

THE DAILY BEE.

OMAHA.

Friday Morning, March 14.

Wanted.

A strong boy about 16 years old, who has had some experience in the printing business. Apply to night foreman Bee office.

The Weather.

For the Missouri valley: Slightly warmer, generally fair winds shifting to easterly, diminishing pressure in southern part and increasing pressure in northern part.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

New crop clover and timothy seed for sale. Shugart, Waite & Wils, Council Bluffs, Iowa, 18-1m.

The county commissioners are advertising for heating apparatus for the new court house.

The funeral of the late Joel T. Griffin was largely attended yesterday. He was buried with Masonic honors.

J. H. Hicks, city editor of The Dispatch, yesterday received the sad news of the death of a brother in California.

Mrs. Chas. J. Johnson yesterday presented her husband with a girl baby. This makes four girls in the Johnson family now.

In police court yesterday there were five cases for the disturbance of the peace. They were each fined $5 and costs. Two paid and the other three were committed.

There will be a special meeting of Divisions No. 1 and 2 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, at their hall on Friday evening at half past seven o'clock sharp, as business of importance is to be transacted. By order of the O. D. J. J. CAVANAGH.

The spiritualists will hold their anniversary at Masonic hall in this city on the 29th and 30th inst., to commemorate the advent of spiritual manifestations at Hydesville, thirty-six years ago. Col. D. M. Fox and wife will conduct the proceedings. All are invited.

The Omaha express, due at Joliet, Ill., on the Rock Island road, at 12:50 yesterday afternoon, struck a broken rail three miles from that city and seven coaches left the track and overturned, but no one was seriously injured.

In district court yesterday, before Judge Wakely, the case of Clapp against Miller was on trial. Before Judge Neville the suit of Schroeder against Wallens occupied the attention of the court until noon, at which time, out of respect to the late Bishop Clarkson, it adjourned to this morning.

Mr. E. A. Ayert, of Des Moines, whose wife, a former resident of Council Bluffs, died a few weeks ago, was in Omaha yesterday to secure the admission of his six orphan children into the Academy of the Sacred Heart. Mr. Ayert has considerable business in the Bluffs, and so will be near his children.

Alfred Burt, bartender at the United States hotel, fell from a barrel Wednesday, while engaged in taking some boxes from the icebox, and was placed in the left side by an iron pick. The instrument entered a distance of three inches, and then broke off. Dr. Hoffman was called, extracted the iron, and reported the injured man as improving.

During the first part of this week a mad dog made its appearance on the premises of Roof Harman, a farmer who lives near Papillion. It bit the dog and cat of the farmer, and escaped before Mr. Harris could kill it. The dog and cat which were bitten were killed, but fears are entertained in the neighborhood that other animals may have been made subjects of this dread disease.

The receipts at the Omaha port of customs yesterday on dutiable importations amounted to $2,076.16. These importations consisted of cigars and dry goods, the first of which came from Havana and the latter from Liverpool. The collector of the port, Mr. Campbell, says the receipts of yesterday were the largest ever taken in a single day since the port was established.

The street crossings Wednesday were just "awful." A young gentleman stood in the doorway contemplating the weather and wishing that it would dry up, when he saw a very pretty young lady about to attempt to cross the slush-flooded street. His natural gallantry prompted him to tender his assistance, and stepping forward he said: "Madam, will you permit me to observe--" "Observe if you like," she interrupted him; "I've got rubber boots on."

BROWNELL HALL.

A Meeting of the Trustees Yesterday Morning.

The board of trustees of Brownell hall met at Trinity Cathedral yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

Brief and touching addresses on the life and death of Bishop Clarkson were made by Judge Dundy, Canon Dougherty and Mayor Chase.

Upon motion a committee was appointed to draft resolutions touching the death of Bishop Clarkson. The committee is composed of the following gentlemen: Judge Dundy, Mr. Hopkins, F. Fremont, Canon Dougherty and J. M. Woolworth.

On motion the board then adjourned until 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, when they will meet in the Cathedral and hear the resolutions as prepared by the committee and take action upon the same.

Blush Waters.

