To the Hon. Charles F. Manderson, Van Wyck, Valentine, Weaver and Salter. GENTLEMEN:—We, the undersigned, a committee appointed at a meeting held by the survivors of those having served in the war with Mexico, and now residing in the state of Nebraska, to take some action in relation to having our services recognized and rewarded commensurate with the benefits derived from the government.

We were instructed to memorialize through yourselves, the honorable senate and house of representatives in congress assembled, to place the survivors of that war of annexation upon an equal footing in regard to position, with the survivors of the war of 1812. The reasons that prompt us in making this request come not from any right by contract or agreement on the part of our government with or to us on enlistment, but more from a spirit of equitable justice toward us for the vast benefits derived from our services by and in the acquisition of California and New Mexico.

We would therefore most respectfully ask and urge upon you, gentlemen, that you may give any measure that may be brought before the present congress of the United States having that purpose in view, your joint and earnest support, as we earnestly believe that a government such as ours becomes stronger in a time of war by being true to its defenders in time of peace.

JAMES F. MORTON, Chairman of Committee. SAM WALSH, PHILIP DARR, D. B. HOUCK, MORITZ BASWITZ, Committee.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Miss Stevens' Piano Recital. At the invitation of several of the most prominent citizens of Omaha, Miss Neely Stevens favored a very appreciative audience with a piano recital at Boyd's opera house last evening. Miss Stevens has received such remarkable commendations from Liezt, Von Bulow and other of Europe's greatest musicians that it is with much timidity and respect that we place our humble tribute by the side of theirs.

The programme presented gives every opportunity of judging the diverse powers required by an artist, and it is but just to say that Miss Stevens evinced that method, feeling, power and technique which bespeak great promise for her future work. The selections were:

- 1. Tocatta and Fugue, (d minor), Bach-Tullik (a No. 1000). Mozart, Kullik (a No. 1000). Chopin (a No. 1000). Serenata, Moskowski (a No. 1000). 4. Valse Capriccio, Rubenstein (a No. 1000).

By Kaufman: To re-employ Colonel Burke in his office. Adopted. By Redfield: To replace sidewalks on Capitol avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets. Adopted.

THE BURLINGTON.

Attitude of the Great Road Which Has Been Left Out in the Cold.

A Prediction That There is to be a Lively Shaking Up.

The attention of a very great portion of the railway world is fixed upon the Burlington road, and every movement of its officials is intently watched, in the hope of detecting some intimation of its probable policy. It was whispered on Tuesday about the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago that Mr. Potter had individually decided adversely to joining the alliance, and that he would advise his directors accordingly.

A copy of the agreement was given Mr. Potter Monday evening, and during all the evening and yesterday forenoon he and the general solicitor of the road made an exhaustive study of its provisions. Mr. Potter is reported as saying that the road could not consistently enter the alliance. By remaining out of it, the Burlington people would lose gross revenue to the amount of $225,000, which the Union Pacific would give them at Omaha.

To offset this they would retain about $280,000 worth of business over their western division, which would otherwise go into the pool. With the line to Denver and Rio Grande, he thought the Burlington would be far better off without than within the pool.

A gentleman who sustains intimate relations with the Burlington management said that if the Burlington did not join the alliance there would at once be inaugurated a war of extermination—not of road, but of individual officials. "And you may confidently look," said he, "for some important changes within five years. The Burlington's effort would be to make it so warm for some of them in an indirect way that their extermination would be a matter of time."

"Do you believe the original three parties to the compact ever purpose having the Burlington with them?" "Appearances would indicate that they did not. They, in the first place, organized the combination in great secrecy. They have now completed every detail of the organization before the Burlington people have been advised as to the terms of the agreement. They knew the Iowa pool would expire Jan. 1, and the new pool would begin its existence on the same day, and yet Mr. Potter did not get a copy of the agreement until it had gone into effect. They have appointed a commissioner without consulting the Burlington. If it was their desire that the Burlington should be associated in harmony with them, they would hardly have appointed a commissioner, presumably not knowing whether he would be acceptable or not to the Burlington, without advising with them.

