

"He that sells on credit asks a price for what he sells equivalent to the principal and interest of his money, for the time he is to be kept out of it; therefore he that buys upon credit pays interest for what he buys."—Benjamin Franklin.

Oh, wise Ben Franklin! The many-sided Franklin filled many positions of honor and trust, and adorned them all. As a statesman and diplomat he was without a peer; as a scientist he won international fame; as a patriot and lover of liberty he set an example worthy of emulation.

Unaided and alone he persuaded France to aid with men and arms the struggling army under Washington.

But as the author of the sayings of Poor Richard he is best known, and if these sayings were used as a textbook in the public schools the coming generation would be a nation of SAVERS, not only of money, but of health.

He grasped the fact that if man bought on credit he must pay for the credit and also contribute toward the payment of credit extended others, who did not pay. He knew that you must pay others for doing for you what you can do for yourself.

At Piggly Wiggly you don't pay for credit extended you or for credit extended the other fellow.

You don't pay delivery charges, bookkeepers' and collectors' salaries. You only pay for what you buy, plus a small margin of profit.

Everyone pays cash at PIGGLY WIGGLY and all goods are priced on a cash basis.

Free delivery is a camouflage. It should be PAY DELIVERY. PIGGLY WIGGLY delivers nothing.

PIGGLY WIGGLY wouldn't sell John D. Rockefeller a package of pepper on credit.

It wouldn't take a telephone order from President Wilson.

It wouldn't deliver a carton of cornflakes or a hundred-dollar order to anyone on top of the earth for any kind of pay—or free.

Every housewife by becoming a regular patron of PIGGLY WIGGLY can save $8.00 or more per month.

MOONEY PROTESTS ON ACTION SAVING HIM FROM DEATH

Commutation of Execution Sentence to Life Imprisonment by Governor Ends Legal Steps to Gain Freedom.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The death sentence of Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of murder in connection with the bomb explosion which killed 10 people here July 22, 1916, during a Preparedness day parade, having been commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Stephens last night, no further legal steps can be invoked in Mooney's behalf, attorneys said today. In explaining causes which led him to commute Mooney's sentence, the governor said he had made a careful review of the case and found no reason why Mooney should escape punishment. The governor declared there were certain features in connection with the case which convinced him that the sentence of death should not be executed. The primary reason for the commutation, he said, was President Wilson's "earnest request" for clemency. The governor said he declined to be influenced by the theory that, if maximum punishment is not justified, pardon should follow. Many strikes had been planned for Dec. 9 by labor organizations as a protest against Mooney's execution, which was set for Dec. 13. Whether these proposed strikes now will be carried out, labor leaders here were unable to say today. From his cell Mooney issued a statement protesting against commutation of his sentence. "I would rather hang," he said, "than to be condemned to a living grave in the city of San Francisco. I have been in bad for almost a year and a half with doctors attending me constantly," he says, "but I received no relief whatever."

FIVE BANDITS GET BIG HAUL IN POOLROOM

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Five armed bandits held up and robbed a dozen men in a poolroom in the center of the city of cash and jewelry amounting to about $5,000. The robbers have not been apprehended. Entering the poolroom quietly the bandits drew their revolvers simultaneously and ordered the occupants, several of whom are well known in sporting circles, to "throw up their hands." They were then lined up against a rear wall and while one of the holdup men stood guard at the door, three covered their victims with revolvers and the fifth went through their pockets. From the owner of the poolroom the bandits are said to have taken $1,400 in cash.
