MEN WANTED

On Friday, June 7, a number of employees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company left their positions without notice and went on a strike which now exists. These represented almost entirely the newer, younger, more inexperienced men. A large majority of the men, including nearly all of the older, reonsible men, remained with the company and have faithfully served in operating its car service, which has been well maintained over its entire system.

The Company wants at once suitable exprienced Motormen and Conductors to fill the places of men who have left the service, and offers attractive, permanent employment not only to these but to other worthy persons who can qualify.

For full information write or apply to Superintendent of Employment, 153 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

With Roosevelt running independently t is probable that no candidate will have a majority in the electoral college, in which case the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives for the first time since the days of John Quincy Adams.

Allen M. Fletcher has been nominated for the governorship by the Republican party of Vermont. That he is a man of ability is conceded and he will unquestionably give the state a good business administration. We are of the opinion however, that a man more deserving o political recognition and better fitted to lead a hard fight in the year of a presidential campaign could have been found. It is now particularly up to the men who have pushed Mr. Fletcher's candidacy to take off their coats in what is likely to be the liveliest gubernatorial campaign the state has seen in years. The nomination of Frank E. Howe as lieutenant governor will be received with satisfaction wherever he is known. Windham county, in which he was reared, gave him practically a solid endorsement in the state convention.

LAYING WAREHOUSE FOUUNDATION

Piles Driven at Site of New Crosby Grain Elevator-About 25 Men at Work -Will Build Sawmill Soon.

A force of about 25 men is making good progress on the basement and foundation for E. Crosby & Co.'s grain elevator and warehouse just north of the White River Chair company's factory on Vernon street. The excavation for the basement is practically completed and this week cold and this week cold and this week cold and this week cold and the street of the street cold and this week cold and the street col and this week oak and chestnut piles have been driven for the foundation of the elevator. The piles were driven about 20 feet, when they struck a hard substance, either rock or gravel. They were driven by a 2700-pound weight, and on top of prevent it from splitting. The piles will be sawed off a few feet below the sur-face of the ground and concrete piers will be built upon them to support the elevator. The pile driving was done by the Central Vermont Railway company. The main building will be 204 feet long, mill constructed, and will face Vernon street. The elevator will constitute the middle section and will be about 100 feet high, having a frontage of 56 feet and a depth of 42 feet. The section south of the elevator will be 100 feet long and three stories high and will be used for a storehouse. The north section will contain the office and will be adapted to making poultry feeds requiring special machinery. It will be the same height as the south section, and all three sections will be the same width, 42 feet. The building will have an asbestos exterior. Running diagonally from the south end Running diagonally from the south end of the front part a wing three stories high will extend in a northwesterly direction. This wing will contain a building 120 feet long by 42 feet wide, which will be used for storing sacked grain. The irregular shaped section between this building and the point where the wing joins the front part also will be used for storage purposes.

Beginning at the southeast corner Beginning at the southeast corner a Central Vermont spur track runs north past the elevator and another runs northwest past the wing. The former track has a capacity of six freight cars and the latter a capacity of seven freight crs. A shed will be provided for receiving baled hay from farmers for re-shipment, and a cotton warehouse is contemplated.

The grain elevator will be a capacity.

The grain elevator will ha a capacity of 60,000 bushels, which is 1,000 bushels larger than the present elevator on Bridge street. Three mills for grinding corn, onts and other grain will be instal-led, and 20 electric motors and various automatic devices have been provided for. A sawmill will be constructed on the premises soon, to facilitate the work on the buildings.

G. W. & C. A. Lane of Exeter, N. H., are the mill architects, J. C. Pellett is the superintendent and Fred L. Chamberlin is the head carpenter. Crosby & Co. expect to move into the new plant Sept. 1. Although it is farther away from the business section of the village than is the present plant, this will not work to the disadvantage of patrons, as Crosby & Co. will have a store "up town" and will run automobile trucks.
