

LINCOLN.

The Revision of the State Census Rapidly Nearing Completion. Pickings From the Departments in the State Capitol.

Orders to the G. A. R.—Progress of the Street R. ad—Personal and General Notes.

THE STATE CAPITAL. DOINGS OF THE DAY. Reported by The Bee's Bureau.

LINCOLN, Neb., August 3.—Superintendent Lane, of the census, is revising the state population by counties, cities and villages, and expects to have the entire report in by the last of the week, when he will have them printed and distributed throughout the state.

The secretary of state's office is running with a full force but light business, yet there is no time for seaside resorts. The secretary is watching board meetings and Capt. Winterstein, the deputy, is condescending from the warm weather.

In the land department the chief is watching the various crooks and turps taken by the wily who are disposed to gobble up the school lands, and so far has protected the people's domain from any serious infringement and don't propose to be salted even by Chicago parasites.

General orders have issued from the national and department headquarters, Grand Army of the Republic, requesting all persons to properly observe the 3rd day of August, and for all the most rooms to be draped and the usual badge of mourning to be worn by the comrades for sixty days.

The following has been issued: BEATRICE, July 28, 1885.—In order that the veteran cavalry corps may be able to make a good display we will be compelled to call on all comrades and citizens who will come to camp with teams, and will grant the use of the horses for dress parade and all other parades.

There will be no rough handling of horses. All old cavalrymen, if convenient, are requested to bring saddles and bridles with them to camp.

Any one furnishing horses who come with teams, who can, would be glad to have them bring saddles and bridles. All persons who will allow us to use their horses for the above occasion, we would be glad to have them notify Louis Achenbach, of Beatrice, as we would like to know how many horses we can secure for the reunion.

Q. M. Veteran Cavalry Corps of Nebraska. COL. CHARLES WOOSTER, Chief of Cavalry.

The state auditor is kept busy answering interrogatives regarding the standing and reliability of certain insurance companies doing business in the state and it certainly would be a great help to him if the companies would furnish him with printed postal cards with their standing printed thereon, otherwise they may not get as favorable report of themselves as they advertise themselves to be in.

The railroad commission have returned from their tour over the state and report everything in first-class order, both the railroads and the farmers and their Lincoln office will soon be running again in open order. All complaints should be addressed to the Lincoln office returnable within five days if not called for, so that business would not burden them up on the return of one of their ten days tours.

The difference between a farce and a comedy is hardly discernible so far as regards the railroad commission of Nebraska.

A healthy batch of plain drunks were before the police judge yesterday and one poor fellow was fined $7 and costs for vagrancy. This would indicate that the city needs a good deal of help on the streets or that the judge was somewhat out of humor or that he had concluded the dignity of the law should be vindicated. Such fines as this will produce a great many less vagrants.

The new street railway is making rapid progress in laying its track and will be ready to transport people to the state fair.

Charlie Jackson, the genial traveling man for Story & Camp, is spending a few days in the city with his wife. She will accompany him on his trip through Kansas.

John H. Mack returned Saturday from a two weeks' visit with his mother and friends at York.

Work at West Lincoln is progressing finely, two large pumps are at work in the wells and excavation for the new hotel has begun. Lots are being sold daily to parties who will build this summer or fall.

his high seat and report at headquarters he had been discharged. After completing his rounds, gentlemen went to the office, and while explaining the matter to the agent was called a liar by the ex-hostler, whom he proceeded to hit with consecutive strokes. During the scuffle packages were "piled" up generally, and as soon as the men could be separated both were allowed to cash in their time and look further, and no doubt for worse, for work.

SIM WANN WANTED. Startling Adventurers at Midnight on the Union Pacific Express.

Officers of Judge Lynch on the Look Out for a Well Known Desperado.

Correspondence of the Bee ON TRAIN, Aug. 1st, near Green River, Wyo.—At one o'clock this morning as the train neared Carbon station, Wyo., a body of armed men presented themselves and stated to the engineer that they should require the train to be delayed for a short time as they wished to examine every man on board to see if the man "Sim Wann" was there.

