

THE DAILY BEE. OMAHA. Wednesday Morning, Sept. 12. LOCAL BREVITIES.

Thirty-five recruits went yesterday to Fort Laramie. There is a movement on foot to consolidate the three German societies of this city into one. Some California quail and road runners from Arizona, presented to J. S. Collins, by General Crook, are exhibited in Collins & Petty's window, handsomely mounted. There are several species. Two drunks at the police court yesterday speak well for State Fair week. The Judge will have a round up Friday night, though.

The Nebraska Home for the Friendless, situated at Lincoln, has put up boxes at different places on the Fair grounds asking for contributions. Any amount is acceptable and will go toward the good work being done. Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Ahlquist and Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Christie were the recipients of a pleasant surprise at their residence, North Nineteenth street, Monday evening. To say that a good time was had is not saying half.

Mr. N. F. Murray is in charge of the Hort county, Missouri, exhibit of fruit at the fair. Mr. William W. Way and Miss Sarah F. Crewe were married on the evening of Sept. 10, at the parsonage of the First M. E. church, by Rev. Charles W. Savage. Councilman Redfield was presented with a merriment box, box of Havana and snuff box Monday by his fellow councilmen, in token of his work as a member of the equalization board.

The sympathy of the community is with Ferdinand Schroeder in the death of his estimable wife, Estella E. Schroeder. She was the second daughter of Hon. Fred Metz. Every member of the Union Pacific base ball team has been presented with an order for a costly overcoat by the association. Treasurer Taylor made the presentation speech.

The Sioux City Journal gives the following reminiscence of a prominent Omaha lady: "An old settler who says the mention that said I. T. Martin taught the first school in this city in 1837 depicted the statement. The first school in the city, he says, was taught in 1856 by a Miss Wilkins, a Davis county lady. She married in this city, so many school ma'ams do, and is now Mrs. Charles Rustin of Omaha."

Mr. M. J. Greedy, secretary of Genl. Pass. Agt. Morse, of the U. P., will be married at Missouri Valley this morning to Miss Addie Newton. A reception will be held at the residence of the bride's father, Edwin Newton, on the farm north of the junction. The bridal tour will be through Colorado and the west, and all Mr. Greedy's friends wish it to be a most happy trip.

Mrs. Samuel Shears, with Miss Mamie, and Zola Shears, and two sons, Stuart and Harry, arrived yesterday morning from North Lake. Mr. Jesse Markos, of Aliso, Ill., is being shown the city by his friend, ex-Lieut. Gov. Carnes whom he is visiting. Hon. James Laird, Hastings; O. C. Sabio, Beatrice; John R. Harvey, Burlington; A. J. Cornish, Lincoln; H. Roe and wife, D. W. Roe, Searl, M. Nevins, Kearney, and W. D. Hill of Beatrice, are at the Paxton.

Dr. W. B. Thompson and Mr. Lansing, of N. Y. city, and Mrs. Quinn, of San Francisco, passed through Omaha yesterday on their way west. An Answer Wanted. All grocers sell Garneau's crackers because they are the best. The Old Story. The "Port Huron" Get There Again Six to Three. As early as 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, crowds of excited lovers of our national game could be seen hurrying toward the Union Pacific base ball park, on St. Mary's avenue, fearful lest one single incident in the contest between "The Little Michigan Champions" and the "U. P."

STILL BOOMING. Second Successful Day of the State Fair. A Good Crowd Witnesses the Races.

The second day of the state fair was a continuation of the favorable promise made in its inauguration. The weather continued bright and beautiful as only Nebraska weather can be, and the balance of the week will no doubt be equally good. The attendance on the ground yesterday was quite large, though not so great as it will be to-day, and the crowds will fairly commence with the afternoon and tomorrow. A large number of exhibits entered before the time expired were taken to the grounds during the forenoon, and the halls and various departments ready for the fair. Things generally made ready for the coming crowd.

THE MUSICAL UNION. The first notable event of the day was the arrival of the Musical Union orchestra, who reached the grounds about noon in their big hall wagon and made the circuit of the half-mile track, playing as they went. This looked like business was about to begin, and in fact it did soon after, for at 2 o'clock were called, the three-minute trotting race being the first on the program.

THE ATTENDANCE. On the second day was estimated at 2,000, but there were probably more than that number present. Among the new features in this mushroom village was the appearance of several new buildings, which were placed to be occupied as headquarters. The Big and Herald each put up wall tents and entertained their friends in good style. The Big is located about a half mile from the fair grounds, and Nebraska Insurance company, where Mr. Matt Goodwin, the assistant secretary, assisted by Mr. R. J. Johnson, hold levees daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

THE BUCHANAN WAGON. One of the greatest attractions on the fair grounds is the display of Buchanan weapons. One of these is of hard wood, decorated and ornamented with Chinese characters in gold, silver and oil colors—all hand work—costing over one thousand dollars. Another is of the finest finished painted work. These weapons are manufactured by the Rough Boys' wagon works, of Buchanan, Mich., and are sold by Messrs. Wells, the proprietor of their works, and John F. Harmon, the general agent.

THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS. The board of fish commissioners got their exhibit into shape yesterday, and the two handsome aquariums attracted much attention to their fishy occupants. Among the fish sent up from the hatcheries at South Union are two black bass, three months old; seven Golden Ide, two years of age; six one-year-old and two two-year-old German carp; seven two-year-old California mountain trout; one two-year-old and three three-year-old speckled trout and four California salmon. The water used is filtered Missouri river water and is as transparent as mud.

THE SOCIETY EXHIBITS. Seward county has already been mentioned and her display of fine grains, varieties of kind, pumpkins and so on is indeed worthy of great praise. Kearney county comes to the front with a large showing of the finest kinds of melons, grain and vegetables. She does poorly in the extent and character of her display except any county represented in the fair. She has among other things broom corn 16 feet tall, the best pumpkins on the ground, the largest cauliflower we have ever seen, and some immense heads of cabbage. These are over thirty varieties of grasses in this exhibit, among which are the best satisfied with their Delaware. Then there are potatoes, melons, and squashes, and small grain, red clover, blue grass, with oats five feet ten inches tall. Even the smallest peanut is represented by a splendid bunch of stalks covered with the largest of this fruit. A large tree called the Panda calls also to the variety of the show.