There is a great deal of talk at present about the high water in the Missouri river in former times. One gentleman yesterday was telling how a Mr. Maxwell, a former resident of this city, made a mark one night before going to bed to ascertain in the morning how high the water had risen during the night. He had a row boat fastened to the bank and he drove a nail into the outside of the boat, just at the water line. The river rose several inches during the night but failed to show any rise upon the boat, and it took Maxwell some time to solve the mystery.

Honored Guests.

It seems that some of Omaha's citizens, who are now at Hot Springs, Arkansas, are acquiring considerable military prominence. A few days since in that place from that city were received in Omaha by a number of persons, announcing the fact that Colonel Ed. Wittig, of Omaha, was in the city. Yesterday morning other marked papers from the same place were received, stating that Major Gottlieb Zimmerman, a prominent character of Omaha, had concluded to remain another week at the springs.

LIQUID LIGHT.

A Talk With General Manager Gibbs as to Water Gas.

About $100,000 to be Expended by the Company the Coming Year—The Advantages, Safety and Cheapness of the New Illuminator.

Mr. W. W. Gibbs, general manager of the United Gas Improvement company, of Philadelphia, has been in the city for several days past, and was visited by a Bee chronicler in his rooms at the Paxton hotel. The object of an interview with this gentleman was to learn what his company, which now has a large interest in the gas manufacturing works of this city, proposes to do for Omaha and its people. It will be remembered that in March, 1883,

A CHARTER WAS GRANTED to the company, of which Mr. Gibbs is manager, giving it authority and power to carry on the business of manufacturing gas and furnishing it for lighting purposes to the people of this city. Deeming it for the highest advantage of both parties and the city, the interests of the United Gas Improvement company and the Omaha Gas Manufacturing company were consolidated in June, 1883. This consolidation took place and the work under it has been carried on under the charter of the old company. Since June of last year this company has expended over $60,000 in the way of improvements, and in December manufactured the first water gas ever used in this city. Since then the PRICE OF GAS HAS BEEN REDUCED $1.00 per thousand, and the quality improved. "How much will your company expend in the way of improvements this summer?" was asked of Mr. Gibbs.

His contemplated improvements involve the expenditure of $100,000, but their full benefits will not be appreciated until nearly the close of the year. The reason for the delay in making these additions is the necessity of keeping up a supply of gas. Consequently the old machinery cannot all be replaced at once. In all of these PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS the Omaha Gas company or parties in interest have concurred fully, and they are anxious to do everything possible to improve the quality and lessen the cost for the benefit of consumers. Assurance can be given them that they will derive every possible advantage that could have been secured had the new company built competing works. The gas which the company proposes to furnish the people of Omaha is such as is now largely used in New York, Baltimore and cities of importance in the east.

THE SAFETY OF THE NEW GAS. "What is the safety in the manufacture and consumption of water gas as compared with other illuminating gases?" "In its consumption this new gas is as safe in every particular as that made from coal, and the danger in manufacture is less, there being much less liability to accident and explosion, and the people of this city will learn after using it that my statement is true. In a short time gas will be manufactured in such quantities that all demands can be supplied. The present contemplated improvement, when completed, will have a manufacturing capacity three times that of the old works before the new company began to operate them."

THE QUALITY. "What is the quality of this new gas, and what will its ultimate cost be?" "Its quality as we now are manufacturing it is as good as the best and when our machinery is completed it will be far superior. In cost it will be as cheap or cheaper than in any other city with an equal cost of material and manufacture. During this year we contemplate the laying of over TEN MILES OF NEW MAIN PIPES, and replacing those in the main streets that are now too small so that when the streets are once paved there will be no difficulties from that source and the further necessity of tearing up the streets. The means to make these changes and improvements, will all come from the east, and will make no small portion of the money expended in Omaha this summer. Ever since the new company has taken possession of the works it has been constantly making changes. The defects in our gas if any have or should appear are due only to these changes which are going on continually and will entirely disappear when fully completed."

