There are no better pills made than DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Always prompt and certain. Grant Holden.
The secret of success is constancy to purpose.
DeWitt's Little Early Risers are famous little pills for liver and bowel troubles. Never gripe. Grant Holden.

The man who procrastinates struggles with ruin.
For burns, injuries, piles and skin diseases use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is the original. Counterfeits may be offered. Use only DeWitt's. Grant Holden.
All that is human must retrograde if it does not advance.
It has been demonstrated by experience that consumption can be prevented by the early use of One Minute Cough Cure. This is the favorite remedy for coughs, colds, croup, asthma, gripe and all throat and lung troubles. Cures quickly. Grant Holden.
Better be three hours too soon than one minute too late.
A gentleman recently cured of dyspepsia gave the following appropriate rendering of Burns' famous blessing: "Some have meat and cannot eat, and some have none that want it; but we have meat and we can eat." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure be thanked. "This preparation will digest what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures indigestion and all stomach disorders. Grant Holden.
He that will watch providences shall never want providences to watch.
The law holds both maker and creator of counterfeit money equally guilty. The dealer who sells you a dangerous counterfeit of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve risks your life to make a little larger profit. You can not trust him. DeWitt's is the only genuine and original Witch Hazel Salve, a well known cure for piles and all skin diseases. See that your dealer gives you DeWitt's Salve. Grant Holden.
After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all the natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspeptics to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medicinal agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief. Grant Holden.
IS IT RIGHT
For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?
From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, North Carolina: It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a representative of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's diarrhoea remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by Staley & McKeith.

A Binder Test.
The Champion binder wins in a public contest at the farm of Jonathan Lyons, one mile east of Yale, Mich., on Saturday, July 14, 1922.

The Osborne Company through their agent Wesley Schlechter, issued a challenge for a binder test in cutting wheat on the aforesaid mentioned farm. The Osborne Company was represented by R. H. Menery, local agent at Yale. Wesley Schlechter, traveling salesman and Wm. Phillips, block man, and other experts. The Osborne led off in the test. John Lyons driving his team hitched to the Osborne around the field five times and not one time in the five did he get around the field without being obliged to stop in order to give the expert a chance to adjust some part of the machine. It missed tying bundles and the grain came out from behind, the open elevator being a failure in this kind of grain. Then Mr. Lyons hitched his team on the Champion driving it around the field three times without stopping. Then he gave his decision in favor of the Champion binder. That the Osborne had been outdone in every point was the verdict of all the farmers present, and of everybody who saw the test.

We wish to say that Jonathan Lyons was fair and honest in his judgment, having made the statement before starting that he would rather buy a binder of Mr. Schlechter than any other person, as they were old schoolmates, and he would not listen to cut prices from either parties. It was not the man or the price; it was the best binder he wanted. Also we hope Mr. Schlechter realizes that there has been a binder test this time. And it is far different to be present at one than to hold one over the telephone, as he did last year. Wharton & Co., of Yale will be pleased to meet the Osborne binder at any time in contest on any farm in the vicinity of Yale.

Oliver Wendell Holmes said that the "Truest and surest way of reforming a man is to begin with his grand-mother." We endorse the saying as sound doctrine, for nothing is surer to tell than blood, and no inheritance so certain as ancestral traits and tendencies. But the doctrine is not deep enough—don't reach far enough back. In some cases we would put the notch at least ten generations rearward, and in a few cases the only absolutely certain reform would be to have no grand-mothers at all.

Here is the manliness of manhood—that a man has a good reason for what he does and has a will in doing it.

A Lakeside Letter.

Editor Expositor: Before leaving Michigan, I spent a couple of hours examining the stone crusher working and the stone road being built in the vicinity of the Tunnel Junction. Of course I was interested in this business, because of the fact that our town has an investment of $800, that so far only serves as a curiosity, and is left to rot on Francis' hill. If our crusher does its work, as well as this one at Port Huron, it ought to be set grinding at once and give it a fair trial, if no good send it to the junk store. The Port Huron crusher does its work well. Three men with helpers to load are kept busy with wheel barrows filling the hopper, one man shoving the boulders into and between the crushers, where they are quickly reduced into three sizes, being carried by endless buckets into the cylinder, from whence they come out at the side onto flaps, and from thence let down into the wagons underneath. The road itself, so far as completed, looks as if it would last for ages. Making inquiry, found that there was first a layer of sand 2 or 3 inches thick. Then came thickness broken stone, over which a heavy steam roller is driven, and the stone pressed down into the sand until quite solid. Then another 3-inch layer of stone, treated in the same way with the roller, then a top coat of the fine stone and stone dust, also about 3 inches thick, rolled down until it becomes as hard as rock, the heaviest wagons loaded to their utmost not making the slightest impression on it. A little enterprise, a little sand in the crop, mixed with a fair medium of brains, and our idle machine put to work, our old town may yet be redeemed from the justly earned odium of owning the worst roads in the country.

Passing along through Canada from Sarnia to Toronto, noticed that Canadian farmers, at least along the line have not very much to boast of in the way of crops, poor to middling would be about right describing them, good being an exception, especially the oat and hay crops. Some fields of hay were cut and ricked up, Tommy Clyne's summer hat would cover any of them, I don't mean any reflection on Tommy's hat, but on the smallness of hay ricks. Mrs. Brown and Carl joined me at Gravenhurst, and we came on here to Callander, arriving Wednesday night. This is a small village of 600 inhabitants, owing its existence and its present life to numerous saw mills. The same may be said of many of the little towns along the line of the Grand Trunk north of Toronto, especially in the neighborhood of lakes of which there are many.

This town is situated on the southeast corner of Lake Nipissing. The lake itself, outside of money making, is the only attraction for tourists. It is an Indian name meaning "big water" and is a very beautiful sheet of water, many islands dotting its surface. Some of them very beautiful places, covered down to the waters edge with the greenest of green trees and foliage, making delightful resorts for those seeking pleasure and recuperation. I am almost afraid to mention fish, because fish stories don't go down with the average lake lubber without salt shrinkage, but I am told in good authority that pike has been caught weighing 42 pounds. I caught one myself last night that came within 40 pounds of it, but to be real honest about it, I caught it after some one else caught it and brought it to shore and made me a present of it.

I was agreeably surprised and pleased to find still here a Rev. Mr. Smith, Presbyterian minister, a companion on several fishing excursions of 6 years ago—besides being a fisher of men, he loves the sport of fishing for fish. He is a very agreeable gentleman and has promised to show me some of the good fishing holes next week, and if I catch one of those 42 pounders, I will express it to the Expositor for Sunday dinner.

This is a very rough country, the farms being rough and rocky, tillable land just patches here and there between the rocks, each patch from one-half an acre or less to several acres in extent. I have been told that back from the railroad are many good farms and prosperous farmers, but they are not in sight—passing through by rail. What soil there is, is good and rich, and raises pretty good crops usually. Times are said to be good up here, everybody seeming to be contented and prosperous. The mills running night and day. Lumber being higher than usual, and in great demand. Next week we are going to begin picnic life out amongst the Islands, and whatever of interest I can catch onto will reserve for another week's report.

Yours truly,
James Brown.