The appointment of Mr. Vining was a most unhappy one, for, by it, it would seem that all hope of an amicable settlement had been destroyed. It is an open secret that the Burlington people are opposed to the new alliance, and for two reasons. They do not like him personally, and they do not fancy the idea of leaving their business in the hands of a Union Pacific man, prejudiced directly in favor of the Union Pacific. It looks to me as if the chances were rather against the Burlington's joining the new pool."

THE MIDNIGHT MURK.

Their Work in the Churchyards Near This City—Certain Parties Becoming Uneasy.

The announcement in Wednesday's Bee that body snatchers were at work about this city, rather stirred up the natives and caused a rattling among the dry bones. It has been known for several days that something unlawful was being done in this city.

A few nights ago a couple of men in the employ of a well known wholesale and retail firm of this city, in the capacity of drivers, were on their way home about 11 o'clock at night when they came across a wagon in the middle of the road which had been left without a horse or owner and appeared to have been recently broken down. One of the axles having parted in the middle, they looked to see what the wagon contained and in making the search they found to their horror that the first thing their hands came in contact with was the feet and legs of some persons. They did not prosecute their search much farther, but satisfied themselves that there was one if not two bodies in the wagon, and determined to try and ascertain who was hauling this singular kind of freight. They hid themselves in a neighboring barn to watch proceedings, but in some way the "stiffs" got out of that wagon and away without being seen by the two watchers.

It may be that the angels, heads, of which the souls of these dead bodies are now undoubtedly members, came and noisefully and unseen bore them back to their long resting place. It is more likely, however, that they were taken by strong hands and placed in another strong wagon and conveyed to the dissecting table where young students proceeded to satisfy their curiosity by hacking them to pieces with the scalpel.

The expression in whose wagon the ghastly corpses were discovered, is known and he may be able when called upon to give some facts which will open the eyes of the whole community. At a certain medical college, we were informed by one of the students to-day, they are feeling quite uneasy in regard to the discovery, and are expecting the arrival of officers to go through the "shambang" and see what can be found.

The last legislature passed a law by which responsible surgeons or medical colleges ordered are now undoubtedly claimed papers, on filing a bond in the sum of $500 with the county clerk, as surety that the bodies thus obtained should be used for scientific purposes only, and in such a manner as to in no wise offend the public.

The arm and leg which were floating around the city promiscuously, a few weeks since, were probably parts of a corpse stolen from a lonely cemetery. The matter will be looked up as thoroughly as possible, and every precaution taken to prevent recurrence of such a thing. It is to be regretted that grave robbing is not a penitentiary offense, but it is not, and the fine in such cases can not exceed $500.

A BIG EXPLOSION.

Strange Explosion at the Gas Works, of Which No One Seems to Know.

Switchmen Knocked off Their Feet, Houses Shaken and the People in General Alarmed.

On Wednesday night a terrific explosion occurred at the gas works, and a Bee reporter has faithfully endeavored to ascertain the cause, but none of the gas people appear to know anything in regard to it, evidently having a great desire to keep it quiet, for reasons best known to themselves.

It is certain, however, that a big explosion of some kind did take place at the above time and place, for switchmen who were at work in the yards near by the works, were thrown off their feet and people living in that immediate vicinity were greatly startled by the shaking of their windows, the rattling of dishes, and in some cases, the stoves and stove pipes fell down, and several houses narrowly escaped being burned thereby.

A man ran up Leavenworth street telling all whom he met that the boilers at the Gas works had exploded, and some people were even foolish enough to think that Gabriel had come, and was blowing his trumpet which shall call the dead to life.

The gas people were probably experimenting with the new gas when it went off. It is a well known fact that this hydrogen, or water gas, is of a very explosive nature, and we would not be at all surprised to wake up some morning and find the whole bottom blown out of the south end of Omaha.
