

FRAGMENTS OF FURY.

Brief Pictures of the Cyclone Paths in Illinois and Wisconsin.

City, Village and Farm Property Picked up and Dashed to Pieces.

Three Counties in Missouri Badly Abused by the Gale.

Seething Torrents Tumbling Through the Gulches of the Black Hills.

Penitentiary, Crook City and Spearfish Mount the Beacon and Vanish.

The Loss of Life by Wind and Flood Appalling, While Injured Number Hundreds.

ILLINOIS.

St. Louis, May 20.—Dispatches from various points in Illinois give fuller details of Friday night's cyclone. At St. Antonio the tornado passed about the middle of the town, totally demolishing several fine residences and dangerously injuring Mr. Livingston. Other buildings in the vicinity were destroyed and orchards injured. A construction crew, comprising about twenty-five men, on the Springfield & Southwestern railway, were camping near Mrs. Oliver's house, some sleeping in the large barn, and all were seriously injured. Mr. Cantwell, contractor, and Alva Barry were instantly killed. A little girl aged 8 cannot recover. Telegrams for aid have been sent out.

At Grafton, a few miles north, great damage was done. All the derricks of the Grafton Stone Quarry company were destroyed, together with five engines and several houses. The loss is very heavy. Three houses in Shinn near Grafton, were totally wrecked. Mrs. Garner was killed and her husband is supposed to have been thrown into the ravine and killed, and the body washed into the river. Mike Garner had a hip dislocated, and a daughter of Denny Shaw a leg broken. The damage near Springfield was more appalling than at first supposed. It struck the ground on Elijah He's farm, south of Junction, and laid waste to many dwellings, barns and outbuildings. Mr. He's house, a large two-story brick, was entirely demolished. It was occupied by Mr. Booker, who was considerably injured, and his infant boy nearly killed. Across the road from Booker's place, S. Wilford's house was swept away, but no damage to life resulted. A quarter of a mile further to the north, the house of Mr. English was torn to pieces, and everything about the place entirely destroyed. Mr. English was crushed and mangled by the falling timbers but there are hopes of his recovery. After demolishing Mr. English's house a hurricane struck again four miles east of the city, where the little settlement of Round Prairie is situated, and played havoc with the lives and property of farmers in that locality. The first farm in the track of the storm was that of William Cottrell, occupied by himself, wife and hired man. They took refuge in the cellar and weathered the storm in safety, while the house was torn down, outbuildings, fences and stock destroyed and killed. The homes of William Newman, Mr. McVeigh, Henry Hatcher, Samuel Assan, James Taylor, George Jay, Homer Purley, Henry Farber and Samuel A. Grubb, were torn down and great damage was done to their other property.

On Greasy prairie, eleven miles south of Springfield, the farm houses of Porter Sory, Alex. Gunn, William Blackman, Thomas Kessler, Jesse Crivington and A. Wreap, were destroyed. One man, a boy and two children were killed and others injured.

Southeast of the city along the line of the Jacksonville and Southeastern railroad, much damage is reported. Near Franklin the storm was fearfully destructive.

At Pies, the house, barn and orchard of James Oxley were swept away and his wife and children seriously injured.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

The worst of the cyclone, however, was some nine miles north of here, on the Peoria branch of the Wabash. The storm cloud was in the shape of a comma, and struck the north part of town at the southern edge, going northeast completely across the business and residence portion of the place, leveling four stores, two churches, the depot, repair shops and thirteen dwellings, besides injuring others and destroying much other property.

It struck Hillsboro at 9:55 p. m., tearing away the iron bridge of the I. & S. L. railroad, letting the engine and baggage car of passenger train No. 22, going east, 15 minutes late, down into the creek, killing Engineer Welch and crippling and scalding Fireman Harrington. The car was turned over but no one was hurt. One house and barn were blown away at Stanton. At Mt. Olive it struck the town, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

At Woodlawn, where there was a fatally severe tornado three years ago, the railroad depot was destroyed and cars blown from the track into atoms. The tracks were partially torn up.

simple, lost their lives in their wrecked home, making five dead in the town and fully fifteen injured. Three of these will probably die.

