Nearly every week an item reports the rounding up of blind pigs and stiffs in Huron county, and it seems strange indeed that all the pigs and stiffs should be in that county. Sanilac county citizens are evidently too good to do anything along this line, though there are rumors that a regular truck line is run to Sandusky and the northern part of the county carrying booze from Port Huron. It might furnish the retiring officers a chance to cover themselves with glory and incidentally uncover some illicit places if they would go after it sufficiently in earnest.
