Tyler, treasurer; Mrs. James Dalton, secretary; Mrs. Charles Warder, Mrs. N Hawley and Mrs. Royall Tyler, book committee. Then followed the sale of the books and magazines, after which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Hannibal A. Williams of New York city will appear in the Auditorium next month in two Shakspere recitals, for the benefit of the High school library. Mr. Williams will appear Dec. 8 and will present "The Tempest; Arthur Sullivan music will accompany this. "As You Like It" will be given Dec 22 by Mrs. Williams (Jean Stuart Brown) the music for this is mostly by German. Mr and Mrs. Williams give the plays entirely from memory and come to us with the high est recommendations from the many cities in which they have appeared.

Brattleboro people rubbed their eyes in amazement this morning when they gazed out upon the snow covered landscape. The rain of yesterday afternoon turned to snow about 10:30 last evening, and this morning the ground was covered to a depth or four inches. The streets have been stretches of slush this forenoon, and many residents have made themselves liable to a fine in not having their sidewalks clean. It might be well to try the law upon some of the authorities, as the sidewalks in front of the Elliot and South Main street engine houses and on the Main street bridge had not been cleaned

The first competitive hunt that Brattleboro sportsmen have held in recent years will begin next Monday, with D. G. O'Neill and Ralph Chamberlain as captains. There will be 35 men on each side. The game will be left at the Brattleboro House each night, and the count will take place there. The contest will end a week from Monday night, and the hunters will game supper, to be paid for by the losing side. Game will be scored as follows: Bear, 50 points; deer, 40; coon, 38; woodcock, 22; partridge, 20; quail, 18; rabbit, The committee of arrangements have not had time to see all of the hunters, and those wishing to take part in the hunt are requested to leave names at the Brattleboro House.

The second lecture in the "College Course," upon the Niebelungen Leid, by Prof. H. B. Richardson of Amherst colege, will be given Dec. 14 at the town hall, and not Dec. 15 as at first proposed, The Choral Union have the use of the building Dec. 15 and 16 for rehearsal and the greatly anticipated rendition of the oratorio of "Elijah."

The last issue of the Watchman, the Baptist journal, in its report of the min-isters' conference at Lynn, Mass. said: 'Rev. L. D. Temple of Brattleboro, Vi., spoke on the fundamental importance of a sufficient supply of ministers for the work of the Gospel at home and abroad; and the consequent priority of ministerial educaion in the beneficence of the churches. He made the history of Christianity testify to the prime importance of preaching, and held the church responsible for the pro-duction and equipment of preachers."

The Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts boundary line commissioners, including Col. Kittredge Haskins, who have recently erected a monument mark-ing the intersection of the division lines between those three states, met Wednesday to audit some accounts growing out of their work and incidentally to look at the monument, which they had not seen since it was erected. They also made a satisfactory settlement with Mrs. Margaret Ragan of South Vernon who presented a bill for $25, claiming that she sustained that amount of damage when the monument was drawn through her garden.

Depositions were taken before Justice J. H. Merrifield Tuesday in the case of Celia M. Cutler of Brookline against D. Dickinson of Williamsville, each o whom holds a mortgage, negotiated by A. F. & L. E. Kelley of Minneapolis, on the same piece of land, each mortgage pur-porting to be a first lien. Mr. Dickinson's nortgage was executed prior to Mrs. Cut ler's and he has never given a release of it. Mrs. Cutler asks to have Mr. Dickinson's mortgage declared invalid for the reason that the mortgagor paid to the Kelleys the amount of the Dickinson mortgage before executing the mortgage held by her.

Connecticut valley tobacco growers will receive higher prices for their crops this season than were paid a year ago. The increase in price is due to a short crop, which was caused by an overabundance of rain during July and August. Buyers are present in the valley in considerable numpers and about a third of the crop has been sold at prices ranging from 12 to 23 cents a pound in the bundle. The average price about five cents higher than last year. A smaller proportion of the crop than usual will be available for wrappers. Ordinarily 60 or 65 per cent, sometimes as high as 80 per cent, but this year not more than 33 per cent, of the crop is available for this purpose.

The meeting of the Woman's club Friday afternoon, held at the Brooks House by invitation of Mrs. Wiltaker, was well attended, and several matters of unusual interest and importance presented themselves. The announcement of the gift announced later. to the kindergarten of $15, and a hint at the movement which has si generous sum to be turned into the treasury for the same purpose, called forth hearty applause. It was voted to have some time during the winter, two organ recitals, to be given, free of charge, in some of the churches. A good degree of interest is being manifested in this movement, and it is hoped the recitals may prove as great a success as the club antici pate. It was a pleasure to the club to again have Mrs. Sallie Joy White with them, and to listen to the brief talk which she consented to give.

