UNION PROPOSAL TO LIFT BARS IS REFUSED CURTLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The government cannot accept the proposal of organized labor to end the coal strike by vacating the injunction against the officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

Justice Ames issued the following statement: "The strike is a violation of law. As long as it continues we are going to proceed in the courts. The dispute between the mine owners and workers is an entirely different question that they can settle in their own way."

Refusal of the government to vacate the injunction means a long fight in the coal fields, while its withdrawal would have opened the way for settlement of the strike within 48 hours.

The miners' committee, with power to accept the new agreement, could call off the strike without referring to a delegate convention, Wallace said.

"President Lewis' statement that the miners would be willing to negotiate without reservations," he added, "simply means that we could start with a new slate, without regard to previous demands, which the operators refused to grant."

These demands were a five-day week, a six-hour day and a wage increase of 40 per cent.

Labor leaders here who had taken a hopeful view of the strike situation after hearing of Samuel Gompers' suggestion for a settlement, were disturbed by news that the department of justice would file the injunction.

In view of the intention of the attorney-general not to ask for location of the injunction, it is believed that there was no likelihood of any important move before the injunction case came up for hearing at Indianapolis Saturday.

DEMOCRATS ROSE RUCKY, BUT GAIN NEW JERSEY

Decisive "Dry" Victory in Ohio and Coolidge's Massachusetts Victory Feature of Elections in Several States.

More complete returns on the off-year elections Tuesday in several states did not change the general picture. The smashing victory of Calvin Coolidge in Massachusetts, re-elected governor by the largest margin in the state's history.

As a possible indication of popular sentiment preparatory to the national elections next year, yesterday's results were being closely scrutinized. Kentucky was swept into the Republican column by the largest margin in the state's history.

In New Jersey, Edward J. Edwards, Democrat, running on a "wet" platform, had an apparently safe lead of almost 100,000 votes.

The defeat of Gov. James D. Black, Democrat, in Ohio, was a surprise. The victory of Edwin P. Morrow, his Republican opponent, is credited with a plurality of 30,000.

The wet and dry issue also entered into the Kentucky contest, a state-wide prohibition amendment having been defeated decisively.

In New York state, the election turned on judges of the supreme court. The Democratic ticket, headed by Governor F. M. La Guardia, Republican, was defeated.

NEGRO FINDS BODY; PERRY AND BATES DEVELOPING CLEW

A major clew, which at any moment may develop some tangible evidence as to the identity of the persons who shot E. or "Joe" Biondi, Union avenue restaurant keeper, to death in a woodland off Poplar pike, six miles from Memphis, was secured by Sheriff Perry and S. O. Bates, state's attorney, Wednesday afternoon.

Biondi had been shot in the left forehead, the heavy discharge having torn that part of his head and face away entirely. Gun wadding found on the ground near the body, together with small shot holes in the collar of his raincoat, and the hem of his hat, established the fact beyond a doubt that a shotgun was used to slay the Italian.

The body was discovered by Arthur Riley, a middle-aged negro, employed by George C. Bennett, owner of Ridgeway Dairy farm, 1000 yards off of Brooks avenue and a half mile south of Poplar pike, at dawn Wednesday morning, cleared up the mystery which had endured for 24 hours, following the discovery early Tuesday morning of the deserted automobile which Biondi had rented the night before to drive out to keep a "business engagement."
