DAILY HOME HELPS

Split Pea Soup.

This is a very nutritious and good soup. One cup dried split peas, two and one-half quarts cold water, one pint milk, one-half onion, two tablespoons vegetable fat, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-third teaspoon pepper, two-inch cubes fat salt pork. Soak peas several hours, drain, add cold water, pork and onion. Simmer three or four hours till soft; rub through a sieve; add fat and flour cooked together, salt and pepper. Dilute with milk, adding more if necessary.

Chocolate Cookies.

One cup butter, one cup sugar, one egg, well beaten, one-quarter teaspoon salt, two ounces chocolate, melted, two and one-half scant cups flour, two level teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter cup milk. Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, egg, salt and chocolate. Beat stiffly together thoroughly, alternately with milk. Chill, roll very thin, then shape with a small cutter first dipped in flour, and bake in a hot oven.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WOOZIE DOLL. A BEDTIME STORY.

(Copyright, 1915, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) BY WARD R. GARIS. (Copyright, 1915, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) BY HOWARD R. GARIS. One day, when Uncle Wiggily came in from having been out taking a hop off his paw, he knocked the snow off his paw, closed the door of his hollow stump bungalow after him. "I'm glad to be home again, Nurse Jane," he said to the mistress lady who kept house for him. "It's cold and blustery outside. And if the sun shines day after tomorrow we'll have a week more of this winter weather."

WHO'S TO BLAME

BY ETHEL LLOYD PATTERSON. There are two kinds of girls in the world—the "larks" and the "owls."

Meanwhile an exceedingly cross young woman in Mapleville was bearing her chagrin as best she could, and—according to her nature. For it scarcely had been comforting to Estrella's pride, the night before, when, after having given Freddie every encouragement she dared, he nonetheless had not lingered with her in the warm and lovely dusk of the summer night. Nor had her father's voice from the front piazza helped her temper.

She had her way, of course. And later, still unwashed, wandered to the living room, where she glanced with a very casual interest at the newspapers and presently ended at the piano, where for an hour or more she drummed mad music.

Indeed, she made no effort at all to dress until a short time before her father might be expected home for dinner. Then she arranged her hair carelessly, pulled down into a rolled white skirt and blouse and, still wearing her bedroom slippers, was ready, after her fashion, to greet him.

"Oh, let me alone, can't you?" said Estrella. "This was the girl to whom Freddie Mason, as he fell asleep, was whispering 'Dear'."

Ginger Snaps. One cup molasses, one-half cup shortening, three and one-quarter cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one tablespoon ginger, one and one-half teaspoons salt. Heat molasses to boiling point and pour over shortening; add dry ingredients mixed and sifted, chill thoroughly. Roll thinly as possible. Bake in moderate oven.

Featuring for Saturday 100 New Spring Hats Of CREPE With PINEAPPLE and JAPANESE BRAID Remarkably Low Priced for Tomorrow's Selling at $6.85

These hats represent the latest fashion edict for early Spring wear and are copies of much higher priced models. The styles are mostly close-fitting turbans, short-back pokes and pretty mushrooms, trimmed with flowers, ornaments and ribbons.

They are so superior to hats sold elsewhere at similar prices that there is no standard by which to judge their worth. Tomorrow at $6.85.

A Line On Men You Read About

Recent exposure of the scheme to compose anew a monarchical government in Russia revealed the Grand Duke Cyril, cousin of the late Emperor, as the central figure. Ever since 1912, when the serious illness of the Grand Duke Alexis excited fear that the czar might leave no male heir, Cyril has been supposed to be an aspirant, and since the deposition of the czar the royalists have put him forward as pretender to the throne.

Cyril is 42, unlike the czar's brother, Michael, he did not marry, but he married his first cousin after she had been divorced and incurred criticism both because of the relationship and the divorce. She was the daughter of the Duke of Edinburgh, the Grand Duchess. The two cousins were childhood lovers. Influenced by Queen Victoria, his mother-in-law, he made a match between the daughter and the grand duke of Hesse, brother of the young czar. It was not happy.

AMUSEMENTS

Loew's Lyceum. Beauty in dances, combined with real artistry and ability, are illustrated in a striking manner by the big dancing spectacle of Perukoff, Ethel Ross and imperial ballet, which is the headline attraction of the Lyceum.