A SUMMARY. The loss of life in Illinois by the tornado of Friday night is computed at from 61 to 63, given by counties and towns as follows: De Witt county, 4; Mason county, 3; Livingston county, 2; near Grafton, Jersey county, 3; Madison county, 1; Winnebago county, 5; Linn, Morgan county, 7; Roodhouse, Green county, 1; Douglas county, 1; Logan county, 1; Macoupin county, 6; Hillsboro, 2; Staunton and Mount Olive, 4 to 6; Cayuga, 1; McHenry county, 4; Sangamon county, 5; Maroa, Mason county, 3; Buffalo station, 1.

In Illinois the storm raged in about the same manner it did in Missouri, the chief damage, however, being to country property, it striking a fine residence of considerable size. In the vicinity of Edwardsville three residences were utterly wrecked. Mrs. Frank Mixey was instantly killed in the wreck of her father's house, M. K. Barnett. All other members of the family were injured. A well on the place, containing 20 feet of water, was sucked perfectly dry. Wolf's store, a few miles from Edwardsville, was blown to pieces. Four persons were killed. At Woodboro, a brick school house, a church and three residences were blown down. James Carr and wife were seriously injured. Loss at and near Staunton, estimated at $30,000, and in the vicinity of Edwardsville at $35,000. In De Witt county nine houses were destroyed near Kany. Several others in Texas township and three persons named Clifton were killed and about a dozen badly injured. The house of a man named McPherson containing six persons was lifted into the air, circled 100 feet, and set down again. Nobody received a scratch.

THE LATEST INTELLIGENCE. Two more deaths occurred at Staunton, Ill., resulting from Friday night's storm. Additional reports from places not heretofore heard from show that the storm in Illinois was widespread and very destructive. Houses and other farm property were destroyed in all directions within an area of a dozen acres, and many persons were either killed or seriously wounded. Thirteen houses on Greely Prairie, a few miles south of Murraysville, were blown down, and A. W. Williams and two children were killed, Jettie Story fatally injured and two or three others badly hurt. At Peaton, on the Illinois Central railway, several business houses and residences were destroyed or badly wrecked, but no deaths reported.

WISCONSIN. Special Dispatch to This Day. MILWAUKEE, May 19.—A Rachine struck the list of known deaths by Friday night's cyclone at nine and fatally injured at twelve to fifteen. The number of people who received flesh wounds and more severe hurts now reaches nearly one hundred. Six people remain unaccounted for. At midnight a reliable report comes that two men were killed at Western Union Junction. Ben Fox's celebrated orchard, three miles from Racine, has not one tree standing.

Among the peculiar incidents told of the cyclone is one to the effect that the house of Matt Lahn and wife, an aged couple residing on the lake shore, was picked up and hurled into the lake, leaving them.

On the floor of the room, uninjured. Three miles from there and out of the track of the storm, a barn was taken up and three cows left standing uninjured on the floor. A barn at Racine now stands on the gable, being upside down but not broken. At North Point a man and whole pig were lifted up in the cyclone and dropped some fifteen feet. No damage was done by the wind, but the wagon was injured when it struck the ground.

When the storm struck the lake the water was thrown in the air to the height of seventy-five feet all along the shore. The cyclone explodes the popular belief heretofore that such storms never visited the lake regions. A house on High street before the storm is missing, and cannot be found.

RACINE, May 20.—Investigation only serves to swell the list of casualties and make more sweeping the destruction occasioned by the cyclone Friday night. It is now estimated that fully twenty-five were killed and a hundred injured. One hundred and fifty houses were demolished, and the cyclone struck the business center of Racine would not easily have been calculated. At Weeter, Union Junction, seven miles west of Racine, many houses were wrecked and one young man named Weeber killed. The financial loss by the storm will not exceed $50,000. The buildings demolished were principally frame structures, and individual losses range from $300 to $1,000.

MISSOURI. Special Dispatch to This Day. ST. LOUIS, May 19.—Friday night's tornado plowed through three counties in Missouri, Montgomery, Warren and St. Charles. Besides destroying a large amount of property, it killed and seriously wounded twenty people. The greatest destruction was wrought in St. Charles county, where a large number of farm houses and buildings were leveled. Douglas Luckett, wife and two daughters were all fatally injured. John Jenkins was killed, and his two sons fatally injured. In the neighborhood of Florist, St. Charles county, and thence for fifteen miles into Warren county, the track of storm is traced by numerous wrecks and about twenty people more or less injured. On Dog Prairie several large, costly houses and barns loaded with grain were demolished. On Allen Prairie dwellings and outbuildings met the same fate. On Louisa island in the Missouri river, a number of miles southwest of any of the above points, the storm totally destroyed the dwellings and all outbuildings. The losses in the three counties will run up in the hundreds of thousands.