GAS FOR FUEL. "Will gas be furnished by your company for any other than illuminating purposes?" "Gas will be furnished by us when our improvements are fully made, in such quantities and in such a manner that it will make a cheaper and more satisfactory fuel than any that can be used here. Our company is now furnishing to San Francisco 200,000 feet daily for this same purpose, and its demand in that city is rapidly and constantly increasing. We will also furnish GAS FOR MOTIVE POWER, and intend that it shall be able to supply all the small engines and boilers in the city thereby removing all dangers of explosions from that source, and the capacity of our works will be made with that object in view."

AN ANSWER WANTED. "Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not cure?" "I have great pleasure in stating that regard Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, as the best remedy in the world for Coughs and Colds. It has never failed to cure the most severe colds I have had, and invariably relieves the pain in the chest."

TRIAL BOTTLES for this cure are for all Throat and Lung Diseases may be had Free at C. F. Goodman's Drug Store. Large size, $1.00.

SA CONSIDERANCE. "One word more about 'the horse that disappeared from in front of the doctor's door,' and is now at home all right. The animal belonged to Richard Carpenter, who died Sunday night at 912 North Sixteenth street at the same time Bishop Clarkson died. "HE GIVETH HIS BELOVED SLEEP"

The Body of Bishop Clarkson Laid in the Silent Tomb.

A Number of Bishops in Attendance—Order of Exercises.

The last sad rites were performed over the body of the late Bishop Clarkson yesterday afternoon.

At 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon holy communion was celebrated, at the cathedral, Rev. Bishop Vail, of Kansas, officiating. At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon the funeral procession left the house in the following order:

The procession was headed by Mayor Chase; members of city council; vestries of churches not of this city; the vestry of St. Barnabas; St. Mark's and cathedral churches; the lay members of the cathedral chapter; the visiting clergy; the diocesan clergy; the cathedral clergy. The casket containing the remains was carried upon the shoulders of eight strong men, workmen who helped construct the cathedral.

The casket was of red cedar, covered with black brocade. It was perfectly plain, and long black bar handles, trimmed with gold, were upon the sides and ends of the case, while the inside was trimmed with plain cream colored satin. The casket was covered with a purple pall on which was a large white cross.

Following the remains were carriages containing the family and friends. Reaching the cathedral door, the casket was placed upon a bier, and was carried in front of the altar by Rev. Dr. MacNamara, Rev. Dr. Goodale, Rev. Dr. Oliver, Rev. Mr. Shaw, Gen. Mead, Mr. H. G. Clark, Judge Wackerly, J. M. Woolworth, Esq.

Bishop McLaren, of Chicago, Hare, of Southern Dakota, Spalding, of Colorado, Brown, of Fond du Lac, Vail, of Kansas, Robertson, of Missouri, and Walker of Northern Dakota, were present and took part in the obsequies.

After the services the burial took place on the south side of the church.

THE FAST MAIL. The Through West Mail Hereafter to be Taken Out Omaha on the Denver.

An important order, by which points along the Union Pacific road will have the benefit of the fast mail from New York, was yesterday received by Chief Clerk Griffin. Hereafter the postal car of the Denver train will run through direct to Ogden instead of Denver. From Julesburg the mail for Denver carried on this train will be taken to that city by express. The postal car of the overland train instead of going to Ogden, will in the future go to Denver. It will be seen from this that the past order of things has been exactly reversed. The former Denver mail car going to Ogden and the former Ogden mail car going to Denver.

If this change were not made, all through western mail would be in Omaha from 8 a. m. of one day to noon of the next. It is claimed by those in the postal service that this change shortens the mail carrying time between New York and San Francisco 33 hours, but the exact nature of this calculation cannot be fully comprehended. This action on the part of the postoffice department will make a call for additional tonnage for which, it is claimed, is now too small, but as yet no appointments have been made.

THE OREGON SHORT LINE has made arrangements to make connections with this postal car over the U. P. so that the mail for all points northwest of Granger will arrive at its destination 24 hours earlier than heretofore.

ANOTHER WHOLESALE ESTABLISHMENT. Fay & Co., formerly of Minneapolis, Minn., will open a wholesale confectionery, cigar and fruit business, in a few weeks, at the old stand of Piercey & Bradford on Farnam street.