The marriage of Thomas Donoghue and Miss Mamie Sheehan was celebrated Tuesday morning in the convent chapel at Rut land, Rev. Father Gaffney officiating John Mooney of Middlebury was best man and Miss Margaret Donoghue of Brattle boro, a sister of the groom, was bridemaid. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. In the eve ning the groom's father gave a largely attended reception, at which there dancing and festivities until a late hour. Miss Donoghue was accompanied to Rutland by Miss Mary McGraw and by D. Frank Shea and E. J. Shea. The latter remains in Rutland for a visit of a week. Mrs. Donoghue was formerly a resident of Brattleboro. Her father is a well known railroad man who moved to Rutland about six years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Donoghue are to make their home at 48 Pine street, Rutland.

In the beginning of his address upo 'Macbeth," last Tuesday evening, the elouent speaker said that we must go back to the Greek drama, of Eschylus, Sophcles, Euripides, to match the profound passion and moral force of Shakspere's masterpiece. It is this magnificent literature which Prof. Henry M. Tyler of Smith college will open up in his lecture, the first of the "College Course," next Monday evening at the town hall. The stereopticon views, giving a vivid idea of the appearence and conduct of the Greek theatre, will greatly aid the hearers. It may not be widely known, that, quite recently, a very full line of Latin and Greek classical authors, covering all of the most famous works, and in the best translations has been placed in the public library. rich and inspiring body of reading is thus pened to those who will become acquaintwith the great Greek dramatisrs; and to hely them in this as well as to give eral instruction and entertainment, will be the object of Prof. Tyler's lecture. Judge E. L. Waterman was in Keene. N H., yesterday as one of the counsel for the defendant in the case of Sanborn against Buxton, both of Chesterfield Facory, N. H., before Referee Hiram Blake. The case was one of three years' standing and the charge was assault and battery The testimony tended to show that San-born, who is of massive frame, went upon the land of Buxton, who is of smaller physique and has one empty sleeve, and took therefrom some dirt with which to change the course of water flowing in the When ordered to desist Sanborn reroad. fused, claiming that he had a right to get then gather at the Brattleboro House for a | the dirt for the purpose for which he de sired it, whereupon Buxton lead Sanborn's horse partly from the field. Sanborn, be ing the stronger, got his team back into osition and then Buxton began unhitching the traces. Sanborn struck Buxton with a rake, and Buxton grabbed a and whacked Sanborn over the head. Sanborn immediately procured the services of a lawyer rather than a physician.

The annual banquet of the Vermont Wheel club will probably be held in January.

Will Roleau, a former Brattleboro had a narrow escape from death at Essex Junction some time ago while at work putting a hay rack upon a cart. He was underneath the rack when a prop gave way, letting the rack down upon him. A buit tore the side of his face from his ear to his chin, and he would probably have been killed but for the fact that the rack first struck on his shoulders.

Conductor L. W. Hawley announced at the rehearsal of the Choral Union Wednesday evening that Dec. 16 had been decided on as the date for the presentation of Mendelssohn's "Elljab," and that the Auditorium had been engaged. The Union has the work well in hand and, although ie music is by far the "stiffest" it has yet indertaken. Dec. 16 will see everything in Fisher of Boston went to the county jail last Saturday morning, where they made an examination of the mental condition of Mildred Brewster. They were accompanied by State's Attorney Fred A. Howland and Z. S. Stanton, counsel for the state in the coming murder trial, Whatever determination the medical experts may have come to in regard to Miss Brewster, it will not be made public until t is given by them on the witness stand."

The success of the Popular Lecture course last season has led the young peo-ple of the Baptist church to arrange for a similar course this winter, and although dates are not yer definitely fixed, it is announced that four lectures and an entertainment will be given. As difficulty is found in arranging earlier dates, because of other engagements of the speakers, it is probable that the course will not open un-til late in January. The lecturers secured are Rev. Dr. C. I. Scofield of Northfield, who is expected to speak upon "Personal Recollections of the Southern Confeder-Rev. G. Glenn Atkins of Greenfield, Rev. Dr. F. J. Parry and Rev. Hal D. Maxwell. A large number of boys and several older persons met at the parlors of the Young Men's Christian association Monday evening, to discuss with Arthur B Clinton of Mount Hermon, plans for organizing classes for physical instruction during the winter. The benefits to be derived from such work were discussed by Secretary L. B. Hardy, Mrs. L. D. Temple and Mr. Clinton, and at the close of the remarks so many signified their intention of joining that it was decided to engage Mr. Clinton as physical director. A young men's class will be organized and will begit work at 7:30 o'clock!Saturday evening, and a boys' class will be organized between 4 and 5 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. These hours will be the regular ones for instruction of the respective classes. Mr. Clinton, who is a student at Mount Hermon, was for two years a successful instructor in the Young Men's Christian association at Mauch Chunk, Pa.

