WORK CARDS FOR WOMEN MAY BE DEMANDED SOON

Memphis women as well as men may be required to carry working cards and may be included in the "work or fight" order. An effort will be made by the Memphis war work committee to have the city "war leaders" ordinance changed. This decision was reached at a meeting of the employers' advisory committee to the community labor board wherein a new executive committee was organized and plans placed under way for the co-ordination of all labor committees of the city. It is believed that if women are included in the city ordinance it will offer a decided relief in the lines of industry where women workers can be utilized and will result in alleviating the present labor crisis.

The war work committee is made up of representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, the Cotton exchange, the Merchants exchange, the Lumbermen's club and the Cottonseed Crushers' association. Its executive committee is made up of C. W. Butler, chairman; E. L. Maloney, J. P. McDonald, Henry B. Loeb, Frank N. Fisher, M. H. Hunt, W. W. Fischer, M. H. Rosenblatt, Frank Barby, W. W. Simmons, W. H. Dubose, W. R. King, June H. Rudisill, Max Sondheimler.

The chief work of the committee will be to bring about absolute co-operation between employers, employees, city and county and federal authorities in obtaining the services of all available workers from the less essential lines of industry and to urge that those industries absolutely necessary for the successful prosecution of the war. These men make up the war work committee: S. F. McDonald, chairman; E. A. Gullfoyle, W. W. Deupree, Chas. Keener, A. J. Bauer, G. Barford, M. H. Hunt, Abe Scharrf, R. Sondheimler, Lee Maloney, J. P. MEMPHIS PHYSICIAN DIES FROM WOUNDS

Lieut. Grover Carter, former Memphis physician, with the medical corps of the 121st brigade of British Royal Field Artillery, died the death of a hero at the post of duty near the battle line, according to word received by his brother, Dr. J. Hugh Carter, of Memphis, who died on Oct. 21 of wounds received in battle. News of his death was conveyed to Memphis by another brother, Dr. J. P. Carter, a member of the 121st brigade, who was assigned to duty at the base hospital unit No. 57. The gallant soldier was well known in Memphis, having received his medical education in this city. He was born 24 years ago in Selmer, Tenn., and his mother, Mrs. J. S. Carter, survives him.

He obtained the B. S. degree at Union university and afterwards graduated from the medical college of the University of Tennessee. He entered the medical reserve in June, 1917, while serving as interne at the Baptist hospital and on Sept. 9, 1917, was called into the service. He served a short time with the American army and was then assigned to the 121st brigade, under Gen. Rawlinson.

Word reaching Memphis told of his heroism in attending the wounded. For days he worked tirelessly without sleeping. Many times he labored under the program of working six hours and sleeping six hours.

Besides his mother and two brothers, Dr. Carter is survived by another brother, Dr. Ross Carter, dentist, of Selmer, and J. A. Carter, two sisters, Mrs. A. S. Robinson, of Bethel Springs, Tenn., and Mrs. Edgar Frather, of Selmer.

WILL PUT YOU ON YOUR FEET

The government announces from Washington that contracts amounting to $6,170,000 have been let for the construction of six towing steamers and 40 steel barges to be operated on the Mississippi, Ohio and Black Warrior rivers. Four of the steamers will be tug-type, 200 feet long and 40 feet wide, with a draft of six feet. The others will be stern-wheelers, ranging from 250 feet long and 48 feet wide to 100 feet. The barges will be constructed to carry 2,000 tons each on eight feet of water. Capt. Ed Nowland, Jr., has organized a barge line that will operate between Memphis and Clarksville, Tenn. The company will be known as the Missouri Valley Construction company and for the present will be a one-boat, one-tug company. The company will use a derrick boat to load and unload freight, and will build terminals at the foot of Beale avenue. The Kate Adams is expected from Rosedale Thursday and will clear during the day on a return trip. The Princess is due in from Caruthersville with a cargo of cotton and cotton seed.
