

LOCAL CRIME.

A Man Robbed by a "Decoy Duck" - A Baffled Pilot.

Monday night, a stranger, name unknown, was stopping at the home of Jane Welch, on the bottom north of the Union Pacific bridge. He had been escorted thither by a Council Bluffs crook. Both retired at an early hour. When Mr. Stranger awoke in the morning he found that the Bluffs had gently disappeared, and was no longer by his side. Whether he had gone no one knew, though it was certain that he had taken with him the stranger's gold watch and chain, together with his overcoat. This plundered man spent a number of hours yesterday, in company with a detective, scouring the town for his recaptured bed-fellow.

BAFFLED FOOT PAIR.

Officer McBride is authority for a story of defeated thugism. John Bryson, resident near Bellevue, was passing the tracks near Jones street Monday night, when he was attacked by two ruffians, who jumped at him, sand-bagged him and knocked him down. The victim's cries for assistance reached the ears of a crowd of railroad men who were in the vicinity. They rushed across the tracks just in time to prevent the robbery. Bryson had some $300 in money on his person, and a gold watch and chain.

PEULATION AND SPECULATION. A Novel Scheme - A Broker With Special Capital - The Defaulting Brewery Collector.

Yesterday a member of the dry goods firm of Ekeley, Carlson & Co., of Wahoo, was in the city on business connected with the recent loss that firm has just suffered.

For three years past there has been in the employ of Ekeley, Carlson & Co. a young man, by name Gunderson, who has been handling their books. He was looked upon by his employers as a most exemplary youth, honest and reliable to a degree. All went well until the firm began to suspect that the receipts from the business were too small. A careful search was instituted, but the reason for suspected deficit was not discovered. Finally suspicion rested upon Gunderson as the one who could, if forced, explain the falling off in the cash receipts from the business. A close watch was placed upon him, and at length, one day last week, he was detected in the fact, the evidence of his guilt being overwhelming. He was immediately arraigned by his employer. The embroiling clerk broke down, and confessed his crime to the fullest extent. He said that he had been stealing from the coffers of the firm for three years, almost from the first moment he had been in their service. How much he had stolen he did not know, though he thought it would not fall far short of $5,000 or $6,000. Immediate restitution was demanded by the firm. Gunderson at once drew a check for $1,200 which he had deposited in a Farmers' bank, which amount represented, he said, all the cash he had in his possession. But the queerest part of the story is to follow. It seems that Gunderson, being of a thrifty turn, did not waste the results of his long continued peculation in wine, fast women, or fast horses. Instead, he prudently hoarded it up, until he had saved enough to give him a comfortable start as a money-lending broker. He had lent various sums to different parties in the county and town, taking notes and mortgages. In this manner he had succeeded in drawing the interest on the results of his crime. These papers and notes he produced for the astonished firm, endorsed them and turned them over to Carlson & Ekeley. The whole sum that he required will probably amount to about $2,600 with interest, and will not more than half cover the loss of the firm in all probability. Gunderson, while the members of the firm were absorbed in the question of "profit and loss," skipped out and has not since been arrested.

A LOCAL CASE.

Another embroilment has been reported in this city, though the attendant circumstances are more common place. For some time there has been in the employ of Krug, the brewer, a young man the name of John Surbuchen, who has been acting in the capacity of a driver, doing as well, considerable collecting for the brewery. He has always been regarded as trust worthy and reliable. Yesterday morning he went to work as usual, but did not report at night. He must have absconded during the day; just when is not known. So far as can be roughly estimated the firm has been swindled to the amount of several hundred dollars, though the accounts have not been "checked up" yet. Surbuchen is supposed to be in the western part of the state. The case has been placed in the hands of Detective Neligh.

The Oklahoma Boomers.

CALDWELL, Kan., January 27.-It is reported that Capt. Cronch's colony has surrendered and is now en route to Arkansas City, under escort of Capt. Moore's detachment of troops. Seven hundred and fifty soldiers will arrive to-morrow and Thursday, but will probably not enter the field if it proves true that the boomers are vacating the territory. Fifty teams have been loaded with government stores for Stillwater and Camp Ross in 24 hours and another train will load out to-morrow. Major Gills of the quartermaster department of the Missouri, arrived to-day. General Augur will be here on Thursday to look the situation over. A three-inch field piece with shell is expected to-morrow from Fort Leavenworth, with four troops from that point. All streams below here in the Indian territory are from solid, and heavy freight teams are crossing daily. The country is well supplied with all supplies and communication with Hach and the boomers. No recruits have left for Cronch's camp in ten days. The boomers have decided some days ago that Hatch would move the army and they refused to join Cronch or send him aid.

Desperate Fight Over a Widow.

QUERES, January 27.-A desperate encounter between two suitors for the hand of a widow, occurred in the country near Lewis. The parties are all residents of this city. The men had seconds and began to fight with pistols, but finding that method slow drew knives, and hacked each other until separated. The man in the hospital with a bullet hole through his hip and several knife thrusts through his body. The other's wounds are not so serious. The affair which has just come to light will be subject to a trial. Their names cannot be learned to-night.

Brilliant Reception to President-Elect Cleveland.

AKRON, January 27.-The reception given to-night at Fort Hamilton to President-Elect Cleveland, Governor Hill, state officials and legislators was beyond all question, the most distinguished social gathering ever held in Ak-

Jeff and Verard Davis Showering Over the Liberty Bell.

An Apostrophe to the Cracked but Sacred Bells of the Revolution.

