AMUSEMENTS

Loew's Lyceum. Five acts—three comedies, a musical novelty and an aerial exhibition—make up the new vaudeville bill for the latter half of the week which opens at Loew's Lyceum, Thursday.

Stories, dances and popular song hits are offered by Ed Phillips, comedian, who started in the "Passing Show of 1914." This is his first Southern vaudeville tour.

W. J. Williams, a droll comedian, and Eleanor Cullen, a comely young woman, have a comedy singing and talking act. Louis Hardy & Co.—the "A. G. Co." being a pretty girl—offer "The Making of Men," a delightful one-act playlet.

Harrison and Holloway open with an unusual musical offering, and the Aerial LaVallie close with a series of daring exhibitions on the flying bars.

This story of a society girl who is left homeless upon the sudden death of her parents is told in "Men, Women and Men," the feature in which Ethel Clayton is starred.

VETERANS' SONS PLAN VISIT TO REUNION. Plans for attendance of the reunion of the Sons of Confederate Veterans at Atlanta were laid at the monthly luncheon of the N. B. Forrest camp at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday. Delegates will be selected and arrangements completed for the reunion at the August meeting of the camp.

A campaign to increase the membership will be opened between now and the Atlanta reunion in effort to bring the strength of the local organization up to the standard it formerly had when it led the South in point of numbers.

Lieut. Col. A. S. Frost, U. S. A., professor of military science and tactics at Central high school, was the guest of honor. Thomas B. Hooker, commandant of the camp, introduced Dr. N. P. Raines, Prof. Wharton S. Jones and Capt. Walter C. Chandler, who made stirring addresses.

That dynamic character of Western life, Tom Mix, will be starred today, Friday and Saturday at the Strand in a photoplay based on and titled from Charles Alden Seltzer's stirring novel, "The Coming of the Law." It is a story of the days that are no more in the West, and for that reason is valuable historically to those who will always love the wild and woolly. It is interesting, naturally, from the standpoint of the Westerner. It is especially interesting to the Easterner because Mix, as Kent Hollis, goes into the town of Dry Bottom, New Mexico, an absolute tenderfoot.

While all around him bronzed men pack guns, Kent Hollis, undaunted, walks into the town with only an abundant stock of nerve and his two fists. He uses these in a manner that surprises even the gun-toting Westerners, and he cleans up the town and installs law and order without killing a man.

Majestic. Usually wedding bells pealing for her marriage are the most joyous sound a woman ever hears, but in "Choosing a Wife," the special attraction to be shown at the Majestic theater, starting today, the case is far different.

Flouting the chime, which are being rehearsed for her marriage, Dorothy Blossom realizes that they are mocking her in the most bitter way, for she has just been told that the man she thought desired to wed her in reality had intended the letter of proposal, which she received, for another.

No, the bells still ringing, she bows her head in deepest humiliation, burns beneath the shame that the man to whom she had given her love intended his for another, and feeling an impotent anger against her niece, the young girl whom the man really loves.

This is but one of the many scenes laid close to the heart of woman, and touching problems vital to men which are to be found in "Choosing a Wife."

Sunday Schools Show Gratifying Gain Over 1918. The executive committee of the summer Sunday school attendance campaign has completed the tabulation of the attendance reports for the month of July, which show that the schools reported made a gain of 3,208, or 15 per cent over the attendance for the month of July, 1918, Dr. E. E. George, publicity director for the campaign announced Thursday. The total attendance for the month was 23,204, as compared with 19,995 for July, 1918.

This big increase is attributed by the Rev. W. M. White, D. D., director of the drive, directly to the special efforts being made during the campaign, for the first Sundays of the month showed a slight decrease over the same Sundays of the previous year, and it was only as the interest in the campaign gained headway that the attendance began to jump.

The Rev. William Crowe, D. D., pastor of the Idlewild Presbyterian church, on his return from vacation, is very enthusiastic over the results of the drive in his Sunday school. Dr. Crowe has been spending several weeks at his cottage at Abingdon, Va., where his family is spending the summer. He has written letters to all the Sunday school department superintendents and teachers in the Idlewild school urging that each student in the school be enlisted for special efforts to increase the attendance during the month of August.

Princess. "Extravagance," featuring Dorothy Dalton, is again the attraction at the Princess for Thursday afternoon and night. Miss Dalton is seen in one of the best of her society dramas in which she portrays the role of the wife of a Wall Street broker. Her extravagance leads to the ruin of her husband and it is then that the wife makes a sacrifice few women are ever called upon to make. The story abounds in thrilling situations and Miss Dalton wears some gowns which will make milady gasp with envy. The added feature will be a new Mack Sennett comedy, "No Mother to Guide Him."
