Incredible. F. A. Serlach, druggist, Ruthven, Ont., writes: "I have the greatest confidence in your BUCKLE BLOOD BITTERS. In one case with which I am personally acquainted their success was almost incredible. One lady told me that half a bottle did her more good than hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine she had previously taken." Price $1.00.

Before driving, the top of the stake should be rounded with a sharp axe or drawing knife so as not to loosen the bark or split the post. It should be driven down two feet, which will leave four and a half feet above the ground.

The second season the buds may be allowed to grow, and barbed wire may be stapled on with long staples, of which there are two sizes—long and short, for soft and hard posts.

Such a fence, when once well rooted, is an ornament to the farm, is far more durable than a rigid post, will never get out of line, will not have out by frost, will stand more strain from unruly animals on account of its elasticity, and afford a grateful shade to stock during the summer, and sift out all the heaviest particles of a north-wester during the autumn, and if properly trimmed, making a lasting and handsome fence.

Taking His Word for It.

A Randolph street saloon keeper who had long been bothered by a dead-beat, tapped him on the shoulder the other day and said:

"My friend, I don't want you here any more."

"Do I say you? I can hardly believe it, but of course I shall take your word for it. I suppose you'll set out the drinks on this sad occasion?"

"Oh, yes. Walk right up." The saloonist had taken some forty-rod and added a liberal supply of cayenne pepper, dashed in some vinegar and poured in enough molasses to make the drink slip down. The beat poured out a stiff dram and tossed it off without stopping to breathe, and as he sat down the glass and let the tears course down his bronzed cheeks he asked:

"Do I weep?"

"I would rather think you did!" "Well, sir, I want you to distinctly understand that I'm not weeping on account of any trifles that has occurred here—not by a jug full! My emotion is occasioned by hearing of the death of an aunt. Good-day, sir."

"ROUGH ON RATS."

Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bedbugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers, etc. Druggists.