The following from the report of State Inspector of Finance Hosea Mann will be of interest to many people in Brattleboro and Putney: "H. K. Bush of Barre has been appointed receiver for the assets in this state of the insolvent Granite State Provident association of Manchester, N. H., and is collecting them-about $35,000 —as fast as possible, which he will hold subject to direction of the Vermont courts. David A. Taggart, general assignee at Manchester, informs me that decisions so far rendered in the courts require the return of the general assets scattered through several states to him for general distribution, and he expects this decision in al courts where the question is raised. He is attempting to secure the return of the specsal deposits held by several states for general distribution also, and has recently cured a decision in the state of Michiga by the United States circuit court to the effect that the law of that state which places a lien on all the assets of said association in that state for the benefit of the stockholders thereof living in that state, is unconstitutional because of preference to citizens of Michigan over those of other states." An examination in the matter of the in solvency estate of H. M. Adams was held before Judge E. L. Waterman Monday the assignees being represented by Has-kins & Schwenk and C. C. Fitts and Mr Adams by Waterman, Martin & Hitt. The examination was in reference to the transfer of certain real estate and personal property by Mr. Adams previous to his filing a petition in insolvency. The law provides that if a man in unsound financial circumstances disposes of his property or a part of it within four months previo to the time he goes into insolvency for the purpose of securing particular such transfer of property shall be declared degal and shall be annulled for the benefit of the entire creditors. Previous to his failure Mr. Adams transferred some Mariboro real estate to George Persons, and other property was deeded to W. H. Minor, and it was with the purpose of establishing the fact as to whether the transfers were made earlier than four months previous to the insolvency proceeding that the assignees called for this preliminary examination The fact was also cited that a number of horses, carriages, blankets and sleighs covered by a mortgage held by H. P. Smith, had been disposed of contrary to the pro-visions of the mortgage, which did not contain a "buy and sell" known that these sales were made with the supposition that the "buy and sell" clause was contained in the mortgage.

Another iss the paper says Knight will be able "to make it hot for his enemies."

Miss Nellie Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Austin, and William Boyco were quietly married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Elliot street. The house was trim med with evergreen and chrysanthemum and only the families of the couple were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Cunningham, George Danyeaw acting as best man, and Elizabeth Austin as bridemaid. The bride was attired in a blue traveling suit and carried a bonquet of chrysanthemums. A wedding supper was served after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Boyce started on their wedding tour that evening, going as far as Northfield in a hack. In the excitement of the departure, the carriage started too soon and drove away, leaving the groom standing on the sidewalk. The bride soon discovered her loss, however, and notified the hack driver who stopped his team and waited until the groom overtook them. Mr. and Mrs. Boyce will live at 126 Union street on their return. They received many elegant

The Arctic fox shot in Gardner, Mass. has been identified by Robert Perry as his property. John Driscoll, a farm hand employed on the Heywood farm in Gardner, shot a strange beast that had been killing valuable fowls. No one in the neighborhood could identify the animal, and L. C. Dresser, the manager of the farm, brought the corpse to Worcester, where it was classified by a furrier as a blue fox. A good many sportsmen laughed at the idea of an Arctic fox in Worcester county, preferred to believe it a freak. But Mr. erry has now convinced them that the furrier was right after all. Mr. Perry is fond of adventure and went with Lieut. Peary on his Arctic trip last summer While in Greenland he snared a blue fox and decided to make the experiment of taming it. After arriving in Boston Mr. Perry went to his home at Phillipston and nstalled the fox in a roomy cage. ate well and was keeping in good condition. and her owner was becoming hopeful of ultimately gaining a place in her affections. But one morning the cage was found empty. Mr. Perry heard nothing more of his pet until last week, when a friend chanced to mention the fox shot at Gardner. Then the explorer discovered that the little beast that had accompanied him all the way from the frozen north was no more. This story has a local interest from the fact that Mr. Perry is an intimate friend of R. C. Cressy and comes here often to roam over the Vermont hills in search of the wary fox.

