

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Wednesday Morning, July 16

Subscription Rates: By Carrier... By Mail...

Office: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

See J. Reiter's summer goods. The boys in blue are to have a rally in the court-house this evening.

There are sixteen prisoners now in the county jail, and all "longtimers." Permit to wed, has been granted John Quick and Minnie Lee Seward, both of Hancock.

The circuit court is to open on the 18th of August. The last day of service is August 7.

G. W. Blevens asks for a divorce from Francis V. Blevens, claiming adultery on her part as a justification.

Wm. Gibson was on one of his periodical sprees yesterday, and was sent to the county jail by Justice Abbott to sober up.

A moonlight picnic in Fairmount park to-morrow evening is being arranged by Gus. Covatt, Harry Ward and Frank Witherall.

Mrs. Tucker who broke her left collar bone a few days since, by being thrown off a pony is reported as doing nicely under the circumstances.

One drunk was run in yesterday by Officer O'Brien. He refused to give any name except "Macedonia," and was accordingly hooded by that appellation.

Mary E. Atkinson was to be freed from S. R. Atkinson, in law as she is in fact, she claiming that he deserted her and her four children in 1880. They were married in Ohio in 1854.

By a stock report of the New York market it appears that only six railroads are quoted above par, and four of these are roads leading into Council Bluffs, having their termini here.

The item is going the rounds of the press in the east as well as in the west, that in the police headquarters in Council Bluffs is posted up the notice: "No loafers allowed here, except police."

The two men, one colored and the other white, arrested on the Fourth for picking pockets, have been held to await the order of the grand jury and not being able to give bail are lodged in the jail.

The directors of the driving park association have decided to hold no fair this fall, on account of the heavy losses caused by the storm which blew down the exposition building. They will have the races as usual, and hope to make money enough to enable them to rebuild for another season so as to hold a fair next year.

Ex-Chief Templeton yesterday left for Missouri Valley to visit his brother-in-law, W. H. Campbell, who is boss car repairer at the station. On Monday night Mr. Campbell was just about to get off the top of a freight car when another car was "kicked" down against it, the sudden jar of which knocked him off, breaking both legs.

The case which has been pending before Justice Schurz was yesterday decided by the issuing of a writ of custodia against Dr. Cross ordering him to vacate the house in dispute. The decision was to the effect that Dr. Cross' claim against the Ballard estate must be settled in the probate court, and could not in the proceedings before the justice be allowed as an offset for the delinquent rent.

This evening the democracy expect to have a grand ratification meeting at the opera house. General Thayer, of Warsaw, N. Y., an old friend of Wells Cook, of this city, is to speak. The General has relatives at Red Oak whom he has been visiting, as he was still going further west, Mr. Cook and others improved the chance of getting him to speak here. He is said to be an orator in the live sense. Judge Savage, of Omaha, is also expected to speak this evening, so that there is the promise of a rousing time.

The rear wall of the old court house is getting more and more out of line, and there is now apparent danger of its falling. Jailor Schoutz, whose nerves are not even shaken when the boys fire a cannon firecracker under the hammock in which he is sleeping, is uneasy about that wall, and says that unless something is done he will have to get an accident insurance policy on the prisoners. Now that the board of health has been so prompt in condemning the Methodist church as unsafe, why does it not condemn the court house?

In an exchange appears the following bona fide notice of an engaged fruit grower: "I hereby strictly notifies the public, that I have closed the gates to the access of my blackberry patch. And if said parties be caught trespassing upon said premises, is guilty of misdemeanor. And will be dealt with to the utmost penalty of the law." Geo. R. Beard, who has been severely tried by boys pilfering his orchard, should fire some such formidable weapon as this at them. It might do more than the police.

The man who claimed to have been robbed of $200 at the dummy depot here Saturday night turned up in Omaha Monday and there told a different story in regard to the matter, claiming that he was robbed in front of the Pacific house, and that he thought the thief was a gentlemanly looking fellow with whom he got acquainted in the hotel. In justice to the reputation of the Pacific house it is no more than right to correct the statement. The fellow was not robbed in front of that hotel, and so far as known was not at or in the hotel at any time. He was drinking and showing his money freely and foolishly, and was warned that he would lose his money, but gave no heed, and wandered off down the street to the dummy depot in company with a worthless fellow, who has before been arrested for robbery, and who bears a poor reputation. A man who acts thus cannot expect to keep his money.

WINNING HIS WAY.

A Chat With Our Next-Door Neighbor.

Next door to THE BEE office, on Pearl street is a quiet, unostentatious old gentleman, who always greets the caller with a happy smile, and a warm, honest grasp of the hand. That old gentleman, bearing his sixty odd summers with little apparent touch of the winters, happy in his ways, and with no mock dignity in his manners is Dr. Rice, whose name has become a family one indeed, not only in this city, but in many parts of the west, where the mention of his name arouses in many hearts the grateful recollection of pain relieved, health restored, and life prolonged by his ministrations.