Ten of their number, armed to the teeth, preceded by a man having a rope already noosed, began their search. They looked into every nook, examining very carefully each person's face. They then came into the "Merlin" sleeping car, where there were four ladies sleeping. The man who overhauled me had an indescribably red face with blackened eyes. He stooped to touch me on the arm, looked in my face and said all right.

The ladies were very much startled at this unlooked for proceeding, but having assured them they meant no harm, their terror was somewhat subdued. The gang afterwards looked the emigrant car in the rear of the train and having satisfied themselves that their man had been taken off, they gave the signal to the conductor that the train might go. We started on our journey after thirty minutes delay.

Luckily for the manneled wretch, the sheriff in charge of him had taken him from the train at Laramie, as there were whisperings at Cheyenne that they would never be able to get him beyond Carbon. J. W. H.

Base Ball Tips. Manager Kay, of the Athletic park, is corresponding with the St. Joe and Leavenworth clubs, with a view to securing one of them for a series of games here Saturday and Sunday. It is quite probable that the Leavenworth club will be secured, as their manager has expressed a willingness to bring his nine here on reasonable terms.

The desire of the Hastings men to stake a thousand dollars on their pets will be speedily accommodated, so far as the efforts of backers of the home team are concerned. Monied men express a determination to raise the $1,000 purse for the U. P.'s, and inform the Hastingsites that they are ready for the contest.

It may be of interest to local admirers of the Hastings team to know that they were beaten at Denver Saturday by the club of that city, the score being 8 to 6. This is the second game of the present series that they have lost to the Denver club.

Roasting a Woman. Sunday night a B. & M. brakeman by name of E. W. Carpenter, telephoned to the city jail that Mr. and Mrs. Chaney White, a notorious couple living near the B. & M. round house, on the bottoms, were torturing a woman by roasting her over the fire. He said that he had attempted to rescue the woman, when the White-figs turned fiercely on him and drove him off.

Officer Matza went to the bottom Sunday, but could not find the place. Yesterday he went again, in company with Officer Crawford, and succeeded in arresting White and his wife. Both of them deny the truth of the story of torturing the woman, as told by the brakeman.

The Nebraska Light-Weight Downed Last evening at Higgins restaurant Mr. E. L. Miller, the champion light-weight pugilist of Nebraska, was presented with an elegant gold badge by his admiring Omaha friends. The presentation speech was made by Mr. Henry Parrish, of this city. The occasion was a pleasant one, very flattering to the professor, who, despite his culling, has proved himself a gentleman. He leaves to-day for Dubuque, Iowa.

Old Irony. Philadelphia Cal. The Omaha Bee calls the Omaha Republican a "junk shop sheet." There is old irony in this.

No Poison in the Pastry. An alarm of fire was announced from Fourteenth and C street in the afternoon. Two hose cars went to the scene, but the alarm proved to be false so far as the location was concerned, the fire being on East O street in a broom factory. No serious damage was done, however, and there is no knowledge of the origin of the fire.

Gertie Chamberlain was moved from the medical institute to the residence of Mr. Cummings, of this city, who is an eminent oculist on the Burlington road. Mr. Cummings and his wife will kindly care for the girl until matters can be amicably arranged.

Hit Four Times. The money wagon of the American express company, while making its regular rounds to the different banks of the city Saturday, was surrounded by four or five toughs who opened up a conversation with the driver. The gentleman who had charge of the wagon had stepped into the First National bank, and returning very sharply censured the driver for allowing any foolishness to take place about the wagon, as there was something over $20,000 in it, and, in fact, that it could not all be placed in the small safe used by the company in delivering the "fifty lars." The driver assented back, when he was told to get down from

Tate, under the name of Tat & White, attorneys at law, and about six months ago went home to his father's farm.