THE BLACK HILLS. Special Dispatch to This Day. CHICAGO, May 20.—A Deadwood (S.D.) special says a storm began here yesterday morning with the highest temperature known. Whitehead stream ran through the heart of the city. The channel was cut 100 yards wide and everything went before the flood. All the town of the gulch was badly damaged. Pointing-in is entirely gone. The valley is flooded and half of Spearfish washed away. Crook City is nearly all gone. The water is now falling though there is much snow in the mountains yet. George Chandler and wife and two unknown men are known to be drowned. Loss roughly estimated at $500,000. Rope and basket communication is established between the two parts of the city.

ADDITIONAL FACTS. BISMARCK, May 20.—The Tribune special gives additional facts as to the flood at Deadwood. The heavy snow and flood reported some days ago in a dispatch from Stevenson, was at Deadwood. Additional rain had fallen almost every day for a month, making the roads impassable and creating a great deal of trouble with water. This was followed by a heavy fall of snow, which disappeared rapidly under the heavy warm rain of Friday night and Saturday. The gulches or valleys in the hills are from a few hundred feet to probably a quarter of a mile wide, generally Deadwood is at the junction of Whitehead and Deadwood gulches. Numerous gulches in this case emptied their accumulation of water from the mountains into those two main gulches and gave volume to the water that rushed down Whitehead in resistless force. Central City, Aueron City and Golden Gate are on the Deadwood above Deadwood City. The greater portion of Central City would be above the flood but for the Aueron and Golden Gate. There was no escape here, however. The gulch is not over a hundred feet wide. Deadwood is a town of 5,000 people. The main residence portion of the city is from 100 to 300 feet above the gulch, and the main business portion was also above the danger line. The portion destroyed was occupied by cheap tenement houses, second-class hotels, laundries, small saloons, sporting houses, livery stables, etc. Some buildings were built over the stream, which, at its ordinary stage, was only a few feet wide. Its locality was avoided, however, by the shrewd interest, for the danger was recognized. In this case timely warning was given by means of the telephone system existing in the hills, and the most valuable articles were removed.

So far but three bodies have been recovered, but it is now believed that the loss of life has been great. The wild excitement was only equalled by that at the time of the fire. Horsemen rushed in every direction and hastily loaded vehicles jostled each other. When the flood came it carried everything excepting the most substantial buildings before it. The loss in Deadwood will reach $700,000. Golden Gate, Aueron City, Central City, South Bend and Crook City are heavy losers. Several of the mills in Deadwood Gulch were destroyed and the damage to mines by floods cannot be replaced for several weeks. All roads are impassable and trains were forced to suspend on the Hills railroad because it was impossible to get wood for the stations. The Methodist church and public school building were among the buildings destroyed at Deadwood, also Miller's fire proof warehouse; also Isman's & Ayres and one other and a brewery. One hundred houses are known to have been washed away. Five lives were lost and three bodies have been recovered.

Among the dead were George Chaudin and wife, and a man named Brindley. Spearfish and Rapid are broader valleys, the former from two to twelve miles wide. The flood was not so destructive there, but the damage was serious, nevertheless.

JERE DUNN'S RECEPTION. Special Dispatch to This Day. CHICAGO, May 20.—The verdict reached by the trial of Jere Dunn reached a sensational comment in all the city papers this morning, and the alleged agencies which aided in his acquittal are particularly condemned by two or three of the morning journals. They all give long accounts of the reception tendered Dunn by the sporting fraternity after he quitted the court room, champagne being given him and a reception known as "The Drumm," which was given very nearly through the entire night. Among those who grasped the hand of Dunn was a character known as "Stock Yards Johnnie," and Dunn, resenting his overtures, struck the man in the face. The incident is related to have put the crowd in high spirits. The leading counsel who has been able to get word so successfully was noted among those present at the fine supper.

Down on Dunn. Special Dispatch to This Day. NEW YORK, May 20.—The acquittal of Jere Dunn in the trial for murdering Elliott has aroused the utmost indignation among the friends of Elliott in this city, and many of them predict that it would be "unhealthy for Dunn to come to New York." John Stiles, who was for years an intimate friend of Elliott, and who spent the prize money he was killed brought him to this city and paid all funeral expenses, and Elliott's friends did not have money to avenge him. If Dunn ever comes here we will make it so hot for him he will never get out of it. Dunn has got rid of four men and he has got up and he has laid his damn law. When he killed Logan on Houston street in 1869 he shot him down while walking along the sidewalk. Logan had no chance. Dunn followed the same plan with Elliott.

