MISSISSIPPIANS ASK CHANGES AT STATION

Citizens of Sardin, Como, Herndon and Senatobia, Miss., have filed petitions with the Chamber of Commerce protesting against the condition of the passageway from the waiting room of the Grand Central station to the Illinois Central tracks, alleging that the only avenue is through a low, stuffy tunnel under the tracks and up a long flight of steps to the train shed. It is termed a semidungeon, and it is claimed that it is poorly lighted and heated, and in bad weather, is damp and musty.

The Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee composed of S. B. Anderson, chairman; C. C. Hanson, E. R. King, Gus F. Schlicht, Milton H. Hunt, Dabney H. Crump and J. W. Redding, to confer with officials of the Illinois Central railroad about the matter.

Milk—you can trust for purity!

EVERY housewife would enjoy seeing one of the model condenseries where Libby's Evaporated Milk is packed. She would admire the great copper kettles, the sparkling glass receptacles, the polished metal tubes—all so spotless and clean.

But even more she would be impressed by the care—the painstaking, never-ending care—taken to insure the purity of this famous milk!

The Libby condenseries are located in the heart of farming districts that have become world-famous for their milk and cream. From start to finish Libby's Milk is guarded. It is brought to the condensery in clean, tightly closed cans. And when the cans have been emptied, they are not returned to the farmer until they have been thoroughly scalded, insuring spotlessly clean cans for the following day.

This is only one example of the many safeguards used to insure the purity of Libby's Milk. As a last precaution—after the milk has been put in the cans and sealed, it is sterilized by being heated to a high temperature. Unopened it keeps sweet indefinitely.

Nothing is a matter of more direct concern to the health of any community than the purity of its milk supply. Ask your grocer today for Libby's Evaporated Milk—the milk that can always be trusted!
