

FACTS FOR FUTURITY.

The Destiny of Man Discussed by Rev. Harsh.

The New Congregational Minister Makes His Debut.

During the winter Rev. W. J. Harsh, of the Dodge street Presbyterian church, has been delivering a series of Sabbath evening lectures, which have proven most interesting.

"YOUR DESTINY." Lec. 15: "Your fathers, where are they?"

In this new country we are not impressed by so many outward signs of the passing away of time, as the inhabitants of some of the European nations are.

However, at times we are forced to think of the passing of time and the approach of death. The recent death of some of the most prominent men in the church and some of the wisest known of the politicians of the land, might well afford to us occasion to consider that we must go the way of all the earth.

And I am glad that I can offer you some more substantial process than science or philosophy can afford.

I. THE INEVITABILITY OF DESTINY. The etymology of the word destiny is stated by Webster to give this meaning to it: "A prearranged or ordained event or collection of events that must come to pass."

It is not a pleasant, but is a very necessary thought, for us to entertain that a dark cloud is on its way to envelop every one of us.

II.—THE TWOFOLD CHARACTER OF DESTINY. The good and the bad are strangely mixed in all men; yet we may roughly say that some men are good and some bad.

These two classes, we are told in the bible, extend into the future world. It is impossible for us in this life to deny that some are miserable, how shall we prove that they lose their misery at the moment of death?

THE PREPARATION OF DESTINY. It is possible for us to alter what seems to be our destiny. If we are living in sin our destiny seems to be an existence of execution in God's future life.

Plato said: "You will never have perfect men until we have perfect men until we have perfect characters."

It is this present life the circumstances are hard, trying and vexatious we must give battle to the forces of circumstances as well as the forces of sin; but we have a captain who will grant us strength and insure our victory.

The newly chosen pastor, Rev. Willard Scott, who just returned from New York yesterday, preached his inaugural sermon as an introductory step in the prosecution of the duties which are before him, and there was a large attendance, considering the size of the edifice and that it is but the commencement of organized church work in that part of our city.

The subject of the discourse is found in First Timothy, 4:12-14: "Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity (in spirit), in faith, in purity. But I give thee attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine. Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery."

In these words of Paul to Timothy we see there was a fitness which was characteristic of Paul's writings. While there is in it that which would cause a doctor to cure the timid, there is also that which would call for zealous labor and carefulness.

But while surrounded by the many cares contingent to the pastor's position, we see to the preacher who has a poor constitution! And while the various departments of grace are to receive their proper attention subjectively, we see to the pastor

STAR ROUTE TRIAL.

Damaging Evidence Introduced on Behalf of the Government.

Special Dispatch to The Bee.

WASHINGTON, February 18.—Rendell continued his testimony in the star route trial to-day. Witness testified that a lot of blank affidavits, letters, etc., were abstracted from his desk, and S. W. Dorsey was the only man except himself who had a key to his office.

Merrick, one of the prosecutors for the government in the case, said to a correspondent: "When Rendell pleaded guilty to-day the bottom dropped out of the case, so far as the other defendants are considered. I had an intimation yesterday that Rendell wanted to be used as a government witness, and I declined to accept him. I told his counsel that I would have nothing to do with him unless he got up in court and pleaded guilty. He thought this over last night and to-day did so. The developments that will be made before he leaves the witness stand will convince everybody, and will most undoubtedly result in the conviction of Brady and Dorsey. He knows it all and will tell it. We know enough to tell the moment he swears to do so, should he try to do so, though we do not think he will. His evidence will corroborate Walsh in every particular, and these two, with the record and other evidence yet to be presented will form a chain complete in every link and convincing of the guilt of all of the defendants."

