

MALARIA BROWN'S BITTERS THE BEST TONIC

COOK'S PATENT VERY BEST OPERATING QUICKEST SELLING AND MOST PERFECT COOKING STOVE

PRIVATE CHRONIC & NERVOUS DISEASES

ROYAL HAVANA LOTTERY DRAWN AT HAVANA CUBA EVERY 10 TO 14 DAYS

TOURN LOTS IN DENVER JUNCTION, WELD COUNTY, COLORADO

CONSUMPTION I HAVE A POSITIVE REMEDY FOR THE ABOVE DISEASE

AFINE LINE OF PIANOS & ORGANS WOODBRIDGE BROS

MUSIC HOUSE THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE IN OMAHA, NEB

COWING & CO. WROUGHT IRON PIPE

OMAHA SAVINGS BANK

Manhood Restored

THE LIBEL CASE. Further Evidence in the Slander Suit Against the Republican.

The Testimony All in and the Arguments of Counsel Commenced.

The libel suit of Mr. E. Rosewater against the publishers of the Republican was on trial yesterday morning and afternoon.

Subjoined is the testimony continued from Wednesday afternoon:

Cross-examination of Mr. Rosewater continued.

Q. Did the company reach to any northern points with their lines?

Q. It was purely a southern system of telegraph?

Q. It was a kind of a system, a good deal of the way could be used in union in its and rebel in rebel lines, and so far as their messages were concerned they were partly northern and partly southern.

Q. Was not this telegraph company purely and solely a southern system of telegraph?

Q. Did it reach into a single northern state with its own wires and lines?

Clifton in West Virginia. In November, 1861, I was commissioned captain and assistant quartermaster, and by order of the secretary of war appointed chief of all United States military telegraph operations at the war department. I remained in charge of the telegraph until mustered out after the war in 1865.

Q. Do you know whether or not the plaintiff was at any time during the war in the service of the United States government, and if he was, what was his home? State as fully as you can the services Mr. Rosewater had to perform?

A. I know that Mr. Rosewater was employed at various points as military telegraph operator. I do not know the exact dates. I do not now remember. I know he was employed in the war department while I was there. I should say some months. His services there were in the receiving and transmission of official dispatches by telegraph.

Q. State whether or not, if you know, Mr. Rosewater was ever in any way regarded as a confederate spy?

A. I never knew that he was regarded as a confederate spy.

Q. State what, if anything you know in regard to the exact dates and dates, I do not know the exact dates, I do not now remember.

A. I believed him to be a loyal man. I became acquainted with him first in Ohio before the war. I do not know how long in the military telegraph in any capacity, much less in the war department office if I had any doubt whatever about his loyalty.

Q. I was not taken charge of by any officer or parties of the union army at Nashville on the 22d of December, 1862, when I was vice-president of the local branch and have been ever since a member of the society of military telegraphers of the United States?

A. I was a member of the society of the United States Military Corps at the time when this publication was made; I was vice-president of the local branch and have been ever since a member of the society of military telegraphers of the United States.

Q. I did not know that he was generally known over the state?

Q. Did you insert it in the paper? A. I published it but not as an attack upon his character.

Q. Why did you insert that at that particular time? A. As a matter of news and comment.

Q. Is it true that you inserted it as a matter of news? A. It might be considered so, and in the other, comment.

Q. Let us look at the question of news--this was known and believed all over the state that he was a rebel spy?

Q. Did you believe that this was generally known over the state? A. Then, if generally known over the state why did you publish it as a matter of news?

A. I supposed there were a great many people who did not know it.

Q. And you published it with the design of informing all these people that didn't know it? A. I cannot say.

Q. Did you believe that this was generally known over the state? A. Then, if generally known over the state why did you publish it as a matter of news?

