FAMILIES OF POLISH OFFICERS TAKEN HOME

WARSAW, Nov. 7.—Capt. Leo J. McGuire, of the American Red Cross, returned to Warsaw from Odessa yesterday with 56 repatriated Polish families, having fulfilled his mission to repatriate wives and children of Polish officers, left behind on the evacuation of the city by Gen. Zeligowski and his Polish troops in April last.

holding for ransom wives of Polish officers. The Bolsheviks offered to give up the women for a ransom of one sack of American flour per woman, but stipulated that they would treat only with an officer of the American Red Cross. On the request of the Polish government, the Red Cross commissioner to Poland detailed Capt. McGuire to make the trip.

Accompanied only by an interpreter, Capt. McGuire attached his two box cars of ransom to a military train, leaving Warsaw for Lemberg. From Lemberg, by dint of bluff, bribery and the prestige of the American uniform, he traveled south through the Ukraine and Rumania to Galatz, and thence to Odessa. Gen. Denikin, the anti-Bolshevik commander of the Cossack army, had captured the city before Capt. McGuire arrived. The captain found the Polish women living in conditions much resembling those of a town in Northern France after an attack preceded by heavy artillery preparation. The Bolsheviks had destroyed whole blocks of houses, first rifling them with amazing thoroughness. Terrorist commissions had executed 5,000 persons during the two months of occupation. Eventually the American was able to get his charges out of the city and back through Rumania and the Ukraine.

PRESIDENT WISHES RED CROSS AIDED

There is Work Still Ahead of Great Society, Declares Chief Executive.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—President Wilson has addressed the following letter to the people of the country appealing for support of the third Red Cross roll call, which is to be held from Nov. 2 to 11:

"As president of the United States and as president of the American Red Cross, I recommend and urge a generous response to the third Red Cross roll-call which opens on Nov. 2 with the observance of Red Cross Sunday and appropriately closes on Nov. 11, the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

"Twenty million adults joined the Red Cross during the war, prompted by a patriotic desire to render service to their country and to the cause for which the United States was engaged in war. Our patriotism should stand the test of peace as well as the test of war, and it is an intelligently patriotic program which the Red Cross proposes, a continuance of service to our soldiers and sailors who look to it for many things, and a transference to the problems of peace of some of the experience and methods which it acquired during the war.

"It is on membership more than money contributions that the success of the present campaign is laid, for the Red Cross seeks to associate the people in welfare work throughout the land, especially in those communities where neither official nor unofficial provision has been made for adequate public health and social service.

"It is in the spirit of democracy that the people should undertake their own welfare activities, and the national Red Cross wisely intends to exert upon community action a stimulating and co-ordinating influence and to place the energies of the organization behind all sound public health and welfare agencies.

"The American Red Cross does not purpose indefinite prolongation of its relief work abroad, a money which would be an unending drain upon the people and tend to undermine the self-reliance of the peoples relieved, but there is a necessary work of construction to be performed before the American Red Cross can honorably withdraw from Europe. The congress of the United States has imposed upon the Red Cross a continuing responsibility abroad by authorizing the secretary of war to transfer to the American Red Cross such surplus army medical supplies and supplementary and dietary foodstuffs now in Europe as shall not be required by the army, to be used by the Red Cross to relieve the distress which continues in certain countries of Europe as a result of the war.

"To finance these operations, to conclude work which was begun during the war, and to carry out some comparatively inexpensive constructive plans for assisting peoples in Eastern Europe to develop their own welfare organizations, the American Red Cross requires, in addition to membership fees, a sum of money small in comparison with gifts poured into its treasury by our generous people during the war. The greater enduring domestic program and the lesser temporary foreign program of the Red Cross deserve enthusiastic support, and I venture to hope that its peace-time membership will exceed rather than fall below its impressive war membership."

PARROT SAVES WOMAN.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The Widow Giraud's parrot saved her from robbery and perhaps death one morning. A busy young man, who entered the shop to rob it, asked Mrs. Giraud for the parrot and was choking her to death when cries of "help, help" were heard from the kitchen in the rear of the store. Terrified, the robber released his hold on the widow's throat and fled. The alarm had been given by the parrot.

ADMINISTRATOR WILL GOVERN BY MANDATE

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Sir Horace Buxton, administrator of what was formerly German East Africa, soon will leave England for Dar-es-Salaam, which will be the new headquarters of the government under the mandate of the league of nations. Various government officials have been appointed for administering the new territory but it will be some time before the staff will be complete and the "new broom" start sweeping. Meanwhile it is reported all is going smoothly. The old German native

TOWN IN ARCTIC NIGHT ORGANIZES LEGION

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 7.—Anchorage post, "the farthest north" branch of the American Legion, was organized here recently. The railways which were much damaged by the Germans have been repaired right up to Lake Tananayika. The most urgent need of the colony is the resumption of shipping, eastwise and with Europe, for on this the prosperity of the country chiefly depends.