Another feature, which is of especial interest to vaudeville patrons is "Viter Mistake," the latest piece in which Evelyn Nesbit and her son, Russell Thaw, are featured. The five reels contain elaborate scenic effects, beautiful country scenes and an absorbing story of a young country girl who is taken into the whirl of society by New York by her marriage to a rich man. Here she finds life entirely different and encounters many lurid experiences which are cleverly unfolded in this interesting story.

Other numbers on the bill include Arthur Lloyd, a talkative and entertaining trickster; Bertram and Saxon, two Western boys, who never fail to delight their audiences with songs and music; and Walsh and Bentley, in comedy acrobatics. Loew's News Weekly pleases with its views of big events.

Orpheum. For 20 years Hugh K. Conn, of Imhof, Conn and Coroneo, at the Orpheum this week in Roger Imhof's newest comedietta, "The Peat House," played the role of a deaf man. This does not mean to indicate that Conn is a one-role man. But it means that all his roles have required that he play the part of a deaf man. Twenty years ago, when Conn and Imhof formed their partnership, Imhof wrote a vehicle for them wherein Conn's part was that of a deaf man. Conn did so well with it that in all their subsequent comedies Imhof was careful to assign his partner a deaf part. In the 20 years that Conn has been with Imhof, he has played in but five different plays. The Man From Klondike, "The Fruits of Revenge," "The League of Nations," "Surgeon Louder, U. S. A." and their present vehicle, "The Peat House."

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1915.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) This is rather a forbidding day, according to astrology, for Mars and Jupiter are both in threatening aspect.

There is a sign that seems to indicate some sort of a menace of war or military activity.

It is forecast through sanguine hopes of too rapid adjustments, military, industrial and financial.

Jupiter is read as indicating some commercial or business project tied up with war issues from which may evolve gains and losses.

During the next few months the most conservative methods should rule, men and women in all plans for social, profession or business life.

This is not a stimulating time for heavy commercial responsibilities. Under this government there should be a great revival of interest in all constructive activities. The planetary sway should stimulate whatever is of permanent value.

Building should be lucky, for there is a rule of the stars inclining men and women toward thoughts of home ownership or home improvement.

Public works and large enterprises carried on by the government have a ruling that should make for successful undertaking.

Warnings are given against any tendency toward pessimism or destructive criticisms. There is an aspect believed to encourage bitter comment affecting persons in places in the sun.

The planet that is held to promote the machine-tonnage sector of enemies, aiding them to exercise power through evil report, is likely to be strongly positive during this period.

Senators will be numerous in the next few weeks and surprises of grave moment are in all plans for social, profession or business life.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of travel and change. Any letters, through which false reports is foretold. The young will be wooed.

Children born on this day are likely to be romantic and sentimental. These subjects of Aquarius are likely to be poetic and emotional.

Peanut Loaf.

One cup ground peanuts, one cup bread crumbs, two cups boiled rice, one-half cup tomatoes or one-quarter cup tomato catsup, one egg, salt, pepper, two tablespoons minced onion. Combine the ingredients, turn the mixture into a greased pan and bake it in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Serve it with pimento sauce.

"Beautiful Hair Aids Many Screen Artists"

Lila Lee, the new Paramount Star, makes this statement. Of course, you have seen Miss Lee on the screen, and know what beautiful hair she has.

The coming star of all film-dom attributes the health and vigor and wonderful luster of her hair to the use of Neubro's Herpicide

Will Labor's Mighty Forces Form a New Party?

"Third Parties" in this country have generally come to grief, but the scope of the new movement to organize "hand and brain" workers into a political unit and its appearance in a winter of unrest and discontent convince observers that history is likely to repeat herself in this instance. Samuel Gompers, a consistent opponent of the Labor-party idea, pleaded with New York leaders on the eve of his departure for Europe not to join the new movement, but within a week, as The Evening Post, (New York) notes, a New York Central Federated Union, the Brooklyn Central Labor Union, and the Woman's Trade Union League had met in convention and created the most formidable of the local party organizations.

In an enlightening article in this week's LITERARY DIGEST—February 1st—all the particulars of this new political movement are shown. The platform adopted in New York is also presented. A new political labor party directly affects millions of men and women in this country. Don't fail to read about this latest development in our industrial life.