Dorsey told the witness to look through the check books to find the amounts to be charged to Smith. The witness did so, and whenever he found a check drawn to the account of "mail," he charged the amount to "Wm. Smith." The witness said as he was summoned before the congressional investigation committee he notified Brady and S. W. Dorsey before he appeared before the committee, and he showed out of the letter books a number of letters that the witness did so, and the copies of the letters that the witness wrote in connection with the mail business, and they included letters to Dorsey, Boiesler and the sub-contractors. There were three of these books, and the witness saw one of them in possession of Wm. Carpenter, last week in the court room. Merrick gave notice to the defense to produce these three letter books. The witness met Brady at the postoffice at the time of the congressional investigation, and told Brady that the committee wanted the books and papers. Brady asked what books, and when the witness told him, Brady said, "Dorsey is a damn fool for keeping the books." Brady then asked the witness if the books could not be copied. The witness told him it would take a day or two. Brady said it would be a good idea and witness put a man at work copying the books, designating such entries as he wanted left out by crossing them out with a pencil. The new set of books thus were prepared and the amounts drawn against "Smith and Jones" were charged to "profit and loss." The man was ordered to make a new set of books as near like the old set as possible. The witness sent a physician's certificate to Blackburn, stating he was unable to appear. He did that in order to secure time for copying the books. After thirteen days when he appeared before the committee a new set was ready. Both books were taken to New York and Dorsey and Boiesler were having a settlement in New York. Several letters in the handwriting of S. W. Dorsey were received introducing the witness to prominent men. The case then adjourned to Monday. Merrick promised to make the charges drawn by Rendell's testimony very interesting. The rumor is current to-day that Miner had resolved to take the stand in behalf of the government, but nothing definite could be learned. Merrick said it was extremely doubtful if any such arrangement.

THE EMBRY DREIF. It anticipates at times a heavy sea, but these casualties are not a part of navigation. When the dark clouds are seen on the horizon of one's life, they are not a part of a Christian life, but are accidents, and they tell the character of the person in question.

In a studio in New York City, as I was looking at the sculptor engaged at his work, I said, "Suppose the chisel was to slip, what then?" But the sculptor said, "It must not slip."

Thus we see the determined position which the Christian should take as he is carefully, persistently and beautifully fashioning his character.

We are working under a superior. Timothy stood in and reflected the light of Paul. And in his exhortation and exhortation he writes to Timothy, "Do this till I come. And as the copy to the trading book must be followed by the child, so there is a copy written for the Christian to follow, and the spiritual life is the pen which beautifully or otherwise imitates the penmanship of Jehovah. As the "Last Supper," Christ said, "Do this till I come."

GOUGAR VS MANDLER.

Progress of the Label Suit.—The Defendant on the Witness-stand.

Special Dispatch to The Bee.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., February 14.—[Special.]—In the Gougar-Mandler trial to-day ex-Supreme Court Judge Robert Gregory testified that he had seen Wallace and Mrs. Gougar going from the Battle Ground camp meeting towards the woods, but said that during the late campaign he had heard such a story. Dr. DeHart testified that he saw Wallace and Mrs. Gougar at a temperance meeting at the fairgrounds last fall, and saw them separately from the crowd and walk off down the track and disappear to the darkness. Soon after Gougar himself came along in a buggy and drove in the direction they had gone, and all came back together.

In the afternoon Mr. Mandler, the defendant, was put upon the stand. He testified that on November 10th, while seated in front of Peck's store, which is beneath Wallace's cigar store, he saw Charles Pook and Peter Mathews, Pook suddenly left them and was gone some minutes. He returned and reported that a man and woman whom they had seen turn round and go back was DeWitt Wallace and Helen Gougar. Witness crossed the street and remained under an awning for a few moments, when the parties returned, going up to the office of Wallace. He kept watch with Pook. About 11:30 Pook left for a few moments, during which time the man and woman came down. Mandler ran after them and overtook them almost beneath the lamp-post. He called "Captains." No attention was paid, when he again shouted "Captains." This time the man halted and Mandler, stepping nearer, said "Good evening, Capt. Wallace. I thought I was not mistaken." Wallace's companion shrank behind him.

Witness pointed to Wallace and Mrs. Gougar, saying they were the persons he saw that night. He spoke to Wallace to let him know he was recognized. Mandler testified that he was not out of view of the stairway during the whole time; and that no one came down but Wallace and Mrs. Gougar. On the cross-examination it was sought to show by Mandler to Captains Wallace and Rice that he had stated since the occurrence that he had no personal knowledge of the transaction, but spoke only from hearsay. But witness denied this. Wallace had sought a private interview, but when he came witness found Rice present. He refused to converse before him.

Wallace sent Rice out, and Mandler related all he knew about the case, keeping nothing back. Wallace had said that this would ruin him; that he could not live with such stories going the rounds; and had remarked when told that others knew the circumstances: "Then shooting has got to commence." Witness had replied that, out of respect to Wallace's family, and to relieve him as much as possible, he would say he (Mandler) knew nothing about it, and convey that impression, because he had no desire to injure him or his family. Wallace then denied the whole story, and said a suit would be brought. Witness replied that if suit was brought and he was put on oath he would swear to the truth of the story. It had not come out through him, and he was not responsible for it. Mandler's examination concludes to-morrow.