NEW ORLEANS, January 27.-When train bearing the Liberty Bell drew up at Beauvoir yesterday afternoon Verard Davis was lifted to the bell, which he warmly clasped and kissed, exclaiming, "God bless the dear old bell!" The president was greeted with cheers. Mr. Davis himself soon drove up and Frank Bacon, U. S. Commissioner for Kansas, greeting him, said, "Mr. Davis, in behalf of the United States commissioners representing different states and territories of our common country, joined by the great common industries, extend you a cordial invitation to join in person to New Orleans and to the exposition grounds the old Liberty Bell as generously loaned us by the City of Brotherly Love."

Mr. Davis replied as follows: "I feel most deeply complimented by this reception and expressions that accompany it. I was sick in bed when the notice reached me and I immediately arose when I heard that glorious old bell was at the station. I thank you and your associates, and I trust that your anticipation of the harmonizing tendencies of the lives of the old bell across the states of the union, some of which have sprung into existence when its tones first filled the air, may in every respect be fully realized. I think the time has come when reason should be substituted for passion and when men who have fought in support of their honest convictions should do justice to each other. You, sacred bells, have given us the proudest of declarations that a handful of men ever made, when they faced the greatest military power on the globe; when a handful of men declared to the world that they were able rights and staked life, liberty and property in defense of this declaration, then it was with your clear tones you sent notice to all men were willing to give their lives and felt the day was at hand when every patriot must do a patriot's duty. Glorious old bell, the son of a revolutionary soldier bows in reverence to you by time, but increasing in sacred memories."

"Mr. President, accept my thanks which are heartfelt and sincerely given."

WESTERN NEWS.

DAKOTA. The banking capital of Dakota amounts to $7,300,000. There are forty women acting as bank cashiers in Dakota. The total of Dakota's bonded indebtedness amounts to $30,000,000. Appropriation bills aggregating $30,000,000 have been introduced in the legislature so far.

During the last fiscal year 11,000,000 acres of public lands were disposed of in the territory. The people of Mandan are awaiting a prospect of building a railroad to the Black Hills.

Dakota laws require the attendance for twelve weeks in each year of all children of school age.

The coal men are still prospecting near Yankton and claim to be meeting with satisfactory results.

The Hiram Tribune says there are four miles of steam pipe and five tons of carpet in the new capital building.

The county commissioners of Union county concluded their investigation of the county treasurer's books and found him to be $18,000 short.

The legislature, now in session at Bismarck, is quite a formidable body. The council contains a membership of twenty-four and the house forty-eight - a total of seventy-two.

During the year 1884, 3,900 acres of the public lands were entered in the land district south of the forty-sixth parallel. South of the same line 140 postoffices, seven daily and seventy-nine weekly newspapers were established.

WYOMING. Mayor Carey of Cheyenne was handsomely cased on his retiring from office.

Sloan Lake, Cheyenne's summer resort, was recently stocked with 5,000 young white fish.

High headed variety shows will be fashionable in Cheyenne the present year. There are four hundred men in the city council.

Last business at the Cheyenne and Union county is unanimously given to the belief that the timber-culture and pre-emption laws will be repealed.

The miners at Carbon are still holding out on the general strike of the United Pacific coal company not acceding to their demands for an advance of 25 cents on a ton.

The Hellman & Rutledge ditch company have 100,000 acres of land fenced in at their place on Horse creek and the irrigating ditch is twenty-seven miles in length.

The shipments of coal from the Rock Springs mines during 1884 varied from 1,248 cars in July to 2,412 cars in December, the total shipments during the year amounting to 21,870 cars.

At a sale of condemned government property at Camp Carbon, two dozen monster syringes brought 50 cents each, 200 bed springs were knocked down for $5, 40 horse blankets netted $4, an ambulance $30 and one horse $40.

Albert Reemer, a miner, was instantly killed in a cave in the Cheyenne mines last week. He had put in a shot, fired the fuse and waited some time for the explosion, which was delayed. He went to examine the blast when the explosion occurred with fatal effect.

Cheyenne is already congratulating itself on the belief that the Union Pacific will invest $70,000 on a new depot there this year. All the bowdlerizing shades of Byzantine architecture so harmoniously blended in the Omaha depot, including the draft, will doubtless be incorporated in the Cheyenne structure, and the magic city will rise up and call this company blessed.

A Wyoming cowboy describes his first dip of oysters as follows: "Gentlemen, I rounded up a half dozen head of oysters last night and had hardly carried them in my ranch when they began to merrily dance. They bobbed and bowed and climbed over each other and butted against the corral, and I came near being thrown. For about an hour I was sick in a lawned bed."

Henry Kinn, a new brakeman on the Union Pacific, met with a bad accident the other day. He was on top of the train with the back to the engine, and was struck on the head by the roof of the Wilson snow shed and knocked senseless on the roof of the car, where he lay until found several miles further on. He was taken into the caboose and revived, after which he was taken to Laramie. It seems singular that he did not roll off the car.

Cheyenne, Jan. 27.-The reports received at the office of the National Stockgrowers' association of the cattle on the range are decidedly favorable. Around Goshute there is now but little snow. Some still lies along the Platte and Snake. Bluffs in Nebraska; but aside from these spots, no considerable stretch of country is covered. The Texas "sandwich" which was rushed up here on cars last summer, and which has had a chance to become acclimated, have suffered some, but not so much as in previous seasons.

COLORADO. "Deep snow, nothing doing and no money" is a wall from Silverton. Mesa county claims to have raised forty bushels of corn per acre the past year. Some very valuable mineral has been struck lately in the properties around Bar-ko-ho.

Heads of cheap food at Grand Junction cow. The baker is having a great run, and fifty loaves are sold for $1. A Leadville man who accompanied his wife's remains to Chicago returned two weeks afterwards with a new bride. It is estimated by the state geologist that the cultivated area of the state lacks no more than 100,000 acres of being sufficient to supply the home demand.