Forest Fire. Special Dispatch to This Day. MONTPELIER, May 20.—The most disastrous forest fire yet occurred in Vermont started yesterday in the vicinity of Groton. An immense tract was burned over and a large amount of property destroyed. Loss estimated at $150,000.

HE GOT THERE. The Car Reaches Moscow With-out a Single Explosion. The Path to the Palace Striven With Flowers by His "Loving" Subjects. The Chief of the Dublin Murderers Receives His Blood Money and Liberty. General News From Other Points.

RUSSIA. Special Dispatch to This Day. MOSCOW, May 20.—The czar and czarina arrived this evening and proceeded to the palace. It is estimated 200,000 persons lined the street from the station to the palace. Order was maintained by unarméd citizens guards. The city is decorated in honor of the approaching coronation of the czar. The streets are crowded with people. A great number are arriving daily. Perfect order prevails.

The czar was received at the depot by a great number of grand dukes, princes and generals. The national anthem was played as he drove in an open carriage to the palace. Great crowds reported him along the route. It is reported that the czar will meet Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria and King Humbert of Italy at Berlin next autumn.

ENGLAND. Special Dispatch to This Day. LONDON, May 20.—A box with a fuse attached was discovered on the steps of Peterborough cathedral today. When examined at the police station it was found to contain four boxes filled with various colored liquids, together with many wires and springs. On the lid of the box was a representation of the skull and bones with the words, "Beware of the invisible army." The box was marked "Diprot branch office, 57 Broadway street, New York." On a slip of paper inside the box were the words, "Conscience makes cowards of all men." Although the affair is considered a hoax the worshippers at the cathedral were much alarmed.

William Chambers, L. D. D., a well known publisher, aged 83, is dead. Davitt, Healy and Quinn have been forbidden to receive visitors in consequence of the recent letters forwarding subscriptions to the Parnell fund and condemning the pope's circular.

Time was spent in the streets with great slaughter. The village of Bally, in Savoy, has been almost entirely destroyed by fire, only four buildings remaining standing. Four hundred persons were made homeless by the fire. America will send sixty paintings to the forthcoming art exhibition at Munich.

FRANCE. Special Dispatches to This Day. PARIS, May 20.—The second ballot for member of the chamber of deputies for the sixteenth arrondissement today resulted in M. Caila, conservative, receiving 3,036 votes; M. Bouteiller, irreconcilable, 2,939, and M. Renaud, opportunist, 1,134.

Among the candidates for member for the sixth division, M. Montelheit, socialist, received 4,600 votes; M. Theonet, republican unionist, 3,500. Jacques Abbatecci and M. Sauty fought a duel with swords in the Bois de Boulogne, Paris, today. Both were wounded.

The French Derby race, mile and four furlongs, was won by Gastrie's colt, colt, Fremont. Lagrange's bay colt Farfadet second, Lefevre's Regain third. Eighteen ran.

IRELAND. LONDON, May 20.—James Carey, informer, was today released from custody. Carey declares he intends to remain in Dublin and further that he will vigorously prosecute the tenants occupying his premises who refuse to pay rent since he became an informer. Ever since Carey turned informer his house has been guarded by policemen, and on his liberation today the guard was doubled.

The crown proposes to distribute the reward offered for the detection of the Phoenix park murderers among the informers. It is believed it will also be shared forthwith all informers who desire to leave the country.

The excitement in Ireland over the pope's circular to the clergy is unabated and finds expression in all quarters. Justin McCarthy, member of parliament for Longford, has sent a circular to prominent Irishmen connected with the Irish National League in London, urging the formation of an organization to assist further the movement to raise the testimonial for Parnell. The town commissioners of Danavren, Ireland, last night adopted a resolution of disapproval to the pope's circular on the ground that it counseled division between the pope and priests of Ireland.

The dynamite conspirators, Kennedy, O'Hearney, O'Connor, and Flanagan, were assigned in court this morning and formally charged with conspiracy to murder as well as treason-felony.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS. Special Dispatches to This Day. The king and queen of Portugal will leave Lisbon for Madrid today. The crown prince of Portugal will not accompany them.