Yesterday THE BEE man dropped into the doctor's reception room for a little chat. As usual, although early in the morning there were several patients there, most of them being under treatment for cancerous troubles, in the removal of which the doctor has been so successful.

One of the patients was from the eastern part of the state, an intelligent man of middle age, whose face was being rapidly eaten away by a cancer, when he placed himself under Dr. Rice's treatment about ten days ago. One portion of the cancerous trouble had been already removed and was in a bottle, a preserved proof of what had been done. The condition of the face showed how well the work of removing the rest was progressing, and the gentleman expressed himself as wonderfully pleased with the progress being made.

Another gentleman well known in this city, was in the office. There was a plaster on the back of each hand, and removing one of these, there appeared a little black spot, as if he had barked a little bit of skin off by accidently hitting his hand. "You would hardly believe that I had almost as had a cancer there, as you see on that man's face, would you?" It did not seem possible, but the assurance was given that such was the case. The skin had formed clean and clear, and appeared healthy as that of a babe. The other hand was also about cured.

Another patient, a lady, was just in to see the doctor about the finishing touches of a successful treatment, a large large cancer having been removed by him a short time before. This too had been added to the collection of bottled proofs of the doctor's skill, which were ranged upon the shelves of his cabinet. This lady was no less enthusiastic than the others.

"You remove all these without any knife, or without drawing blood, doctor?" "Yes sir, it's the only true way of treating them. I give my patients a constitutional treatment, by which all of the organs are put in a healthy condition, so that there is no more poison to feed these cancerous and fungus growths, and a cancer or tumor starves to death. I cure sloughs off and drops out, just as a dead leaf falls from a tree, or a tree falls when deprived of its roots or feeders."

The doctor explained quite at length the philosophy of his treatment, and it appeared that he had thought, studied, and investigated, while the many evidences in the form of tumors and cancers removed, all of patients now healthy and hearty, served to demonstrate that it was not all theory by any means.

"Some of those who want to tear down science, instead of building it up, and some who get a little jealous of my success, tell all sorts of things about me. They say I have pieces of beefsteak bottled up for cancers, and they tell all sorts of stuff, but," he added with a merry laugh, "I can stand it I guess. You can see for yourself whether that is beefsteak or not. It certainly did not look as tempting as beef, and the inquirer was content to accept them for cancers."

"Yes," spoke up one of the patients. "I was sitting at the hotel when a certain doctor in town commenced talking to me and asking me what ailed my hands. I told him it was cancer, and that Dr. Rice was curing them. He laughed, and said it was all nonsense, and that there never was such a thing as a cancer on the back of a man's hand. Well I had the whip on him, I just told him 'Doctor, I guess you forgot me, I was in your office before I went to Dr. Rice's and you looked at my hands and said they were cancers, and you wanted $50 down to commence treating them. Then I went to Dr. Rice and he not only treated but cured me.' The doctor sort of slunk away then, and didn't have anything more to say about cancers or Dr. Rice."

Dr. Rice has been here about ten years, and unlike those who jump into a town, stay a week or two, blow big, rake in the duca, dup the people and are gone, he is a "stayer," a permanent resident here, and whatever may be said of methods or particular schools of medicine, what the suffering want is to be cured, and there are hundreds in this city, and the west, who seem ready to testify to the skill shown by Dr. Rice in their own cases. Success is winning further success for him, and now the sufferers are drawn to him from east, west, north, and south. He does not pretend that he has found a better way of treatment and cure than has heretofore been known, and no better evidence of this can be had than that the living forms are now freely spoken now of scores of our citizens.

How It Happened. To the Editor of THE BEE. Pardon me for trespassing on your valuable space. Having received communications from different parts of Iowa asking particulars of the first attempt to enforce the prohibition law in Council Bluffs, I wish to state the facts in the case.

By the advice of the Attorney, the plans were for the officers to go in each saloon where they had search warrants, and seize all liquors that were found therein. As they were strangers, I volunteered to go with them and show them all the saloons they had search warrants for with them, and showed them every saloon I did not go in, as I had nothing to do further than to point them out.

The last saloon we visited was the Phoenix. When the officer came out of the Phoenix he said: "We have done all we can do now. We will now go and get some breakfast and leave town." I walked with them as far as the corner of First avenue and Sixth street. I there left them.

It was a grand mistake in the officer expecting the temperance men to assist him in performing his duties. There was no such arrangement made or thought of by the temperance men of this city. The temperance men of Council Bluffs expect to close up the saloons by law and not by violence. If we have met with a Bull Run defeat in the commencement, we expect to meet with a Richmond victory in the end.

Respectfully, A. OVERTON.