Principal Whitaker on Our System of

School Grading. Principal Whitaker of the High school gave last evening, in the Brooks House parlor, before the public school teachers, embers of the school board and other friends who came in, his paper on "A Neglected Elective," read last month before the meeting of the State Teachers' asso-ciation at Woodstock. A summary of the eading points in this paper was given in The Phoenix at the time. In its essential hought the paper is a plea for liberty on the part of the teachers to study the individual pupil, making the system conform to the ability and the needs of the pupil and not the pupil, whether bright or dull, to a relentiess system. point, especially urged by Mr. Whitaker last evening, was that the inflexible time limit should be done away with in our graded school system, and that, instead of promotion depending on a certain amount of time being spent in each grade, and a certain amount of book study being gone over, it depend on the pupil having proved his ability to do work of a certain grade. He would have the grades and the course of study so arranged that promotions may be made at any time during the year. This would probably bring the present ninth grade into the High school, and if so it ould make the regular High school course five years long instead of four. But the work would be so arranged that a bright pupil, mentally and physically competent for the task, might finish the work in four years, or even in three, while it would be no hindrance or discredit to the pupil less quick and alert who needed to take five or ven six years to do the same work. In illustration of this point quotation was made from the report of Superintendent Shearer of the public schools in Elizabeth, N. J., where this system of frequent pro-motion, on a basis of proved ability to do appropriated to its own use. The court work, has been under successful trial for the past two years.

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION

Marriage of Henry J. Humpstone and Miss Louise Rawson--- 50th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel

Laurel and palm decorations gave an appearance of unwonted festivity to the Canal street home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rawson this afternoon, when their daughter, Miss Louise Rawson, was quietly married to Henry J. Humpstone of Brooklyn, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev Dr. John Humpstone, the groom's brother, who is pastor of Immanuel church of Brooklyn, assisted by Rev. L. D. Temple, pastor of the Baptist church of this town. The Episcopal ring service was used. The bride wore a brown traveling dress. The bridemaids were Florence and Frances Putnam of Alstead, N. H., young cousins of the bride. Rev. C. O. Day. Mr. Lindvall acted as best man and Miss Amanda Peterson as bridemaid. The bride wore a dress of white wool and the bridemaid was dressed in white muslin over blue. Only a few friends were present at the ceremony, after which the couple went to their new home at 3 Organ street. They received many useful and ornamental gifts.

Gerald Stanley Lee appears as the writer f "Books of the Day" in this week's terary number of the Boston Transcript. His style is epigrammatic as always. These, for instance, are the opening lines of his paragraph on the death of Henry George, and his work as a writer in political economy: "By taking sufficient pains, men may speak appropriately, from time to time, and live effectively besides, but it is not given to many men in this mortal while the d world to die to the point, like Henry $524,700.81. Barnard, pastor of the historic church in Dummerston, a number of friends from neighboring churches met at that place on Wednesday for an old-fashioned fellowship meeting Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Babbitt, Mrs. H. E. Bond and Rev. C. O. Day went up from Brattleboro, and there were also present Rev. Smith Norton of Newfane, Rev. F. M. Wiswall of Putney, Miss A. C. Billings and a party of friends from Guilford and several others. The morning session was led by Mr. Barnard, who took for his subect "Our Need of and Way of Securing a Deeper Religious Interest." After a bountiful lunch, served with true Dummerston hospitality, the afternoon session began with a service led by Miss Billings, followed by a strong and suggestive sermon by Rev. Smith Norton upon "Redeeming the Times." An hour or so of familiar conference followed. An evening service of great helpfulness was conducted by Miss Billings. These fellowship meetings are a great means of good and should be multi-from a trip to Minneapolis taken in the interest of a Kelley case in which he is interested. It is a case where a loan was paid to Mr. Kelley before it came due and Kelley did not pay over the money to the holder of the mortgage. Payment of the oan to Kelley was made in 1895. tober, 1896, when payment of the interest coupons began to be defaulted, Mr. Hines egan foreclosure proceedings. gagor resisted on the ground that he had paid the loan. Suit was brought to make a legal test, and at the trial week before last the court held that, as a matter of law, the loan had not been paid. Mr. Hines thus wins in the lower court. No appeal has been entered as yet, but 30 days are given the defendant in which to do this. nformation of a general nature brought by Mr. Hines about the "Kelley cases" is of interest to the Kelley clientage hereouts. He says in substance that while there have been a number of cases tried, there have not been many decisions, and these, with but very few exceptions, have been adverse to Eastern claimants. In the remainder of the cases thus far tried, decisions are evidently delayed in order that the supreme court may pass upon the two or three cases which been brought before it. These decisions will, in a measure, be guides for future action. But Mr. Kelley's devices for tid ing over his difficulties were so many and so varied that it will take more than one or two decisions of the court to cover all the actions which have, or will be, brought, Several cases have been settled by mutual agreement, and in one or two instances, suits involving small sums, have been dis continued. In a recent case, the defendant's attorney made the contention tha Kelley's methods of doing business with certain of his Eastern clients, made the firm of A. F. & L. E. Kelley a banking firm, with accounts of debit and credit This established, it would excuse the delinguency of the firm to account for collections made by it, in which no returns were did not recognize the validity of this contention.

