ASKING TOO MUCH.

The southwestern cattlemen propose to make a raid on congress for a gigantic subsidy, in the shape of a cattle trail from Texas to the northern grazing regions.

It makes a great difference whose ox is gored. The democratic organ of Colorado shouts for tariff reform and advocates radical protection for the silver miners of the state.

It is the recent rich silver discoveries in Georgia, Michigan and Minnesota that excite the public mind to such an extent.

The Council Fire, a journal published at Washington in the interest of the Indians, continues to hammer away at Dr. McGillicuddy, the Indian agent at Pine Ridge.

The city physician has very properly called the attention of the council to the filthy condition of the alleys, and some thorough system of cleaning should be immediately adopted.

The Western Union telegraph company has just declared 1 per cent quarterly dividend on its $80,000,000 of stock.

The butchers of Omaha continue to charge outrageously high prices for meats, although there is not the slightest reason for it.

Hardly a day passes without an impromptu nook-tie sociable in some part of the country. The number of lynchings are more numerous by at least two to one than legal executions.

That she should permit hundreds of people within her borders to suffer, and depend on the liberality of individuals to relieve the sufferings of her poor.

This reduction of the wages of the telegraph operators by the Western Union telegraph company is liable to cause some trouble, but whether a strike will be the result is not yet positively known.

It is reported that fifty years ago a Russian general deposited 50,000 rubles in the Imperial bank of Russia, which was to accumulate till 1925.

A JOINT resolution has been introduced in the house by Mr. Cox proposing an appropriation of $100,000 for the completion of the Bartholdi statue of liberty.

The Silver Kings of Colorado and the west will meet in convention in Denver next month to discuss ways and means to boost the cart-wheel dollar into greater popularity.

PHILADELPHIA is jealous of the elevation of the Washington monument. The status of William Penn on the tower of the new public building in that city is a few feet lower, and it is now proposed to elevate William's head so that he can tip his beaver to George at an equal height.

The railroad men take a jaunty view of the relations of their roads to the farmers and the markets. President Cable, of the Rock Island, was reported in our New York dispatches of Saturday as expressing his jubilation over the case with which the railroads were restoring rates on farmers' produce where they had been out, and in keeping them generally up to the almost prohibitory figure to which the pools have succeeded in forcing them.

With all the boasted wealth and generosity of Ohio it is unaccountably strange that she should permit hundreds of people within her borders to suffer, and depend on the liberality of individuals to relieve the sufferings of her poor.

The decrease of the republican majority in Iowa over the combined democratic and greenback vote by nearly 30,000 in four years is a phenomenon so significant to be ignored.

How much the railroads do take out of the prices received by the farmer the Tribune is taking pains to show. In our issues of Saturday and Monday we published the compiled results of numbers of dispatches from our special correspondents in Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa.

At a majority of the interior points the check of competition cannot be applied. The only other check possible for the rapacity of these corporations is regulation of the charges by legislation.

Give the Eagle a Chance. Philadelphia Press. Richelieu Robinson, the spread-eagle and the eagle, proposes that congress shall see to it that the eagle shall be the national emblem next March.
