a day since they commenced to go, that we haven't been sold out of some size or sizes, although we have used telegraph freely in our endeavor to keep the assortment of sizes unbroken. Our entire cloak stock is now at its best, and for the next few days we ought to sell a great many garments.

One case, 75 pair White Blankets, $1 a pair.

One case, 75 pair Grey Blankets, $1 a pair.

The one case previously offered at that price did not stay in the store long.

Full and attractive line of both White and colored Blankets at all prices up to $12.50 a pair.

One case—50 pieces best Standard Prints—all desirable styles and colorings, just put on sale at 5 cents a yard.

Small lot of Prints, next grade below the very best, at 4 cents a yard.

Big line of Comfortables.

Few Eider down Quilts.

A lot of new things in Handkerchiefs.

We are having a large sale on Flannelettes, or "Outing Cloths." Over 60 different designs to select from—some new designs in light ground for House Dresses just received. All at 12 1-2 cents a yard.

Thanksgiving is coming soon. Do you need any Table Damask or Napkins before then?