The duke of Saxe-Coburg yesterday was the worst in twenty years. Serious damage on land and water. A violent storm raged in Berlin yesterday and did much damage to the hygienic exhibition building. Rain penetrated the roof and the partition walls of the Austrian department were overthrown and several persons injured.

Emperor William visited Bismarck yesterday. The emperor will give a dinner to Baron DuCoudré, French ambassador, today. Delaney, one of the Phoenix park murderers, has been reprieved. Official bulletins respecting the health of Bismarck should be received with caution. It is asserted that the prince suffers great pain, but he objects to the issuance of alarming bulletins. He is much afflicted by the political disaffection he has experienced, and he reads the latest reports in regard to the relations between Prussia and the Vatican have been also a source of trouble.

TELEGRAPH NOTES. Special Dispatches to This Day. CHICAGO, May 20.—The Chicago papers severely criticize the verdict in the case of Jere Dunn.

Peter McGeech, it is rumored, is running a far corner at Milwaukee. A supposed case of hydrophobia is attracting much attention in Indianapolis. Joseph Oakley & Co., well known New York cigar manufacturers, have assigned.

In Illinois the epidemic killed at least fifty-four people and injured about 200. The daily production of the Minneapolis mills the past week will be 13,000 barrels. The pension list will fill forty-eight volumes of 600 pages each.

John C. Delmonico, cousin of the famous Delmonico family of New York, is dead. Gen. A. V. Rice is willing to accept the democratic nomination for governor of Illinois.

Immense crowds are flocking to Moscow to be present at the coronation of the czar. The Illinois house has passed a bill fixing the license tax at $250 and whisky licenses at $500.

The Cincinnati musical festival association produced Thomas's Redemption, Saturday night, Thomas's orchestra taking part.

W. S. McLarty, of Colorado, lost in New York a pocketbook containing $125,000 in bonds and $75 in cash, which cannot be found.

The Pennsylvania house voted to tax and regulate the business of life insurance corporations, after strong opposition of the latter.

Miss Lulu Greer, a beautiful young girl of twenty-two years, has deserted her mother at Altoona, Pa., for the purpose of entering a convent at St. Louis.

The Alpha Delta Phi convention at Cleveland adjourned Saturday, to meet next year at Middleton, Conn. Rev. Philip Brooks, of Boston, was elected president.

The bark Arabia, from New Orleans, has arrived at Revel. Twenty of her crew died of smallpox.

A. D. Sargent's sale of thoroughbred yearlings near Lexington, Ky., forty-four youngsters brought $18,000, an average of $1,100 a head.

Mark Spicker, a traveling salesman, has been awarded at Philadelphia $5,000 damages for being ejected from a train in the open country.

Washington P. Hayes, a well-known manufacturer and ex-member of the New Hampshire legislature, hanged himself Saturday. Cause, heavy losses by fire and death of a favorite daughter.

C. E. Towle, treasurer of Lunenburg, Quebec, is missing. He is a defaulter for several thousands.

Dillworth, Porter & Co., large railroad appliance manufacturers at Pittsburg, employing 500 men, having notified the men that the works will be suspended at once until the reduction of wages proposed by the iron manufacturers of the west is accepted by them.

At Brownhelm, Ohio, a spark from the stove set fire to the clothing of a baby sleeping in its crib, and it was burned to death.

At Wilmington, Del., the Western Union Telegraph company's attorney promised to pay, under protest, the municipal tax of $1 per pole.

Wm. A. Bawmer, of Richmond, Ind., has been sent to jail for charging his wife with infidelity. Society is shocked.

The Evansville and Terra Haute has been suspended by the trunk lines from the benefits of the rate reduction for a period of ten days for cutting rates.

Among the curiosities just placed in the relic room of the Ohio state house is the original commission on parchment issued to Aaron Burr, authorizing him to practice law.

Ex-United States Treasurer Gillilan has resigned his connection with the Mutual Trust company of New York, which has become president of a firm of bronze founders in New York City.

Elizabeth N. J., with $12,500,000 of real property, has a bonded debt of $7,000,000, and creditors have secured a mandamus to compel the city to raise funds for payment of its debt by a tax levy.

Mr. Marcella Boyce, who resides in Long Bottom, just across the river from Wheeling, Va., gave birth to four babies, two boys and two girls. One of the boys died, but the remaining three are large and healthy. Two years ago the lady presented her husband with twins, and last season with triplets.

Wade Martin, a youth of Erie, Pa., called in his friends to see him commit suicide, then clapped a revolver to his breast and fired a bullet, which only grazed his skin on the left side, severely wounded one of the witnesses.

