SUB-DEBS GO BACK TO SIMPLE LIFE AT SCHOOL

The sub-debs are going "back to the simple life," which means simple hours, three meals a day, and dances only once a week until Christmas.

Weighted in the balance by the debutantes, who are very important persons just now, but who were sub-debs this time last year, and who are already preparing to fill their date books with appointments for the countless luncheons, teas and dances of the fall and winter, the burdens which the 1919 sub-debs are about to take upon themselves means merely a rather tedious routine of studies, discipline, and a small amount of fun thrown in.

But, honest now—did any debutante ever enjoy her first year out quite as much as she did her first year as a school? Were the friends who were chatted with across the card tables and at teas as jolly and as devoted to her as at least as jolly and as devoted to themselves means merely a rather tedious routine of studies, discipline, and a small amount of fun thrown in.

Among the first to leave will be Miss Virginia Eozeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Eozeman, and Miss Milly Caruthers, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Caruthers. Both of whom are going to Sullins school, in Virginia. They will leave about the middle of September.

An attractive group who will leave about Oct. 1, for Oakmeor, on Long Island Sound, are Miss Carroll Knight, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Knight's young daughter, Miss Nellie Gray, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Knight, and Miss Louise Fly, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Fly.

Miss Frances Miller, the young daughter of Mrs. James K. Miller, will go also to Oakmeor, and will leave about the first of October.

Among the popular girls who will go to the Ogontz school, in Pennsylvania, this winter, and who expect to leave about Oct. 1, are Miss Edith Johnston, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Johnston, and Miss Theodore Neely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Neely. Miss Irene Morrow, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Morrow, is expected to join this group at the Ogontz school this winter.

Miss Sara Conly, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Landon Conly, and Miss Frazier, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ceylon B. Frazier, and Miss Elizabeth Archer, who will attend the Ogontz school, in Maryland, will leave about the first of October.

Among those who will go to the National Cathedral, Washington, will be Miss Frances Stratton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stratton, and Miss Gertrude Jean Hooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hooper, and Miss Elizabeth Archer, who will attend the Ogontz school, in Maryland, will leave about the first of October.

Shy on Clothes But Blazing With Jewels Is Fashion's Decree for Fall and Winter

Women of society will be weird and outrageous figures, shy on clothes but blazing with jewels, is the Paris style for the fall and winter.

Paris fashions, according to Miss Archer, has decreed that women must wear the following oddities: Neck dresses. Anklets studded with precious stones. Rings with wavy white fronts.

Bobbed hair pushed straight back from the forehead and hanging in curls about the neck. Or bobbed hair parted low on one side and almost all it brushed up on the head and allowed to drop over one ear.

The bare arms will be covered with windings of a rope of jewels or with many bracelets both below and above the elbow. The jewels on one arm will be of one color and those of the other arm will be of another color.

The contrasting color scheme will apply to finger rings. The half-way goal one hand must be different in color from those on the other.

Rings will adorn every finger of both hands and will be so massed that the outer ones will form a diagonal line across the hand.

Necklaces will be of double and triple strings of gems most of them of extreme length and will be hung with jeweled pendants at the back and front.

"Down this winter," said Miss Archer, "will be very much shorter. Knee-length skirts will be fashionable. They are wearing them in Paris now. I think they are hideous—but then I'm not a man."

"The anklets will be of platinum and gold flashing with all sorts of jewels. They will fit snugly and will be worn under the silk stockings from beneath whose film the gems will gleam dully. In Paris, the very best girls are wearing them and I expect them to be equally as popular here."

Worn with the near-sleeveless evening gown, the necklace will serve as shoulder straps. The most fashionable are matched pearls—pearls and diamonds—or diamonds or pearls and diamonds. The front pendant rests upon the bosom. The back pendant hangs to below the middle of the torso.

The point of the V in the back of a gown reaches to the waist. These two independent necklaces are made in the less expensive jewels as well as the most precious sort and young girls over here

YOUNGEST MAID OF HONOR DECLINES THE HIGH HONOR

—Photo by Molloy. "Hats off to the Littlest Rebel! Miss Anne Bryan, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raphael S. Bryan, at the age of 13, truly deserves the title, and by right of heritage, is certainly worthy of an honor, which a great many young ladies of twice her age would heartily envy her."

Fashions By The Sea

Even in the exclusive circles of Bellevue avenue and the Cliff walk, an early Labor day is a factor in determining the length of the season.

The past week, according to general opinion, more nearly approached the Newport of before-the-war, than any similar period since the historic summer of 1914, with every prospect that another year will see a social revival, in which the new Board of governors for the casino will have four women members.
