RULES AND REGULATIONS

Regarding the Driving of Automobiles and Other Vehicles Along the Public Highways.

In view of the fact that so many automobiles are now owned in and about Yale, it is fitting that people who drive them, as well as those who drive horses on the highways, become acquainted with the laws pertaining to these vehicles and the road. One who drives an auto often led to imagine that the average man who drives a horse absolutely hates the sight of him and his machine, at least the actions of the horseman will only too often warrant that conclusion. How often will the autoist come up behind a man, driving a team and big wagon on a road not any too wide, who stolidly refuses to notice the "honk" or request to be allowed to pass. The autoist has to wait until the road permits an opportunity to pass and then he hurries by before the "road hog" can get in front of him and crowd him into the ditch. The man who does this may be fined $25.00 and costs if the autoist cares to make a complaint. The law is, that when an auto comes up behind you and by word or signal requests to pass, you shall at once drive either to the left or right hand side of the traveled portion of the highway and give the auto room to pass. In meeting an auto the same rule should be observed as when two teams pass each other. In crossing intersecting streets or highways, the auto should keep to the right hand side of the road and if it intends to turn up or down the intersecting street, the following must be strictly observed in order to obey the law and be exempt from claim of damages. If turning to the right, turn the auto before you reach the middle or center of the street, keeping as close as may be to the right hand curb or roadside. If turning to the left, you come down the right hand side of the original street, pass beyond the center of the intersecting street and then turn to the left. Another auto or rig may be coming down the opposite side of the street and although you may not see each other, there is no danger of your colliding if you both obey the law.

In passing and meeting teams on the highway, the autoist must use due care not to frighten horses and upon the person, who has a horse that frightens raises his hand or giving other evidence that his horse may become unmanageable, that autoist shall bring his machine to a full stop, and if it be necessary he shall render such assistance, providing he is over sixteen years of age, as he can to prevent an accident.

To sum the whole matter up, whether you drive a horse or an auto, just use all of the good horse sense you may have, remembering that the other fellow has just as much rights on the road as you have. Don't be mean or overbearing just because you happen to know how, but treat every one just as you would have him treat you and it is very little trouble you will have or make any one else.

THE HORSEMAN

Carr & Son, Lansing, Mich., writes: "We have used Harvell's Condition Powders on our livery horses for about three years and have always found them superior to all others. We have found that livery horses are subject to great abuse and Harvell's Condition Powders always bring back the appetite and puts them on their pins." Pollock & Hennessy.