An Analytical Study of Shakspere's Masterplece with the Expression of an Orator and an Actor. Rev. Dr. D. J. Stafford gave an analysis and oration at once in his consideration of Macbeth at the Anditorium M mday even-ing—such a portrayal as is possible only to a man of rarely versatile talents—an analytical student, a master of pure and graceful diction, and an orator with the powers of an actor. Dr. Stafford carried his audience completely away from temporal and personal affairs, and their existence was lost for the time save in con-templation of what the speaker termed in his opening remarks as the most finished and sublime of Shakspere's productions The effect was an indelible impression on the minds of all. To some it was a reve lation, while even those who consider themselves Shaksperean students will read the tragedy with a new understanding of the touches, both bold and subtle, which make it a masterpiece in English litera-The secret of the power of Macbeth, the speaker said, is that it pushes every passion to the limit, but that it never mars the effect. He reviewed the play in regular order, showing how the natural and preternatural agencies heighten the effect. The causes which stirred on Macbeth to his crime; his conflicting emotions; his sterling qualities, particularly his heroic ourage (and therefore the greater pity of his fall) were all strikingly revealed; Lady Macbeth, Banquo and McDuff all stood forth in their true proportions and true re-lations to the tragedy.

REV. DR. STAFFORD'S MACBETE

In closing Dr. Stafford gave a brief but striking commentary on what Macbeth meant, what the poet had revealed—the ever changing sequence of crime, remorse punishment.

Previous to the discourse was a musical program of merit—violin solo by Clinton Dugan, cornet solos by Sewall Morse, and wo songs by Katie O'Connor. Mr. Morse's "No Sir" was an especially pleasing num-ber. Miss O'Connor has seldom been heard in public, but she has a soprand voice of excellent quality which shows the effects of training under the direction of Lucien Howe. Dr. Stafford was felici-tously introduced by T. A. Austin. It is gratifying to note that the audience filled the Auditorium, and that the receipts will leave about $75 for the treasury of the Catholic Order of Foresters, under whose auspices Dr. Stafford appeared.

THE FREE KINDERGARTEN

It Makes a Lasting Impression for Good on the Children --- $250 Given for Maintenance of the School.

It is, perhaps, not fully known that we really have such an institution fairly started among us, and it may be that the importance of the work done in the kinder-garten is little understood by the general public; and in passing, I won many cities and towns in Massachusetts it is positively required that before any scholars can enter the public schools they must first have been at least one year in a kindergarten school, so important do they consider it for the welfare both of the the year ending June 30 last. practical Christianity.

But the beauty of this grand charity is on the child's side. They take these little ones and if not neat they are soon taught that they must be: if rude or noisy they soon learn that this is not the best and in many ways, beside the regular routine of the school, are so brought under the influence of love and care that at any time one can go in and find a beautiful class of well behaved little children. Children taken at the age of three to five are at an age keenly sensitive to all external influences, both bad and good, as every observing parent knows, often learning to be very profane or lewd in their talk when have no real consciousness of the wrong. Taken from such influences and the hearing of so much that is corrupting into an atmosphere of sympathy and help fulness, no one can doubt the wonderfu change that is wrought in their young minds, being guided so lovingly and per sistently into ways that are right, rathe than be allowed to drift in the opposite direction. In fact the good done in schools of this kind is far beyond any estimate in dollars and cents, reaching forward as it loes, not only to childhood and youth, bu to the man and citizen. Surely no grander or more beautiful work is given unto us

It is very gratifying that our citizens have come nobly to the aid of the ladies in this work, enough money having been giv-en them to enable them to nearly, if not fully, pay the expenses of the kindergarten until May or June next. The sum so far given is about $250.