A. I supposed there were a great many people who did not know it.

Q. And you published it with the design of informing all these people that didn't know it? A. I cannot say.

Q. Did you insert it in the paper? A. I published it but not as an attack upon his character.

Q. Why did you insert that at that particular time? A. As a matter of news and comment.

Q. Is it true that you inserted it as a matter of news? A. It might be considered so, and in the other, comment.

Q. Let us look at the question of news--this was known and believed all over the state that he was a rebel spy?

Q. Did you believe that this was generally known over the state? A. Then, if generally known over the state why did you publish it as a matter of news?

A. I supposed there were a great many people who did not know it.

Q. And you published it with the design of informing all these people that didn't know it? A. I cannot say.

Q. Did you believe that this was generally known over the state? A. Then, if generally known over the state why did you publish it as a matter of news?

A. I supposed there were a great many people who did not know it.

Q. And you published it with the design of informing all these people that didn't know it? A. I cannot say.

NO. A BOOK AGENT. A Gallant General Undertakes to Be an Emmissary of Little Capid.

There is a general of local fame, who says through a very happy mistake, that in an hour a week or so ago. He had just returned from the east. There he made the acquaintance of a young gentleman who is engaged to be married to a very charming Oakland girl. The truth, that always is the necessary of separation of loves, burned in the young man's breast, and he took the opportunity, when the general was leaving, to load him down with messages of love and a book for his finances.

The gallant warrior undertook the commission with all willingness, and when he had rested from his trip, he started off one Sunday morning for Oakland, with the book under his arm. He sought out the address given him, for the young girl was a stranger to him, and, as he approached, he saw a lady seated on the steps of an Oakland villa. He opened the gate and walked in with an imposing martial air. She eyed him with an unfavorable look.

"You are Mrs. Jenkinson?" "I am." "I have here a book--" "I don't want any books."

"Is there a Miss Jenkinson?" "There is." "Is she at home?" "Yes." "I have here a book--" "Miss Jenkinson doesn't want any books."

"Hang it all, madam! I'm not a book agent. Your daughter's sweetheart in New York asked me to deliver this book to her with his love. I don't care a darn, whether she wants it or not. Here it is. Good day, madam."

Something to be Happy About. When a man is only a little better, he looks up and is more cheerful than he was. Mr. John W. Williams, of White Rock, Arkansas, had long been an invalid and a sufferer. He now writes: "I have been much pleased with Brown's Iron Bitters, and now believe that I am perfectly well. No physician could have secured a better result than that in his practice. To be had of any respectable druggist."

Four Pairs and a Honeymoon. There was a wedding ton in this direction the other day, and the happy couple were accompanied by three others. It was a sweet spectacle to see the four pairs promenading up Jefferson avenue with hands clasped and a taffy smile spread over every face, and hundreds of pedestrians stopped to gaze and admire. The porter of a wholesale house wasn't quite satisfied with what he could see, so he stopped the last couple and inquired: "Is it a case of love?" "You bet!" replied the young man. "Are they extremely happy?" "Just a-biling over, sir."

"Why don't you and this gal follow suit?" "I'm perfectly willin', but Sarah reckons on me. I've asked her over twenty times to have a go, but she says: 'Never! Never!' she firmly said aside rolled her end of gum to the other side for a moment. 'When a man takes me to a circus and crawls under the canvas to save expense, and then can't see the man with the lemonade nor the boy with the peanuts, I wouldn't hitch to him if I had to go out and set a bear trap to catch a partner!'"

Horford's Acid Phosphate. DECEMBER BENEFIT. DR. JOHN P. WHEELER, Hudson, N. Y., says: "I have given it with decided benefit in a case of imnutrition of the brain, from abuse of alcohol."

JACOBS OIL THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN

DOCTOR WHITTIER

MARRIAGE GUIDE

LOOSE'S EXTRACT Red Clover Blossom CURES Cancers

Scrofula

Erysipelas

WATERBURY'S IRON TONIC

A PERFECT SHOE FOR LADIES, MISSES & CHILDREN

Imported Beer

DRUXEL & HAU, UNDERTAKERS

Small text at the bottom of the page, likely containing publication information or legal notices.