THE ABBOTT OPERA.

Close of the Company's Engagement in Omaha.

A series of unfortunate and unforeseen circumstances have combined to rob Miss Abbott's engagement in our city of the brilliancy and success which might otherwise have been expected. The troupe, taken as a whole, was a good one, the orchestra was excellent and the costumes fully up to the standard of the best. Miss Abbott's voice, perhaps, has never shewn to better advantage than during the present season. It has improved in quality and increased in compass. In the merely mechanical portions of her work Miss Abbott takes high rank. Within the bounds of her powers as a singer she has complete control of her art. Her articulation is excellent, her modulation admirable. She sings with expression and feeling, frequently attaining in intense dramatic power. She is not, however, at her best in the high register where her notes are often thin and lacking in richness. But on the whole she more than satisfied the expectations of our people, and may be credited with a success, which if not as loudly applauded as at Denver was not less appreciated. Tuesday's performance, notwithstanding the gloom cast over our city by the news of the president's death, were well attended. At the afternoon matinee "Olette" was presented and gave excellent satisfaction. The stage setting was very good and both soloists and chorus sang their parts with a finish and spirit worthy of high praise. The title role was taken by Miss Rosenwald, who gave a dashing impersonation of the part, which was well received in spite of strong defects of voice. The various concerted numbers, many of which are familiar to our people, were well rendered. If there was a lack of enthusiasm, noted in the audience, it must be attributed to circumstances which have caused the closing of every other theatre in the country, and which should have closed the Academy of Music. In the evening "Cecilia" was presented, a libretto adapted to Verdi's touching opera of "Traviata" was rendered with Miss Abbott as Cecilia. The plot of the play is a compound of the plot of the Bankers Daughter with the death scene from Camille very inconspicuously attached. It is openly announced that Miss Abbott had scruples against acting the part of the abandoned one in the original libretto and made her words wedded to music written for a far more artistic and powerful drama. Prudery could, perhaps, do nothing less, but vandalism certainly could do no more. The opera suffered greatly in consequence, and even the gifted singer and accomplished actress, supported by a strong company, was powerless to redeem what must be pronounced an artistic failure. Miss Abbott has made a bold attempt in her mutilation of an opera which will live long after her fame as a singer has ceased to be remembered. By the act she lays herself open to criticism which she cannot escape. Other and greater singers than Miss Abbott had taken the part of "Olette" without offense to the most refined audiences, or injury to their own natural nature. Other artists as pure, and as respected as Miss Abbott is, are universally admitted to be, have represented the suffering Camille in the drama of "which 'La Traviata' is the musical expression. Art is art, and it is a false modesty which insists that there is no difference between them. From Miss Abbott's point of view the exquisite form of "Powers' "Greek Slave" ought to be concealed in a princess robe of latest fashion, Shakespeare and Ben Jonson should be banished from our libraries and the beautiful conceptions of the Grecian sculptor carried off to the rubbish heap or disguised in garments which would afford no opportunity for the exercise of prurient imagination and ambition. She is not so young, however, to appreciate the axiom, "To the pure, all things are pure," nor will her ambition find its highest exercise in divorcing a drama and music which art has wedded and which no man or woman can successfully put asunder.

Pushing the Millard.

Mr. Samuel Shears, one of the gentlemen interested in the new Hotel Millard, on the corner of Thirteenth and Douglas streets, went east yesterday on business connected with that rising structure. In Chicago he will procure the window lights which are to be of plate glass, half glazed with iron casings. They will be shipped from Chicago entire, ready to be put in. He will also procure at Detroit the carvings and stair-cases, which will be of solid walnut and oak. A double force of men are to be put on the hotel next week and work rushed while the favorable weather lasts. Should the winter not be too severe, it is probable that the hotel will be finished and in running order by the first of May, 1882. Mr. Shears states that the drawing of the hotel in Max Meyer's window does not do the hotel justice, and it was rejected by the company, who will soon have a number of fine lithographs made.

DON'T COME OUT AHEAD

The Fair Managers Out of Pocket—A Correction.

"Who is circulating the report that the board will come out ahead on the fair?" asked Treasurer Hartman of the representative of THE BEE last evening, as the latter dropped in to congratulate him upon the financial skill that had brought profit out of seeming inevitable loss. When told that the report was a generally credited one, and had also appeared in an evening publication, Mr. Hartman said: "It is a mistake. The board had started out with $6,200 as a sinking fund, which had succeeded in sinking a good slice of that, owing to the adverse elements during the past week. When the revenues are all in we may be able to make a little better showing, but at present it looks as if we are considerably behind."

NEW CHURCH.

The Congregationalists Will Establish One.