Valentine. The years that come and go, On the shore of life's flight of time, That flows as mighty rivers flow, To mingle with the boundless ocean, Have wrought no changes in my heart, That treasure yours, life and love, Save this, the love we dreamed of then, Sweet love! I know it real to-night.

Oh love! I've known your brightest smile, Your kiss of welcome, all these years, And said, at parting, seen ere while, Those bright eyes dimmed with anxious tears.

While younger lovers pledge their vows, And swear by old Saint Valentine, I'll simply say, I don't not yours, Dear girl, and here's my word for mine.

A Land Syndicate. Special Dispatch to The Bee.

ST. LOUIS, February 18.—A report comes from Texas that a number of Mexican citizens, including President Gonzalez, several generals of the army and business men, have organized a syndicate to buy immediately the mining, agricultural and grazing lands in northern Mexico. It is said a survey is now being made of 7,000,000 acres, which the company gets at from 10 to 25 cents an acre, and disposes of to American emigrants at a profit. The syndicate is said to represent $2,000,000 capital.

DUNCAN'S DEPRIVITY. A River Boat Arrested on an Infamous Charge.

Officers Armour and Ruane, on Saturday evening, arrested a man named W. J. Duncan, who lived in a dug-out on the river bottom, and makes his living by fishing for drift-wood on the river or by more questionable means.

Duncan is charged with criminal intimacy with his daughter, a girl of thirteen, and it appears that he is such an ugly customer that his wife and the neighbors were afraid to make a complaint against him in the police court, but it was finally done by Officer Flynn.

The two men who made the arrest had a regular fight with the desperate fellow, who tried to get at his shotgun to kill them. He set his three big dogs on the officers, and Ruane had his clothes torn by them, but after cleaning out the dogs Duncan was downed and taken to jail, from which he is liable to go over the road.

Woman's True Friend. A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and cost only twenty cents a bottle. Sold by C. F. Goodenow.

The Diamond Dyes for family use have no equal. They dye and color easily, fast and beautiful. 10 cents a package for any color.

THE PLATTSMOUTH FIRE.

The Particulars of the Fire in the Neighboring Town this Morning.

An Estimate of the Persons and Their Losses.

Special Dispatch to The Bee.

PLATTSMOUTH, February 17.—The fire which broke out this morning at 3:35 o'clock threatened at one time to destroy the entire business portion of the city. The number of buildings burned and the losses, so far as they can be learned and approximated at this time, are as follows:

Six buildings were burned on Main street, the supposed cause being a defective flue in Antille's restaurant. All the efforts of the fire department were turned to saving the contents of the stores. The department could not work the engine and the flames spread so rapidly as to make the bucket brigade useless.

The buildings were all frame. The city clerk and mayor's books in the express office were saved. The loss and insurance are as follows: Sherwood, boots and shoes, loss $12,500; insurance $1,000 each in the German-American and Underwriters of New York, $3,000 in other companies.

Simpson, the express and news agent, loss $800; insurance $500 in the Fireman's Fund. Haag, $400, the insurance is not known. Mr. Hobbs loss between $800 and $900, a total loss to the family they not even being able to save their wearing apparel. Clark, the grocer losses $1,500; insurance $500 in the Manchester of New York. Dr. Clutter, $450; insurance $300 in the German-American. Ames, $500; insurance not known. Ortol, $2,000; insurance $800, German-American. Mrs. White, $2,200, fully covered by insurance. Fritz Gerald $200, the insurance is not known. Lenthof damaged $100, but fully insured.

A Happy Family. Puffed from the breast, squeezed from the bottle stomachs will sour and mix will urdle, Baby half-jelly all that night, Hous hold bumping heads in awful fright, Don't deny, 'twas thus with Victoria, Night was hideous without CASFORIA; When child left, for peaceful slumber, And said their prayers and slept like thunder.

Who want glossy, luxuriant and wavy tresses of abundant, beautiful Hair must use LYON'S KATHAIRON. This elegant, cheap article always makes the Hair grow freely and fast, keeps it from falling out, arrests and cures grayness, removes dandruff and itching, makes the Hair strong, giving it a curling tendency and keeping it in any desired position. Beautiful, healthy Hair is the sure result of using Kathairon.