H. C. St. John, detailed by Secretary of War to examine and report on certain alleged fraudulent exemption cash entries of land in the Denver district, reports that all said entries are fraudulent and illegal, and made for speculative purposes.

The arbitrators selected to settle the coal miners' strike at Pittsburg obtained a decision in favor of the miners. Both sides pledged themselves to the umpire's decision. The miners agreed to go to work today at the operator's terms of three cents a ton, with a 10 per cent. advance. The general belief is this ends the strike.

The printers on The Delaware Herald and Times quit work and went on a strike about midnight Friday, leaving their strike in an unfinished condition. The publishers have barred them out and hired new men.

Judge Geer, of the Memphis criminal court, before whom a case testing the constitutionality of the act making gambling a felony has been argued by counsel for the past few days, has rendered an opinion sustaining the validity of the act.

At Saturday's meeting of the Lutheran ministers at Norristown, Pa., it was announced that the family of the late Dr. Krauth had declared their intention to present the late Dr. Krauth's large library to the theological seminary. This library is estimated to contain about 15,000, and is regarded by many as the finest and best assorted one in the United States.

them the flag they captured from the New York Twenty-eighth at the battle of Cedar Mountain, August 2, 1862, which they will return to them.

A Fatal Railroad Row. Special Dispatch to This Day. CHITTEWA FALLS, Wis., May 20.—Two laborers in the employ of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha R. R., were crushed under the wheels of an engine of the Chippewa Falls and Western company driven across the grade of the Omaha road to obstruct their works. The Omaha people were attempting a crossing, had placed a crew of their men with rails so placed as to ditch the incoming Western company's train before it reached their grade. The Western superintendent was on the engine, bade the men get out of the way or be crushed. The Omaha officials ordered the men to hold their ground and have no fear of the result. The engine came back with terrific force and fatal results. No arrests have been made.

No Great Loss. Special Dispatch to This Day. CHICAGO, May 20.—Anthony Connolly, a saloonkeeper, and Robert Bruce, alias Harry Curtis, of no recognized occupation, met in the former's saloon this evening. After drinking together Curtis shot Connolly, the ball, of large calibre, passing entirely through the body. Connolly then shot Curtis through both thighs, close to the body. It is thought both will die. Curtis says that Connolly and another man held him up some days ago and robbed him of $1.

Marriage of Ann Eliza Young. Special Dispatch to This Day. LEON, O., May 20.—Mrs. Ann Eliza Young, of Mormon fame, niece of wife of Brigham Young, was married at 1 o'clock this afternoon in this city to Mr. Moses R. Dunning, a prominent banker of Maunabo, Mich. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Dr. A. E. Elliott. Rev. E. A. Stone, of Galton, O., officiated. Mrs. Young's son witnessed the ceremony. There was a large number of guests present, among whom were some of the most prominent citizens of this vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Dunning will make their home in Maunabo. They left on the 3:30 train for Toledo.

The Bridge Opening. Special Dispatch to This Day. NEW YORK, May 20.—Delegates of the Central labor union to-day decided to issue a proclamation asking all workmen to absent themselves from the ceremonies of opening East river bridge because the trustees refused to change the day to some other date than the queen's birthday.

The Statue of Liberty announced the bridge authorities for holding the ceremonies on the queen's birthday. It was the intention of the meeting to burn the queen's effigy but the presence of police prevented the demonstration.

Speculation and Its Result. Special Dispatch to This Day. CHICAGO, May 20.—A statement is published here to the effect that Ben Jones, son of J. Russell Jones, ex-collector of customs in this city, has been speculating extensively on the strength of prominent names. The story is that he occupied a confidential position with the grain commission firm of Smith & McCormick; that in that capacity he was in the habit of bringing in orders for the purchase or sale of grain from people of standing, who did not care to have it known that they were dealing in margins.

Among the orders thus brought was one, it is said, in the name of Potter Palmer, together with a deposit of $1,000. The deal went the wrong way and the firm finally presented a bill for $6,000 against Mr. Palmer as the amount advanced in carrying the deal. Palmer repudiated it and said he never gave such order. The other deals were investigated and it is said the net result was about $30,000 to profit and loss on the part of this firm alone. It is reported other firms suffered as well. Jones went into business on his own account some years ago and failed. It is claimed his speculations have cost his father $20,000. Young Jones says matters