The members of the Congregational church held a meeting last night to consider the advisability of establishing another church, to be located in the southwestern part of the city. They decided to undertake the enterprise, and passed the following resolutions: That this church now agree to advance this work. That the present committee on lots be continued, and such new committees appointed as may seem necessary to direct this enterprise. These resolutions were adopted. The committee selected as follows: On lots—W. J. Connell, G. A. Hoagland, D. Cook and Mrs. Rushton. On buildings—Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Rushton, Messrs. Hoagland and Gibson. To solicit subscriptions—Messrs. Hendley, Locke, Hoagland and Connell. A subscription was then opened and the following gentlemen subscribed: Connell, $150; Burnham, $150; Locke, $150; Hamblod, $100; Marshall, $100; Forsyth, $100; Cannon, $50; Welschens, $25; Fleming, $50; Zeheska, $50; Sherrill, $50; Snow, $15; Huribut, $15; Clapp, $15. The names of several gentlemen who had promised to give were mentioned and will increase this amount to over $2,000. The committee on subscription meet to-morrow at 9 o'clock in Mr. Cornell's office, and will canvass the city for subscriptions. The design is to establish a church to be under the control of the home church. If at the end of a year or six months it has increased sufficiently to warrant it, the members of the home church living in that vicinity will join it.

A FIENDISH DEED.

Butchers His Mother-in-Law and Chokes His Wife.

Outcome of a Money Quarrel. Correspondence of The Bee. SCHUYLER, Neb., Sept. 21.—Yesterday morning a young man named Joseph Heralitzky entered town seeming terribly excited. His clothes were muddy, torn and covered with blood, while his face and neck were badly scratched. At the outskirts he dismounted from his horse, which had evidently been rapidly ridden, and allowed it to wander at will. He walked in the direction of the business center and inquired the way to the jail. On his arrival there he told the following story: "My name is Joseph Heralitzky. I live ten miles north of Schuyler. This morning I killed my wife and her mother. My wife I buried in a wheat bin, and my mother-in-law I covered with cornstalks in a field near the barn. The man's wild and disordered appearance proved that something serious had happened and he was locked up in jail while the marshal and coroner went to investigate. They drove rapidly to his place and proceeded to the barn, and from the wheat bin they pulled the corpse of a young woman. Her throat bore the imprints of her father's fingers, while her face looked as though she had been struck with his fist several times. Her hands, bloody and bruised, proved that she had resisted with all her might her horrible death. Leaving the corpse lying on the floor they turned with a shudder and proceeded to the cornfield near by. A piece of dress protruded from among a pile of cornstalks. The marshal proceeded to remove those on top, at the depth of one foot he exposed the face of an old woman. It was ghastly. Chopped with an ax and bearing the imprints of many blows from some blunt weapon, nearly severed from the body, it would have made the strongest sick at heart. An ax and a broken gun lay under her, covered with hair and blood, and dumbly bore witness of the use to which they had been put. The orner empannelled a jury and proceeded to take testimony. At this writing the following facts have been ascertained: Heralitzky has been married two months and has lived with his mother-in-law since then. For a time they lived harmoniously, but a short time since he received a large sum of money. This was claimed in payment of his horse bill. He refused to give it, and since then they have been quarreling about it. Heralitzky is quick tempered, and, as his mother-in-law aggravated him beyond endurance, and his wife sided with her, he killed them both.

A ROMANCE

Which an Aspiring Author Wants Published.

A gifted young gentleman of this city sends to THE BEE for publication a society romance, which, but for the shortness of life and several other considerations, might be handed down to posterity through these columns. The object the young author had in mind in inflicting his effusive communication upon the public is an impendable mystery. The plot of the romance is that a fellow named Pepper Jones is kicking himself because he neglected to marry a pretty wailer at a leading hotel. Pepper was willing, but having consulted a friend he was advised to restrain himself which he did. It is afterward discovered, that Mr. Jones' intense disgust, that the young lady is an heiress in disguise, the May morning of whose life has been rendered sad by filial fickleness. The author concludes by marrying the pretty wailer to "a tall, handsome man, who listens to her story with tears on his manly cheek." Under the circumstances it is difficult to see why the author blames Mr. Jones for feeling tough, for to a fair minded person he has good cause. It is hoped Mr. Jones will not kick himself to death.

PERSONAL.

J. Griffin has gone to Chicago. Miss Annie Downs leaves for St. Louis last evening. W. N. Nason, and family went to Texas over the Wabash last evening. Capt. Rees, the contractor in Missouri for the U. P., is in the city. Chas. G. Freeman, late ticket auditor of the B. & M. goes to New York yesterday afternoon. Edwin Wright, advance agent of McIntyre & Heath's mammoth southern minstrels, is in the city. F. M. Sackett, of Albion, is at the Grand hotel. W. A. Cogshall, of St. Joe, is at the Grand hotel. McIntyre and Heath's minstrels—Oman's organization—are at the Grand. Mr. C. O. Freeman left Omaha yesterday for New York, where he formerly resided. Judge Kiney returned last evening to Nebraska city, his labors in connection with the state fair having ended. Miss Lizzie Isaacs is on her way to New York and Jersey City. She will spend the winter visiting friends in the latter city and the metropolis. N. E. Ryan and wife, of Beatrice; E. P. Penrod, of Beatrice; John Heath, of Lincoln, and J. Allison, of Nebraska City, are at the Metropolitan. Mrs. Gutek, of Rawlins, Wyoming, Tex., is in the city. She is accompanied by her two daughters whom she will place in the convent of the Sacred Heart. The following, among other arrivals, are registered at the Creighton house: A. P. Howes, of Blair; W. H. Van Hise, of Minden; Wade Bunker and wife, of Lincoln. Miss Dell McCormick left yesterday afternoon for Chicago, where she will attend school. She was accompanied by her mother who visits friends in Chicago for a few days. E. Tee, an enterprising cattle dealer of Wyoming, is in Omaha, staying at the Withnell. Mr. Tee is a son of Lord Tee, of England, but seems to tackle very kindly to the western American life. W. W. Durand, advance agent for Barnum's big show which exhibits here on Oct. 7th, is in the city, making preliminary arrangements. Mr. Durand is personally one of the best known men in his business, and is one of the most entertaining talkers in the business.