A Saloon-Keeper's View of the Liquor Traffic. Editor Omaha Daily Bee: In your Tuesday's issue you presented a very readable article in regard to enforcing the restrictions on the liquor traffic against "disorderly resorts, dens and low dives." While I as a saloon-keeper speak only for myself, I believe I voice the sentiment of all the better class of men in this business in our city when I substantially endorse the main features of your article.

Saloon-keeping is certainly a legitimate business, and, if properly conducted, should be as respectable as any other. A necessity for well-regulated institutions of this character seems to exist in society, and is found among the high as well as its lower strata. It is a branch of business that has reached immense proportions, and needs the guardianship, direction and protection of the law as does the society, without the patronage of which the society could not exist. I believe that saloon keepers are human beings, and that the voice of nature commands them as well as all other individuals to rest one day in seven and spend it with their families in social and religious intercourse. I believe they should close their places of business, and they and their clerks and their patrons also should go to bed every night in the week at least at 12 o'clock sharp; and that the peace, good order and the general welfare of a city require that these rules should be strictly and religiously enforced by the strong arm of the law, and that no partiality should be shown in its administration. This would be worse than no law and would be placing in the hands of the low and disreputable a leverage over those who are law-loving and law-abiding. They have a heavy burden to pay towards the support of the government, and should be under heavy bonds and restrictions, which in many cases amount to prohibition; his life is not an easy one, and his hours of labor are long and arduous. He comes in contact with the world in its off-hours, in its hours of relaxation. When the social amenities and business restraints are laid aside, with men of every character and disposition, and when, if ever, they are disposed to be a little warmer. He, like all others, is engaged in the great struggle of life for an existence, and as far as the law goes, has at least a right to claim protection, equality, and an impartial administration. The law regulating the traffic is very severe at best, but if it has lodged any discretionary power with the authorities, I believe that Mayor Boyd was right in giving it a liberal construction. E. D. PRATT.

AFTER HER MAN. A Woman Giving Chase to Her Run-away Husband.

At the Union Pacific depot yesterday noon was a little woman with dark hair and eyes. She was neatly but plainly dressed, and by her actions, attracted the attention of a Bee reporter and it was evident that she had a history which would be of interest to many. Upon being approached she was perfectly willing to talk, and said that away back in the east she had accepted the attentions of a young man, and, at last, married him, much against the wishes of her friends and relatives, because she loved him and had reason to believe that he loved her, but alas, her happiness was short lived, for they had been married but a short time when he tired of her, and one day left for parts unknown. After much inquiry she ascertained that he had come to Nebraska, and later learned that he was teaching school at or near Millard.

She determined to come out and face him and demand an explanation of his conduct. Her parents wanted to send out a man with a shotgun to hunt up the monster, but the little woman preferred to meet him herself.

At the depot in this city she was joined by a constable and a lawyer of this place and they tried to persuade her to remain in Omaha while they went to Millard and brought the man to this city, but no. She said, "I want to face him where he is, and from the glow of her dark eyes it was probably a very unhealthy affair for the man who promised to love, cherish and protect her through life, and cherish her."

They departed on the noon train and will probably return in the morning.

A New Law Firm. Hon. S. B. Gale, Seymour G. Wilcox and C. F. Harrison have formed a co-partnership in the practice of the law, under the firm name of Gale, Wilcox & Harrison, and have taken offices in the Omaha National Bank building.

Those who are acquainted with these gentlemen need not be told that the firm combines talents and professional qualifications of a high order, and that no business entrusted to them will be promptly and satisfactorily transacted.

Mr. Gale has won an enviable reputation throughout the state as an able and successful lawyer, having practiced many years at the state capital.

Mr. Wilcox came into the state three or four years ago from Rochester, New York, where he had followed his profession, bearing high testimonials from eminent men of that state, and located in Clay county, where he was speedily accorded a position in the front rank of the best lawyers of that section of Nebraska. Dealing a field affording greater activity in his profession, he concluded to locate here.

Mr. Harrison pursued the study of the law for a protracted time with Hon. John S. Woolson, of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, and completed here his course of study preparatory to his admission to the bar. He is a young man of sterling qualities of head and heart, possesses a fine well-cultured legal mind, and no prediction would be made that he will not be recognized as an able lawyer and as one of the strong men of the state.