Scopped Them Again.

The Omaha Pacific nine played at Ashland yesterday afternoon with the Ashland club. The game was very interesting and exciting throughout, and terminated in a victory for the Omaha Pacific club by a score of 8 to 3.

New Hose Company.

A meeting was held last evening in the Haasall school house for the purpose of taking some steps to organize a new hose company for the southern portion of the city. The meeting was presided over by Henry Ehrenfort, while L. Willis acted as secretary. Messrs. John Reith, Van Dusen, Williams, Mills and Ehrhart, were selected as a committee to draw the necessary constitution and by-laws to govern a permanent organization. Another meeting will be held at the same place Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial will always prove our assertion. The are pleasant to the taste and only cost 50 cents a bottle! Sold by Ish & McManis.

McArdle Alliance.

McARDLE PRECINCT, Sept. 18.—Alliance No. 102 met at Mr. McArdle's school house on this date. The meeting was called to order by Patrick McArdle and Hans Rasmus was chosen chairman pro tem. It was moved and carried that all members of the alliance be requested to attend all primaries for purposes of seeing good men selected. It was decided that the alliance meet Wednesday, Oct. 12. GEORGE H. MERMAN.

A. F. & A. M.

There will be a special communication of St. John's lodge No. 25, this (Thursday) evening for work in the E. A. degree. Visiting brethren are cordially invited. JAMES B. BRUNER, Master.

Use Solomon's Water White Deodorized Head Light Oil. No odor, no smoke, and a beautiful flame. Try it.

"BLACK-DRAUGHT" for Ladies only.

A. C. F. Goodman.

Slightly Hurt.

A horse driven by N. Shelton, of the water company, became frightened at an engine near the railroad last evening. The buggy was partially overturned and Mr. Shelton was pitched to the ground, when the vehicle passed over his legs. One of his legs is quite severely bruised and he was to-day walking around with a limp in his gait.

Meagerly Decorated.

It is a subject of general remark that one of the most meagerly decorated buildings in the city is the post office building. As this is a government building it was thought that some special effort would be made in that direction. As it is, merely a narrow strip of black cloth is stretched underneath the windows of the second and third stories.

Neigh News.

NEIGH, Neb., September 20.—The Hon. Judge Burns, the Hon. Wm. Robertson, of Madison and General John Cowin, of Omaha, addressed a large concourse of citizens of Neigh who had assembled on the news of the terrible national sorrow. I. F. Merritt presented the following resolutions: Resolved, That the citizens of Neigh, in common with the citizens of the United States, desire to express their most profound sorrow for the dreadful calamity which has befallen our country in the sad death of our dearly beloved president. Resolved, That we tender to Mrs. Garfield and family our sincere sympathy in this their dark hour of affliction. Resolved, That we believe it to be our imperative duty to give to General Chester A. Arthur the same loyal feeling and support as was extended to our much lamented president, James A. Garfield. J. F. M.

GLODY ENOUGH.

THE WHITE SEWING MACHINE AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

No diplomas or premiums awarded, but the universal verdict of the people is that the WHITE is the best machine on exhibition. It does the work done and the samples shown were wonderful, and to hear the exclamations of hundreds of ladies, "I have a White and would not exchange it for any machine made," was very gratifying to its exhibitors. The White has the largest sale, gives the best satisfaction, and is the easiest selling machine made. We cordially invite everybody to examine the White before buying, as we guarantee perfect satisfaction in all cases. Soliciting a large share of your patronage and thanking you for past favors, I am Respectfully yours, JOHN ZEHRUNG, Wholesale and retail dealers in White machines, Omaha, Neb.

Not at All Greedy.

Some person, probably a boy, forced a basement window in Kennard Bro's drug store Tuesday night and gaining an entrance made his way up stairs. There he forced open the money drawer and extracted about $1.50 in small change. There was in the drawer at the time besides this money about $5 worth of stamps, but these were left untouched. Not a single other article in the store was stolen.

Garfield Memorial Committee.

The committee on the memorial services to be held in the Academy of Music Monday next did not meet last evening as expected. A meeting is called for to-night at Gen. Manderson's office. Preparations are being made for appropriately elaborate ceremonies of the most solemn character. The Omaha glee club are preparing some especially beautiful music. The Academy will be draped and festooned, both the stage and auditorium being decorated.
